THE laws and orders issued for the government of the reformed Church of England, and possessing authority to bind its members, may be arranged under the three heads of legislative, synodical, and mandatory; the first consisting of acts of parliament, the second of decrees of synods confirmed by the sovereign, and the third of royal mandates^a. It is evident that in all these cases the assent of the sovereign is indispensable: and in the language of law as well as of prerogative, the royal pleasure has been considered as the source of all church authority; and the different bodies that took part with the Crown in the enactment of ecclesiastical laws, were looked upon as advisers and counsellors, to be employed in their respective capacities according to the discretion of the sovereign. Thus king James I. in his proclamation^b of October 1603, respecting the alleged corruptions of the Church, says, "We will proceed according to the laws and customs of this realm, by advice of our council, or in our high court of parliament, or by convocation of our clergy, as we shall find reason to lead us:" in sir Edward Coke's Reports^c it is stated, "Albeit the kings of England derived their ecclesiastical laws from others, yet so many as were proved, approved, and allowed here, by and with a general consent, are aptly and rightly called the king's ecclesiastical laws of England:" and the twelve judges^d declared in the year 1604, that "the king, without parliament, might make orders and constitutions for the government of the clergy, and might deprive them, if they obeyed not^e."

^a This statement is consistent with the celebrated judgment of lord Hardwicke, in which it was ruled, that the canons of 1603, not having been confirmed by parliament, do not proprio vigore bind the laity. (2 Atkyns' Rep. 650). For synodical and mandatory acts, in matters ecclesiastical, though they cannot be enforced in all cases proprio vigore in courts of law, are still binding on every member of the church, as such, in foro conscientiæ. See Synodalia, Pref. p. xxv.

^e The same fact is expressed by archbishop Wake in the following manner: "I say it is in the power of the prince to make laws in matters ecclesiastical: and for the doing of this

Of these three classes of records the first must be collected by other hands, and the second cannot be included within the present undertaking. The remaining one has been compiled in the first instance, as bearing more directly upon the personal government of the Church, and possessing a more extensive range and operation than the others. Consisting, as it does, of specific orders, it not only comprises the records of its own particular class, but when taken with its natural accompaniments, includes also the practical measures of the other two, and exhibits them in their outward form and pressure. The present volumes accordingly contain Injunctions and Ordinances from the Crown and the Privy Council, together with such letters and orders, as being issued by archbishops or their representatives, possessed authority, whether direct or derivative, over the members of the church. Other papers have been added, wherever they seemed necessary, he may advise with his clergy, and follow their counsel, so far as he approves of it. Thus Charles the emperor made up his capitular; and thus any other sovereign prince may take the canons of the church and form them in such wise into an ecclesiastical law, as he thinks will be most for the honour of God and the good of his people." Appeal in behalf of the Supremacy, p. 115.

from the connection they had with important documents, or with the prominent features of our ecclesiastical history. So that the whole collection may be considered as representing the government of the Church, when she has come forth from her sanctuary, and is dwelling visibly and authoritatively among men.

The supremacy of the sovereign rests mainly upon the statute (1 Eliz. c. 1.), which “restored to the crown the ancient jurisdiction over the estate ecclesiastical and spiritual, and abolished all foreign powers repugnant to the same.” By that statute it is enacted, that “such jurisdictions, privileges, superiorities, and preeminences, spiritual and ecclesiastical, as by any spiritual or ecclesiastical power or authority have heretofore been, or may lawfully be, exercised or used for the visitation of the ecclesiastical state and persons, and for reformation, order, and correction of the same, and of all manner of errors, heresies, schisms, abuses, offences, contempts, and enormities, shall for ever be united and annexed to the imperial crown of this realm.” By another statute of the same period (1 Eliz. c. 2, §. 26.), the sovereign was empowered, with the advice of commissioners, or of the metropolitan, to ordain additional rites and ceremonies, to be of equal force and authority with those already ordained by act of parliament.

It would appear from the principal act of queen Mary^f, and the statutes repealed by it, that the pope's jurisdiction in England was comprised under the five^g following heads: 1. He was acknowledged as chief bishop of the Christian Church, with authority to reform and redress heresies, errors, and abuses within the same. 2. To him belonged the institution or confirmation of bishops elect. 3. He could grant to clergymen licenses of nonresidence, and permission to hold more than one benefice. 4. He dispensed in the canonical impediments of matrimony. 5. He received appeals from the spiritual courts. So that the supremacy of the crown in this respect may be summed up in the words of Hooker^h, after the following manner: "There is required an universal power which reacheth over all, importing supreme authority of government over all courts, all judges, all causes; the operation of which power is as well to strengthen, maintain, and uphold particular jurisdictions, which haply might else be of small effect, as also to remedy that which they are not able to help, and to redress that wherein they at any time do otherwise than they ought to do. This power being sometime in the bishop of Rome, who by sinister practices had drawn it into his hands, was for just considerations by public consent annexed unto the king's royal seat and crown. . . . Our laws have provided that the king's supereminent authority and power shall serve: as namely, when the whole ecclesiastical state, or the principal persons therein, do need visitation and reformation: when in any part of the church errors, heresies, schisms, abuses, offences, contempts, enormities, are grown, which men in their several jurisdictions either do not or cannot help: whatsoever any spiritual authority or power (such as legates from the see of Rome did sometimes exercise) hath done or might heretofore have done for the remedy of those evils in lawful sort (that is to say, without the violation of the law of God or nature in the deed done), as much in every degree our laws have fully granted that the king for ever may do, not only by setting ecclesiastical synods on work, that the thing may be their act and the king their motion unto it, but by commissioners few or many, who having the king's letters patents, may in the virtue thereof execute the premises as agents in the right, not of their own peculiar and ordinary, but of his supereminent power."

Large however, as is the field allowed by the statute for the exercise of the supremacy, its boundary is made more indistinct and at last vanishes in the distance, when we include within it the further range that was claimed and recognised at different periods of our history, under the title of the king's prerogative. It was decided in the well known case of *Cawdry*ⁱ, that the act of supremacy (1 Eliz. c. 1.) "was not a statute introductory of a new law, but declaratory of the old;" and that if it had never been enacted, "the king or queen of England might make such a commission as is there provided, by the ancient prerogative and law of England." So that independently of the powers acknowledged in the statute, there was yet in reserve within the capacious bosom of the common law an undefined authority, which, being similar in its character, might also be equal in its amount^k, to the omnipotence of Rome.

But there was one power conveyed by the statute that brought the supremacy of the crown into constant and daily contact with the people, and has therefore become a kind of epitome in which the history of its progress may most conveniently be read. It was enacted that the sovereign might appoint commissioners to exercise all manner of ecclesiastical jurisdiction, and to "visit, reform, redress, order, correct and amend, all such errors, heresies, schisms, abuses, offences, contempts and enor-

^k The royal supremacy was frequently asserted in its utmost extent by queen Elizabeth; as for instance in the following answer to a petition from the house of commons concerning reformation of discipline in the church, an. 1575. "Her majesty before the parliament had a care to provide in that case of her own disposition; and at the beginning of the session she had conference therein with some of the bishops, and gave them in charge to see due reformation; and if they should neglect or omit their duties therein, her majesty by her supreme power and authority over the church of England, would speedily see such good redress therein, as might satisfy the expectations of her loving subjects." D'Ewes' Journal, p. 257. This answer was "most thankfully and joyfully received by the whole house with one accord." The royal supremacy, whatever may be the extent of it, has since that time been often recognised and reserved in acts of parliament; as for instance, in the Conventicle Act, 22. Car. II. cap. 1. §. 18.

mities whatsoever, which by any manner of spiritual or ecclesiastical power, authority, or jurisdiction, can or may lawfully be reformed, ordered, redressed, corrected, restrained, or amended.”

With the exercise of this power, and with its natural consequences, were connected many of the civil grievances, and almost all the ecclesiastical contests, which, though treated with a bold and masculine defiance by the government of queen Elizabeth, were continually acquiring strength and system under the more feeble sway of her successors, and ultimately issued in the downfall of the house of Stuart, and the strict limitation of the prerogative.

The court of high commission, as established by queen Elizabeth in the first year of her reign, was constructed, with such variations only as the circumstances of the case required, after the plan adopted by her predecessor¹; who, although the same kind of commission had not been unknown in the reign of her brother Edward^m, had found a more effective model for it in the practice of the inquisition, and the tender mercies of her Spanish consort.

^m See N^o. XXV. vol. i. p. 102.

Large and indefinite in their description, the powers with which the court was provided were soon found to be weapons difficult to be wielded and easily eluded; and during the time of the two first protestant primates, Parker and Grindal, the court derived its efficiency more from the stern interference of the queen, than from the exactness of its own regulations or the energy of its judges. In the meantime it had already given rise to objections, and provoked an extent of opposition, which called for some immediate and decisive change in its proceedings. But a primate was then appointed, who was equal to the emergency, and with the support of his sovereign was ready and desirous to engage in it. In the year 1583, the first year of the primacy of archbishop Whitgift, a new commissionⁿ was issued containing express authority for administering the oath "ex officio" to the prisoner; and the court was provided with a series of questions, from whose scrutiny, at once minute and comprehensive, he could not possibly escape. The archbishop had seen the opposition prepared for him, and boldly came forth in person as the assailant; and though lord Burghley remonstrated against his interrogatories, and other members of the council were known to be favourable to the nonconformists, he had the cordial support of the queen, and his measures were successful. And this was the first instance in which the authority of the church, so recently established, was brought to a trial of its strength, and in this instance every external circumstance was in its favour.

We might reasonably expect, as well from this example of success, as from the natural conditions of the case, that the other great epochs in the history of ecclesiastical jurisdiction would be found in the times of able and resolute Primates. And such were Bancroft and Laud, fitly compared with Whitgift in the extent of their learning and the firmness of their character, but thrown, and especially the latter of them, upon periods of much greater peril, and engaged in the cause of masters much less powerful to protect them.

Many were the devices by which in process of time it was sought to break the authority or to evade the sentence of this formidable court. It had inflicted the punishment of deprivation upon Clergymen for refusing to observe the Order of the Common Prayer; and these decisions were called into question, as a different penalty was imposed upon the offence by the Act of Uniformity. But it had been determined in the case of Cawdry^o that the ecclesiastical supremacy was appurtenant to the Crown independently of acts of parliament; and the question itself was decided^p by the twelve judges in the year 1604 in favour of the court. The most dangerous resistance it met with was, when the prisoner refused to take the oath "ex officio" on the ground of its illegality, or suspended the judicial proceedings by obtaining a prohibition from the courts of common law. Were these two points surrendered, the citadel would be lost; and archbishop Bancroft, though eminently qualified by his knowledge and intrepidity to defend them, had to encounter an antagonist in the person of sir Edward Coke, who to the same great qualities of character united a more reasonable cause, and the most powerful supporters. In these vital questions^q the Primate was signally defeated. The next commission, drawn up by the chief justice himself, took away the penalties which had hitherto made the questionable oath effective, and the king was compelled to declare in council on the decision of the judges that the dreaded prohibitions must have their course.

King Charles I. appears to have obtained from the influence of archbishop Laud a more just conception^r of the Church in its relation to the State than had been formed by either of the sovereigns who immediately preceded him. The same countenance which they conferred upon the court of high commission for the purpose of supporting the prerogative, he willingly bestowed upon it for the protection of the church. In the commission^s accordingly of the year 1637, was introduced the ancient power of administering the oath "ex officio," together with a penalty designed to render it effectual, should the prisoner still refuse to answer. It is impossible to suppose, though there are many indications in its favour, that the king and his councillor were equally unconscious of the extreme perils by which they were surrounded. Living in the delusive atmosphere of a court, they still could not be insensible to the dark and chilling masses of discontent, that lay heavily before them, in whatever direction they proceeded. And yet at this conjuncture they revived an ancient practice, although it was odious in its nature and had been declared by the highest authority to be^t illegal, for the purpose of supporting an institution already perishing from its own decrepitude. Doubtless it was received by the rebellious spirits whom it was designed to subdue, with no other feeling than that of savage exultation. Within a few years afterwards the king was compelled to consent to an act^u which swept away the authority of the high commission court, and shook to its foundations the whole jurisdiction of the church.

The court of high commission, though legally extinct, had still one other epoch in its history. King James II. under the evil advice of popish councillors was induced to reestablish it^x, with a title somewhat different, but with powers equally objectionable: and the bishop of London was summoned before it to answer for an act of disobedience to the royal pleasure. The king probably was of opinion that his prerogative was too sacred to be affected by recent statutes, and that the supremacy of the Crown was beyond the reach of subjects and their legislatures. On the same principle accordingly he not only dispensed with the execution of laws in individual cases, a privilege, which in more careful hands would have continued to be undisputed, but he also destroyed the vitality of the laws themselves by suspending them in the whole compass of their operation. The sequel is well known. On the revolution effected by king William, the bill of rights declared that the court of high commission, under whatever form or title, was illegal and pernicious; and the principles of government that were established at the same period, have set their seal to its perpetual condemnation.

During the progress of this history and more especially on the accomplishment of the great revolution which has last been noticed, it is evident that clearer and more narrow lines of demarcation had been gradually drawn around the king's prerogative. The court of high commission has been abolished; and together with it has been abolished the power of granting dispensations^y in any case where it has not been expressly reserved by statute. The claims of the prerogative are now to be interpreted in every instance through the language of the law. But the supremacy of the Crown, though crippled in the way of evil, is still powerful and supereminent for purposes of correction and improvement. "It is neither permitted to prelate nor prince," says Hooker^z, "to judge and determine at their own discretion, but law hath prescribed what both shall do. What power the king hath, he hath it by law; the bounds and limits of it are known. The entire community giveth general order by law how all things publicly are to be done; and the king as head thereof, the highest in authority over all, causeth according to the same law every particular to be framed and ordered thereby."... "All men are not for all things sufficient; and therefore public affairs being divided, such persons must be authorized judges in each kind, as common reason may presume to be most fit: which cannot of kings and princes ordinarily be presumed in causes merely ecclesiastical; so that even common sense doth rather adjudge this burden unto other men. We see it hereby a thing necessary to put a difference, as well between that ordinary jurisdiction which belongeth to the clergy alone, and that commissiary wherein others are for just considerations appointed to join with them; as also between both these jurisdictions, and a third, whereby the king hath a transcendent authority, and that in all cases, over both.”

In a publication professing to illustrate the general history of the Church, and to be applicable in their several relations to all its members, papers of a local or partial interest could not properly be admitted. But there are cases, when particular instructions, apparently the most limited, are calculated, from the nature of their subject, to be the best exponents of some prevailing controversy, or may be employed as substitutes for more general documents, which cannot themselves be obtained. It is for these reasons that such papers as Nos. CXXXVII and CXLIII^a, though provided, the one for a given diocese, and the other for a single congregation, may be considered as addressed to the Church at large, acquiring accordingly a range and importance, which would not otherwise belong to them.

^a The orders issued by bishop Wren are the best representation remaining of the sentiments entertained on such subjects by archbishop Laud. It appears from the registers at Lambeth, that though the archbishop sent out many articles and orders for the cathedrals of his province, he did not issue any such directions for the parochial clergy generally, but employed his vicar-general and the dean of the arches to visit the several dioceses; and that orders were given in each particular case, as circumstances required. There are orders, for instance, given at Boston, in Lincolnshire, which enter minutely into detail as to the paving, pewing, and other repairs of the parish church. Visitation Articles however were certainly issued by him for the diocese of Winchester and the deanery of Shoreham, but without any characteristic inquiries. (See Bodl. 4to. C. 203. Art. and Pamph. 32 and 35.)

The collection has been made principally from the Concilia of Wilkins, revised and corrected in many instances by a comparison with original documents. Other papers have been added, as they seemed to be of sufficient importance, and could be obtained from authentic sources. In the titles prefixed by Wilkins, and here copied from him, his notation of time has been retained, the year being made to commence, according to the ancient custom of the Church, from the 25th day of March. In the notes however the modern method of computing from the 1st of January has been constantly followed. All papers connected exclusively with the construction or revision of the Book of Common Prayer have been purposely omitted; as they are sufficient both in number and consequence to form a separate publication.

A record also of past events, sometimes proceeding to a great degree of minuteness, could not be generally useful, unless it were accompanied by a copious Index. It is hoped that in the present instance the Table of Contents and the Index combined, will afford every assistance of that nature, which can reasonably be required. The Index is partly verbal, and partly descriptive of subject-matter; and the Titles given in the Table of Contents are so far in accordance with the ancient headings, as to be easily identified with them, and yet have been made to afford in many instances a better insight into the documents which it is their object to describe.

It will be observed that in some papers the old and capricious mode of spelling has been retained; in others it has been reduced to rule and modern practice. The best method of editing ancient documents is to print them exactly as they were first published; but in these papers that could not be done in every instance, as some of them had already been modernized by other hands, and it would be either impossible, or at the least a waste of time and labour, to find the originals and to take fresh copies from them for the purpose of restoring their mistakes and archaisms. There are some cases also, as at p. 259. l. 3. vol. I. in which it may be thought that manifest errors have been republished, without any endeavour to remove them. But in that instance as in others^b, the passage has been printed exactly after the MS. in the Tanner papers, it being thought better to leave the correction of it to the judgment of the reader, than to amend it by any conjecture however plausible.

The notes, where they are not simply quotations from other authors, have been compiled, as much as possible, from the best sources of information, with the view of accounting for the first publication of the papers respectively, and in some cases of recording the rise and progress of a passing controversy. They will not be found to advocate extreme opinions; but they are indebted in many instances, for remarks as well as for suggestions, to writers of strong and opposite predilections, to Burnet as well as Strype, to Prynne as well as Clarendon, to Neal as well as Collier, to Hallam as well as Lingard.

In this second edition a few important documents have been added, and the other papers have in some remaining instances been collated with their originals and corrected from them.

EDWARDUS sextus Dei gratia Angliæ, Franciæ et Hiberniæ rex, fidei defensor, ac in terra ecclesiæ Anglicanæ et Hiberniæ supremum caput, reverendissimo

Commissio regia] “The bishops were required to take out new commissions of the same form with those they had taken out in king Henry’s time; only with this difference, that there is no mention made of a vicar-general in these commissions, as was in the former, there being none after Cromwell advanced to that dignity. Two of these commissions are yet extant; one taken out by Cranmer, and the other taken out by Bonner. But this was only done by reason of the present juncture, because the bishops being generally addicted to the former superstition, it was thought necessary to keep them under so arbitrary a power, as that subjected them to; for they hereby held their bishoprics only during the king’s pleasure, and were to exercise them as his delegates in his name and by his authority. . . . But this was afterwards judged too heavy a yoke; and therefore the new bishops that were made by this king were not put under it. . . . but they were to hold their bishoprics during life.” Burnet, Hist. Papæ Rom.	Archiepisc. Cant.	Anno Christi.	Reg. Angliæ.

Injunctions given by the most excellent prince Edward the Sixth, by the grace of God, king of England, France and Ireland, defender of the faith, and in earth under Christ, of the church of England and of Ireland the supreme head. To all and singular his loving subjects, as well of the clergy as of the laity.—(Bodl. Douce BB. 218.)

THE king's most royal majesty, by the advice of his most dear uncle the duke of Somerset, lord protector of all his realms, dominions and subjects, and governor of his most royal person, and the residue of his most honour- 15

Injunctions given] “ In the act of parliament which Henry had procured for giving force and authority to his proclamations, (31 Hen. VIII. c. 8.) a proviso was added that his son's counsellors, while he should be under age, might set out proclamations of the same authority with 20 those which were made by the king himself. This gave them a full power to proceed in that work; in which they resolved to follow the method begun by the late king, of sending visitors over England able council, intending the advancement of the true honour of Almighty God, the suppression of idolatry and superstition throughout all his realms and dominions, and to plant true religion, to the extirpation of all hypocrisy, enormities and abuses, as to his duty appertaineth; doth minister unto his loving subjects these godly injunctions hereafter following; whereof part were given unto them heretofore, by authority of his most dearly beloved father, king Henry the Eighth, of most famous memory, and part are now ministered and given by his majesty: all which injunctions his highness willeth and commandeth his said loving subjects, by his supreme authority, obediently to receive, and truly to observe and keep, every man in their offices, degrees and states, as they will avoid his displeasure, and the pains in the same injunctions hereafter expressed.

1. The first is, that all deans, archdeacons, parsons, vicars, and other ecclesiastical persons, shall faithfully keep and observe, and, as far as in them may lie, shall cause to be observed and kept of other, all and singular laws and statutes, made as well for the abolishing and extirpation of the bishop of Rome his pretended and usurped power and jurisdiction, as for the establishment and confirmation of the king's authority, jurisdiction, and supremacy of the church of England and Ireland. And furthermore, all ecclesiastical persons, having cure of soul, shall, to the uttermost of their wit, knowledge, and learning, purely, sincerely, and without any colour or dissimu-

with injunctions and articles. . . They next considered the articles and injunctions that should be given to the visitors. The greatest part of them were only the renewing what had been ordered by king Henry during Cromwell's being vicegerent." Burnet, H. R. vol. ii. pp. 52. 56. See also Strype Cranm. vol. i. p. 207. Lingard, vol. iv. p. 384. ed. 4to. Collier, vol. ii. p. 225. The more correct account of the matter appears to be that the council acted under the authority of king Henry's will, which had been made according to the powers given to him by statutes 28 Henry VIII. c. 7 and 35 Henry VIII. c. 1.

lation, declare, manifest and open four times every year at the least, in their sermons and other collations, that the bishop of Rome's usurped power and jurisdiction, having no establishment nor ground by the laws of God, was of most just causes taken away and abolished; and that therefore no manner of obedience or subjection, within his realms and dominions, is due unto him. And that the king's power, within his realms and dominions, is the highest power under God, to whom all men, within the same realms and dominions, by God's laws, owe most loyalty and obedience, afore and above all other powers and potentates in earth.

Besides this, to the intent that all superstition and hypocrisy crept into divers men's hearts, may vanish away; they shall not set forth or extol any images, relics, or miracles, for any superstition or lucre, nor allure the people by any enticements to the pilgrimage of any saint or image: but reprovng the same, they shall teach, that all goodness, health and grace, ought to be both asked and looked for only of God, as of the very author and giver of the same, and of none other.

2. Item, That they the persons above rehearsed, shall make or cause to be made in their churches, and every other cure they have, one sermon every quarter of the year at the least, wherein they shall purely and sincerely declare the word of God: and in the same, exhort their hearers to the works of faith, mercy and charity, specially prescribed and commanded in scripture; and that works devised by men's fantasies, besides scripture, as wandering to pilgrimages, offering of money, candles, or tapers, relics, or images, or kissing and licking of the same, praying upon beads, or such like superstition, have not only no promise of reward in scripture for doing of them, but contrariwise, great threats, and maledictions of God, for that they be things tending to idolatry and superstition, which of all other offences God Almighty doth most detest and abhor, for that the same diminish most his honour and glory.

3. Item, That such images as they know in any of their cures to be or have been so abused with pilgrimage
5 or offerings of any thing made thereunto, or shall be hereafter censured unto, they (and none other private persons) shall for the avoiding of that most detestable offence of idolatry, forthwith take down, or cause to be taken down and destroy the same; and shall suffer from henceforth
10 no torches nor candles, tapers or images of wax to be set afore any image or picture, but only two lights upon the high altar, before the sacrament, which for the signification that Christ is the very true light of the world, they shall suffer to remain still: admonishing their parishioners, 15 that images serve for no other purpose but to be a remembrance, whereby men may be admonished of the holy lives and conversation of them that the said images do represent: which images if they do abuse for any other intent, they commit idolatry in the same, to the great
20 danger of their souls.

4. Item, That every holy-day throughout the year, when they have no sermon, they shall immediately after the Gospel, openly and plainly recite to their parishioners in the pulpit, the "Pater noster," the "Credo," and the 25 Ten Commandments in English, to the intent the people may learn the same by heart: exhorting all parents and householders to teach their children and servants the same, as they are bound by the law of God, and in conscience to do.

30 5. Item, That they shall charge fathers and mothers, masters and governors, to bestow their children and servants, even from their childhood, either to learning or to some honest exercise, occupation, or husbandry: exhorting and counselling, and by all the ways and means they

other governors, diligently to provide and foresee that the youth be in no manner of wise brought up in idleness, lest at any time afterward for lack of some craft, occupation, or other honest mean to live by, they be driven to fall to begging, stealing, or some other unthriftiness: forasmuch as we may daily see, through sloth and idleness, divers valiant men fall, some to begging, and some to theft and murder; which after brought to calamity and misery, do blame their parents, friends, and governors, which suffered them to be brought up so idly in their youth, where if they had been well brought up in learning some good occupation, or craft, they would (being rulers of their own household) have profited as well themselves, as divers other persons, to the great commodity and ornament of the commonwealth.

6. Also, That the said parsons, vicars, and other curates shall diligently provide, that the sacraments be duly and reverently ministered in their parishes. And if at any time it happen them in any of the cases expressed in the statutes of this realm, or of special license given by the king's majesty, to be absent from their benefices, they shall leave their cure not to a rude and unlearned person, but to an honest, well learned, and expert curate, that can by his ability teach the rude and unlearned of their cure wholesome doctrine, and reduce them to the right way that do err; which will also execute these injunctions, and do their duty otherwise, as they are bound to do in every behalf, and accordingly may and will profit their cure no less with good example of living, than with the declaration of the word of God, or else their lack and default shall be imputed unto them, who shall straitly answer for the same if they do otherwise. And always let them see, that neither they nor their curates do seek more their own profit, promotion, or advantage, than the profit of the souls that they have under their cure, or the glory of God.

7. Also, That they shall provide within three months next after this visitation, one book of the whole Bible, of the largest volume in English. And within one twelve months next after the said visitation, the "Paraphrasis" of Erasmus also in English upon the Gospels, and the same set up in some convenient place within the said church that they have cure of, whereas their parishioners may most commodiously resort unto the same, and read the same. The charges of which books shall be ratably borne between the parson or proprietary, and the parishioners aforesaid, that is to say, the one half by the parson or proprietary, and the other half by the parishioners. And they shall discourage no man (authorized and licensed thereto) from the reading of any part of the Bible, either in Latin or in English; but shall rather conform and exhort every person to read the same, as the very lively word of God, and the special food of man's soul, that all Christian persons are bound to embrace, believe, and follow, if they look to be saved; whereby they may the better know their duties to God, to their sovereign lord the king, and their neighbour: ever gently and charitably exhorting them, and in his majesty's name, straitly charging and commanding them, that in the reading thereof, no man to reason or contend, but quietly to hear the reader.

8. Also, The said ecclesiastical persons shall in no wise, at any unlawful time, nor for any other cause than for their honest necessity, haunt or resort to any taverns or alehouses. And after their dinner and supper, they shall not give themselves to drinking or riot, spending their time idly, by day or by night, at dice, cards, or tables-playing, or any other unlawful game: but at all times (as they shall have leisure) they shall hear and read somewhat of holy scripture, or shall occupy themselves with some other honest exercise; and that they always do the things which appertain to honesty, with endeavour to profit the commonweal; having always in mind, that they ought to excel all other in purity of life, and should be example to the people to live well and Christianly.

9. Item, That they shall in confessions every Lent examine every person that cometh to confession to them, whether they can recite the articles of their faith, the "Pater noster," and the Ten Commandments in English, and hear them say the same particularly; wherein if they be not perfect, they shall declare then, that every Christian person ought to know the said things before they should receive the blessed Sacrament of the altar, and monish them to learn the said necessary things more perfectly, or else they ought not to presume to come to God's board, without perfect knowledge and will to observe the same: and if they do, it is to the great peril of their souls, and also to the worldly rebuke, that they might incur hereafter by the same.

10. Also, That they shall admit no man to preach within any their cures, but such as shall appear unto them to be sufficiently licensed thereunto, by the king's majesty, the lord protector's grace, the archbishop of Canterbury, the archbishop of York in his province, or the bishop of the diocess; and such as shall be so licensed, they shall gladly receive to declare the word of God, without any resistance or contradiction.

11. Also, If they have heretofore declared to their parishioners any thing to the extolling or setting forth of pilgrimages, relics, or images, or lighting of candles, kissing, kneeling, decking of the same images, or any such superstition, they shall now openly, before the same, recant, and reprove the same: shewing them (as the truth is) that they did the same upon no ground of scripture, but were led and seduced by a common error and abuse, crept into the church through the sufferance and avarice of such as felt profit by the same.

12. Also, If they do, or shall know any man within their parish or elsewhere, that is a letter of the word of God to be read in English, or sincerely preached, or of the execution of these the king's majesty's injunctions, or a fautor of the bishop of Rome's pretended power, now 5 by the laws of this realm justly rejected, extirped, and taken away utterly, they shall detect and present the same to the king or his council, or to the justice of peace next adjoining.

13. Also, That the parson, vicar, or curate, and parishion- 10 ers of every parish within this realm, shall, in their churches and chapels, keep one book or register, wherein they shall write the day and year of every wedding, christening, and burial, made within their parish for their time, and so every man succeeding them likewise; and also 15 therein shall write every person's name that shall be so wedded, christened, or buried. And for the safe keeping of the same book, the parish shall be bound to provide of their common charges, one sure coffer, with two locks and keys, whereof the one to remain with the parson, 20 vicar, or curate, and the other with the wardens of every parish church or chapel, wherein the said book shall be laid up: which book they shall every Sunday take forth, and in the presence of the said wardens, or one of them, write and record in the same, all the weddings, christen- 25 ings, and burials, made the whole week before; and that done, to lay up the book in the said coffer, as afore. And for every time that the same shall be omitted, the party that shall be in the fault thereof, shall forfeit to the said church iiis. ivd. to be employed to the poor 30 men's box of that parish.

14. Furthermore, because the goods of the church are called the goods of the poor, and at these days nothing is less seen than the poor to be sustained with the same; all parsons, vicars, pensionaries, prebendaries, and other 35 beneficed men within this deanery, not being resident upon their benefices, which may dispend yearly xxl. or above, either within this deanery or elsewhere, shall distribute hereafter among their poor parishioners, or other inhabitants there, in the presence of the churchwardens, or some other honest men of the parish, the xl. part of the fruits and revenues of their said benefices, 5 lest they be worthily noted of ingratitude, which reserving so many parts to themselves, cannot vouchsafe to impart the xl. portion thereof among the poor people of that parish, that is so fruitful and profitable unto them. 10

15. And to the intent that learned men may hereafter spring the more, for the execution of the premises, every parson, vicar, clerk, or beneficed man within this deanery, having yearly to dispend in benefices and other promotions of the church an cl. shall give competent exhi- 15 bition to one scholar: and for as many cl. more as he may dispend, to so many scholars more shall give like exhibition in the university of Oxford or Cambridge, or some grammar-school; which after they have profited in good learning, may be partners of their patron's cure and 20 charge, as well in preaching, as otherwise, in the execution of their offices, or may (when need shall be) otherwise profit the commonweal with their counsel and wisdom.

16. Also, That the proprietaries, parsons, vicars, and 25 clerks, having churches, chapels, or mansions within this deanery, shall bestow yearly hereafter upon the same mansions or chancels of their churches being in decay, the fifth part of that their benefices, till they be fully repaired; and the same so repaired, shall always keep 30 and maintain in good estate.

17. Also, That the said parsons, vicars, and clerks, shall, once every quarter of the year, read these injunctions given unto them, openly and deliberately, before all their parishioners, to the intent that both they may 35 be the better admonished of their duty, and their said parishioners the more moved to follow the same for their part.

18. Also, Forasmuch as by a law established, every man is bound to pay his tithes, no man shall by colour of duty omitted by their curates, detain their tithes, and so redub and requite one wrong with another, or be his own judge, but shall truly pay the same, as he hath been accustomed, to their parsons, vicars, and curates, without any restraint or diminution. And such lack and default
10 as they can justly find in their parsons and curates, to call for reformation thereof at their ordinaries' and other superiors' hands, who, upon complaint and due proof thereof, shall reform the same accordingly.

19. Also, That no person shall from henceforth alter
15 or change the order and manner of any fasting-day that is commanded, nor of common prayer or divine service, otherwise than is specified in these injunctions, until such time as the same shall be otherwise ordered and transposed by the king's authority.

20 20. Also, That every parson, vicar, curate, chantry-priest, and stipendiary, being under the degree of bachelor of divinity, shall provide and have of his own, within three months after this visitation, the New Testament both in Latin and in English, with Paraphrasis upon the 25 same of Erasmus, and diligently study the same, conferring the one with the other. And the bishops and other ordinaries by themselves or their officers, in their synods and visitations, shall examine the said ecclesiastical persons how they have profited in the study of holy scripture.

30 21. Also, In the time of high mass within every church, he that saith or singeth the same, shall read or cause to be read the Epistle and Gospel of that mass in English and not in Latin, in the pulpit, or in such convenient place as the people may hear the same. And also every

ment in English, in the said place at mattins immediately after the lessons: and at evensong, after "Magnificat," one chapter of the Old Testament. And to the intent the premises may be more conveniently done, the king's majesty's pleasure is, that when ix. lessons should be read in the church, three of them shall be omitted and left out with their responds: and at evensong time the responds with all the memories shall be left off for that purpose.

22. Also, Because those persons, which be sick and in peril of death, be oftentimes put in despair, by the craft and subtilty of the devil, who is then most busy, and especially with them that lack the knowledge, sure persuasion, and steadfast belief, that they may be made partakers of the great and infinite mercy, which Almighty God of his most bountiful goodness, and mere liberality, without our deserving, hath offered freely to all persons, that put their full trust and confidence in him: therefore that this damnable vice of despair may be clearly taken away, and firm belief, and steadfast hope, surely conceived of all their parishioners, being in any danger, they shall learn and have always in a readiness such comfortable places and sentences of scripture, as do set forth the mercy, benefits, and goodness of Almighty God towards all penitent and believing persons, that they may at all times (when necessity shall require) promptly comfort their flock, with the lively word of God, which is the only stay of man's conscience.

23. Also, To avoid all contention and strife, which heretofore hath risen among the king's majesty's subjects in sundry places of his realms and dominions, by reason of fond courtesy, and challenging of places in procession, and also that they may the more quietly hear that which is said or sung to their edifying, they shall not from henceforth, in any parish church at any time, use any procession about the church or churchyard, or other place, but immediately before high mass, the priests with other of the quire shall kneel in the midst of the church, and sing or say plainly and distinctly the litany which is set forth in English, with all the suffrages following, and none other procession or litany to be had or used but the said litany in English, adding nothing thereto, but as the king's grace shall hereafter appoint: and in cathedral or collegiate churches, the same shall be done in such places as our commissaries in our visitation shall appoint. And in the time of the litany, of the high mass, of the sermon, and when the priest readeth the scripture to the parishioners, no manner of persons without a just and urgent cause, shall depart out of the church; and all ringing and knolling of bells shall be utterly forborne at that time, except one bell in convenient time to be rung or knolled before the sermon.

24. Also, Like as the people be commonly occupied on the work-day, with bodily labour, for their bodily sustenance, ^aso was the holy-day at the first beginning godly instituted and ordained, that the people should that day give themselves wholly to God. And whereas in our time, God is more offended than pleased, more dishonoured than honoured upon the holy-day, because of idleness, pride, drunkenness, quarrelling and brawling, which are most used in such days, people nevertheless persuading themselves sufficiently to honour God on that day, if they hear mass and service, though they understand nothing to their edifying: therefore all the king's faithful and loving subjects shall from henceforth celebrate and keep their holy-day according to God's holy will and pleasure; that is, in hearing the word of God read and taught; in private and public prayers; in knowledging their offences to God, and amendment of the same; in reconciling themselves charitably to their neighbours, where displeasure hath been; in oftentimes receiving the communion of the very body and blood of Christ; in visiting of the poor and sick; in using all soberness and godly conversation. Yet notwithstanding all parsons, vicars, and curates, shall teach and declare unto their parishioners, that they may with a safe and quiet conscience, in the time of harvest, labour upon the holy and festival days, and save that thing which God hath sent. And if for any scrupulosity, or grudge of conscience, men should superstitiously abstain from working upon those days, that then they should grievously offend and displease God.

^a so was the holy-day] "The article about the strict observance of the holy day seemed a little doubtful; whether by the holy-day was to be understood only the Lord's day, or that and all other church-festivals. The naming it singularly the holy-day, and in the end of that article adding festival days to the holy-day, seemed to favour their opinion that thought this strict observance of the holy-day was particularly intended for the Lord's day, and not for the other festivals." Burnet, H. R. vol. ii. p. 59. See Collier, vol. ii. p. 226.

25. Also, Forasmuch as variance and contention is a thing which most displeaseth God, and is most contrary to the blessed communion of the body and blood of our Saviour Christ; curates shall in nowise admit to the receiving thereof any of their cure and flock, who hath maliciously and openly contended with his neighbour, unless the same do first charitably and openly reconcile himself again, remitting all rancour and malice, whatsoever controversy hath been between them; and nevertheless their just titles and rights they may charitably prosecute before such as have authority to hear the same.

26. Also, That every dean, archdeacon, master of collegiate church, master of hospital, and prebendary being priest, shall preach by himself personally twice every year at the least, either in the place where he is intituled, or in some church where he hath jurisdiction, or else which is to the said place appropriate or united.

27. Also, That they shall instruct and teach in their cures, that no man ought obstinately and maliciously to break and violate the laudable ceremonies of the church, by the king commanded to be observed, and as yet not abrogated. And on the other side, that whosoever doth 5 superstitiously abuse them, doth the same to the great peril and danger of his soul's health: as in casting holy water upon his bed, upon images, and other dead things, or bearing about him holy bread, or St. John's Gospel, or making crosses of wood upon Palm-Sunday, in time of 10 reading of the passion, or keeping of private holy-days, as bakers, brewers, smiths, shoemakers, and such other do; or ringing of the holy bells; or blessing with the holy candle, to the intent thereby to be discharged of the burden of sin, or to drive away devils, or to put away 15 dreams and phantasies, or in putting trust and confidence of health and salvation in the same ceremonies, when they be only ordained, instituted, and made, to put us in remembrance of the benefits which we have received by Christ. And if he use them for any other purpose, he 20 grievously offendeth God.

28. Also, That they shall take away, utterly extinct and destroy all shrines, covering of shrines, all tables, candlesticks, trindles or rolls of wax, pictures, paintings, and all other monuments of feigned miracles, pilgrimages, 25 idolatry and superstition: so that there remain no memory of the same in walls, glass windows, or elsewhere within their churches or houses. And they shall exhort all their parishioners to do the like, within their several houses. And that the churchwardens, at the common charge of 30 the parishioners in every church, shall provide a comely and honest pulpit, to be set in a convenient place within the same, for the preaching of God's word.

29. Also, They shall provide and have within three months after this visitation, a strong chest with a hole in 35 the upper part thereof, to be provided at the cost and charge of the parish, having three keys, whereof one shall remain in the custody of the parson, vicar or curate, and the other two in the custody of the churchwardens, or any other two honest men, to be appointed by the parish from year to year. Which chest you shall set and fasten⁵ near unto the high altar, to the intent the parishioners should put into it their oblation and alms for their poor neighbours. And the parson, vicar and curate, shall diligently from time to time, and specially when men make their testaments, call upon, exhort and move their neigh-¹⁰bours, to confer and give, as they may well spare, to the said chest: declaring unto them, whereas heretofore they have been diligent to bestow much substance otherwise than God commanded upon pardons, pilgrimages, tren-¹⁵talles, decking of images, offering of candles, giving to friars, and upon other like blind devotions, they ought at this time to be much more ready to help the poor and needy, knowing that to relieve the poor is a true wor-²⁰shipping of God, required earnestly upon pain of everlasting damnation: and that also, whatsoever is given for their comfort, is given to Christ himself and so is accepted of him, that he will mercifully reward the same with everlasting life: the which alms and devotion of the people, the keepers of the keys shall at times convenient take out of the chest, and distribute the same in the pre-²⁵sence of the whole parish, or six of them, to be truly and faithfully delivered to their most needy neighbours: and if they be provided for, then to the reparation of high ways next adjoining. And also the money which riseth of fraternities, guilds, and other stocks of the church (ex-³⁰cept by the king's majesty's authority it be otherwise appointed) shall be put into the said chest, and converted to the said use, and also the rents of lands, the profit of cattle, and money given or bequeathed to the finding of torches, lights, tapers and lamps, shall be converted to the³⁵ said use, saving that it shall be lawful for them to bestow part of the said profits upon the reparation of the church, if great need require, and whereas the parish is very poor, and not able otherwise to repair the same.

5 30. And forasmuch as priests be public ministers of the church, and upon the holy days ought to apply themselves to the common administration of the whole parish, they shall not be bound to go to women lying in child-bed, except in time of dangerous sickness, and not to 10 fetch any corse before it be brought to the churchyard; and if the woman be sick, or the corse brought to the church, the priest shall do his duty accordingly in visiting the woman, and burying the dead person.

31. Also, To avoid the detestable sin of simony, be-
15 cause buying and selling of benefices is execrable before God; therefore all such persons as buy any benefices, or come to them by fraud or deceit, shall be deprived of such benefices, and be made unable at any time after to receive any other spiritual promotion. And such as do 20 sell them, or by any colour do bestow them for their own gain and profit, shall lose their right and title of patronage, and presentment for that time, and the gift thereof for that vacation shall appertain to the king's majesty.

32. Also, Because through lack of preachers in many 25 places of the king's realms and dominions, the people continue in ignorance and blindness, all parsons, vicars and curates shall read in their churches every Sunday one of the homilies, which are and shall be set forth for the same purpose by the king's authority, in such sort 30 as they shall be appointed to do in the preface of the same.

33. Also, Whereas many indiscreet persons do at this day uncharitably contemn and abuse priests and ministers of the church, because some of them (having small learning) have of long time favoured phantasies rather than

God's truth; yet forasmuch as their office and function is appointed of God, the king's majesty willeth and chargeth all his loving subjects, that from henceforth they shall use them charitably and reverently for their office and ministration sake, and especially all such as labour in the setting forth of God's holy word.

34. Also, That all manner of persons which understand not the Latin tongue, shall pray upon none other primer, but upon that which was lately set forth in English by the authority of king Henry the Eighth, of most famous memory. And that no teacher of youth shall teach any other than the said primer. And all those which have knowledge of the Latin tongue, shall pray upon none other Latin primer, but upon that which is likewise set forth by the said authority. And that all graces to be said at dinner and supper, shall be always said in the English tongue. ^bAnd that none other grammar shall be taught in any school or other place within the king's realms and dominions, but only that which is set forth by the said authority.

35. Item, That all chantry priests shall exercise themselves in teaching youth to read and write, and bringing them up in good manners, and other virtuous exercises.

36. Item, When any sermon or homily shall be had, the prime and hours shall be omitted.

^b*And that none other grammar*] The grammar usually known by the name of "Lilly's," but the different parts of which appear to have been derived from such eminent contributors as Wolsey, Colet, Lily, and Erasmus. Having been approved by king Henry VIII., king Edward VI., queen Elizabeth, and in the canons of king James, it was received without question, as enjoying exclusive privileges under the royal supremacy, till the year 1664, when it was projected to have another form of grammar approved by convocation, and bishop Pearson undertook the management of the matter. But nothing was actually accomplished. See Kennet's Hist. vol. iii. p. 274.

You shall pray for the whole congregation of Christ's church; and specially for this church of England and Ireland; wherein first I commend to your devout prayers, the king's most excellent majesty, supreme head immediately under God of the spirituality and temporality of the same church; and for queen Katherine dowager, and also for my lady Mary, and my lady Elizabeth, the king's sisters.

Secondly, you shall pray for my lord protector's grace, with all the rest of the king's majesty's council; for all the lords of this realm, and for the clergy and the commons of the same; beseeching Almighty God to give every of them in his degree, grace to use themselves in such wise, as may be to God's glory, the king's honour, and the weal of this realm.

^d Thirdly, you shall pray for all them that be departed

^c The form of bidding] "All the change king Henry the Eighth made in this [the bidding prayer] was, that, the pope and cardinals' names being left out, he was ordered to be mentioned with the addition of his title of Supreme Head, that the people, hearing that oft repeated by their priests, might be better persuaded about it; but his other titles were not mentioned. And this order was now renewed [in K. Edward's Injunctions]; only the prayer for departed souls was changed from what it had been. It was formerly in these words: 'Ye shall pray for the souls that be departed, abiding the mercy of Almighty God, that it may please him, the rather at the contemplation of our prayers, to grant them the fruition of his presence:' which did imply their being in a state where they did not enjoy the presence of God, which was avoided by the more general words now prescribed." Burnet, H. R. vol. ii. p. 61.

^d Thirdly, ye shall pray] The practice of praying for the dead was continued in the first Service Book of K. Edw. VI., set forth in the year 1549, and was expressed in the burial service, as well as in the following words contained in the prayer "for the whole state of Christ's Church:" "We commend unto thy mercy, O Lord, all other thy servants which are departed hence from us with the sign of faith, out of this world in the faith of Christ, that they with us, and we with them at the day of judgment, may rest both body and soul, with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob in the kingdom of heaven.

All which and singular injunctions the king's majesty ministereth unto his clergy and their successors, and to all other his loving subjects: straitly charging and commanding them to observe and keep the same upon pain of deprivation, sequestration of fruits of benefices, suspension, excommunication, and such other coercion, as to and now do rest in the sleep of peace: grant unto them, we beseech thee, thy mercy and everlasting peace." In the second Service Book, published in the year 1552, this prayer was entirely omitted, and the words "militant here in earth" were added to the Prefix, to shew that the Church not only did not practise intercession for the dead, but even carefully excluded it. (See "The two Liturgies of K. Edw. VI, compared." p. xxxii.) Such prayers are more directly condemned in the Homilies of queen Elizabeth, in the following words: "Therefore let us not deceive ourselves, thinking that either we may help other, or other may help us, by their good and charitable prayers in time to come. For, as the Preacher saith, 'Where the tree falleth, whether it be toward the south or toward the north, in what place soever the tree falleth, there it lieth;' (Eccles. xi. 3.) meaning thereby that every mortal man dieth either in the state of salvation or damnation, according as the words of the evangelist John do also plainly import. (John iii. 36.)" Third Part of the Sermon concerning Prayer, p. 283. ed. Oxf. 1810. They were also directly condemned by archbishop Grindal in his Injunctions delivered to the province of York in the year 1571: "nor any other superstitious ceremonies to be observed or used, which tended either to the maintenance of prayer for the dead, or of the popish purgatory." (N^o. LXXVI.) The same condemnation may also be inferred from the Visitation Articles which archbishop Grindal issued for the province of Canterbury in the year 1576, (N^o. LXXXII*.) The practice however has been commended by many divines of the English Church, and it has been sought on several occasions, more especially at the beginning of the 18th century, to introduce it again into the book of Common Prayer. See "The Christian Priesthood asserted," by Hicckes; and Tracts entitled, "Reasons for restoring the Prayers and Directions of Edw. VIth's first Liturgy," 1717.

ordinaries, or other having ecclesiastical jurisdiction, whom his majesty hath appointed for the due execution of the same, shall be seen convenient: charging and commanding them to see these injunctions observed and kept of 5 all persons, being under their jurisdiction, as they will answer to his majesty for the contrary; and his majesty's pleasure is, that every justice of peace (being required) shall assist the ordinaries and every of them for the due execution of the said injunctions.

Articles to be inquired of in the king's majesty's visitation.

Heylin, Hist. Reform. p. 37.

1. THAT they should, to the utmost of their power, wit and understanding, see and cause all and singular the king's injunctions heretofore given, or after to be given, from time to time, in and through their diocese duly, faithfully, and truly to be kept, observed, and accomplished; and that they should personally preach within their diocese every quarter of a year, once at the least, that is to say, once in their cathedral churches, and thrice in other several places of their diocese, whereas they should see it more convenient, and necessary, except 5 they had a reasonable excuse to the contrary. Likewise that they should not retain into their service or household any chaplain, but such as were learned and able to preach the word of God, and those they should also cause to exercise the same. 10

2. And lastly, that they should not at any time or place preach, or set 15 forth unto the people, any doctrine contrary or repugnant to the effect and intent contained or set forth in the king's highness' homilies; neither yet should admit or give license to preach to any within their diocese, but to such as they should know, or at least assuredly trust, 20 would do the same; and if at any time, by hearing or by report proved, they should perceive the contrary, they should then incontinent not only inhibit that person so offending, but also punish him, and revoke their license.

^fA proclamation concerning the irreverent talkers of the sacrament. Dated the 27th day of December, anno regni reg. Edwardi primo. (Bodl. Douce E. 40.)

WHEREAS the kyngs highnes hath of late, with the assent and consent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons in the parliament held the fourth day of November, in the first year of his most gracious reign, made a good and godly act and estatute against those who do contempn, despise, or with unsemely and ungodly words deprave and revile the holy sacrament of the body and blood of our Lord, commonly called “the sacrament of the altar:” and the same estatute hath most prudently declared, by al the words and terms which scripture speaketh of it, what is undoubtedly to be accepted, beleaved, taken and spoken by and of the said sacrament: yet this notwithstanding his majesty is advertised, that some of his subjects, not contented with such words and terms as scripture doth declare thereof, nor with that doctrine which the holy Ghost by the evangelists and St. Paul hath taught us, do not cease to move contentious and superfluous questions of the said holy sacrament, and supper of the Lord, entryng rashly into the discussing of the high mystery thereof, and go about in their sermons or talks arrogantly to define the manner, nature, fashion, ways, possibility or impossibility of those matters; which neither make to edification, nor God hath not by his holy word opened.

Which persons, not contented reverently and with obedient faith t’accept that the said sacrament, according to the saying of St. Paul, “the bread is the communion,” or partaking, “of the body of the Lord; the wine,” likewise, “the partaking of the bloud of Christ” by the words instituted and taught of Christ: and that the body and bloud of Jesu Christ is there; which is our comfort, thanksgiving, love-token of Christ’s love towards us, and of ours as his members within ourself, search and strive unreverently whether the body and bloud aforesaid is there really or figuratly, locally or circumscriptry, and having quantity and greatnes, or but substantially and by substance only, or els but in a figure and manner of speaking; whether his blessed body be there, head, leggs, armes, toes and nails, or any other ways, shape and manner, naked or clothed; whether he is broken and chewed, or he is always whole; whether the bread there remaineth as we see, or how it departeth; whether the flesh be there alone, and the bloud, or part, or ech in other, or in th'one both, in th'other but only bloud; and what bloud; 5 that only which did flow out of the side, or that which remained: with other such irreverent, superfluous, and curious questions, which, how and what, and by what means, and in what forme, may bring into them, which of human and corrupt curiosity hath desire to search out 10 such mysteries as lyeth hid in the infinite and bottomless depth of the wisdom and glory of God, and to the which our humain imbecillity cannot attain: and therefore oftymes turneth the same to their own and others destruction by contention and arrogant rashnes, which 15 simple and christian affection reverently receiving and obediently beleving without further search, taketh and useth to most great comfort and profit.

For reformation whereof, and to th'intent that further contention, tumult and question might not rise amonges 20 the king's subjects, the king's highnes, by th'advice of the lord protector, and other his majestie's council, straitly willeth and commandeth, that no mannor person from henceforth do in any wise contentiously and openly argue, dispute, reason, preach or teach, affirming any more 25 termes of the said blessed sacrament, than be expresly taught in the holy scripture, and mentioned in the fore-said act; nor deny none which be therein contened and mentioned, until such tyme as the king's majesty, by th'advice of his highnes council and the clergy of this 30 realme, shal define, declare and set furthe an open doctrin therof, and what termes and words may justly be spoken therby, other then be expresly in the scripture contened in the act before rehearsed.

In the mean while the king's highnes pleasure is, by 35 th'advice aforesaid, that every his loving subjects shall devoutly and reverently affirm and take that holy bread to be Christ's body, and that cup to be the cup of his holy bloud, according to the purport and effect of t'holy scripture contained in th'act before expressed, and accommodate theimself rather to take the same sacrament worthily, than rashly to entre into the discussyng of the high mystery thereof.

Yet the king's highness mindeth not hereby to let or stop the ignorant and willing to learn quietly, reverently and privatly to demaund of those whom he thynketh knoweth more, the further instruction and teaching in the said blessed sacrament: so that the same be not done with contention, nor in open audience, with a company gathered together about them, nor with tumult: nor doth prohibite any man hereby likewise so quietly, devoutly and reverently to teach or instruct the weak and unlearned, according to the more talent and learnyng gyven to hym of God. But only, that al contention, strife and tumult, and irreverentness might be avoyded, and in open audience or preaching nothing taught, but which may have the holy scripture for warrant.

Upon pain that whosoever shal openly with contention or tumult, and in a company gathered together, either in churches, alehouses, markets, or elsewhere, contrary to the fourm and effect of this proclamation, defend and maintein, or irreverently and contentiously demaund of any man, any of the questions before rehersed, either on the one part, or of the other, or any such like, or do otherwise revile, contempne or despise the said sacrament, by calling it idol, or other such vile name, shal incurre the kyng's high indignation, and suffre imprisonment, or to be otherwise grievously punished at his majesties will and pleasure.

Gevyng further in authority to al justices of peace within the shires where they dwel, to apprehend and take al such as contentiously and tumultuously, with companies or routs assembled about them, do dispute, argue or reason, or stily maintein, or openly preach and define the questions before rehersed, or any of them, or such like, either on th'one part or th'other, and to commit the same to prison, untyl such tyme as the king's majesty's pleasure herein be known; and that they immediately do certify the name or names of the party so offendyng, and of them who were there at the same tyme present, making the rout or assemble, to the king's highnes counsel: willyng and commaunding the said justices, with al diligence to execute the premisses according to the purport, effect, and true meanyng of the same, and their most bound duties, as they tender his highnes wil and pleasure, and wil answer to the contrary upon their peril.

THE king's highnes, by the advice of his most entirely beloved uncle, Edward duke of Somerset, governor of his person and protector of all his realms, dominions

‡ A proclamation] “ The parliament that sat the next year converted this order for observation of the fasting-days into a law, which contains the very words of this proclamation But notwithstanding these orders for the keeping of Lent, I cannot but take notice what extravagant licenses were granted sometimes by the king's patents for dispensing with the observation of it. And in the year 1551, Jan. 10, a license was granted to the Lord Admiral Clinton to eat flesh ‘ cum quibuscunque cum eo ad suam mensam convescentibus, omnibus diebus jejunalibus quibuscunque.’ ” Strype, Mem. vol. ii. P. i. p. 129. and P. ii.

and subjects, and other of his privy council ; considering, that his highnes hath not only cure and charge of the defence of his realms and dominions, as a king, but also as a christian king and supreme hed of the church of 5 England and Ireland, a desire, wil and charge to lead and instruct his people, to him committed of God, in such rights, ways and customs, as might be acceptable to God, and to the further encrease of good living and vertue ; and that his subjects now having a more perfect and clear
 10 light of the gospel, and true word of the Lord, thorow the infinite clemency and mercy of almighty God, by the hands of his majesty and his most noble father of famous memory, promulgate, shewed, declared and opened unto them, should and ought therby in al good works and 15 vertues increase, be more forward, diligent and plentiful, as in fasting, prayer and almose deeds, in love, charity, obedience, and other such good works commaunded to us of God in his holy scripture: yet his highnes is advertised and informed, that diverse of his subjects be not only to 20 al these more slow and negligent, but rather contempners and despisers of such good and godly acts and deeds, to the which if they were of their own minds bended and inclined, they needed not by outward and princely power be appointed and commaunded. But forsomuch
 25 as at this tyme now alate, more then at any other tyme, a great part of his subjects do break and contempne that abstinence, which of long tyme hath been used in this

p. 343. It is worthy of notice, as shewing on what grounds the Reformers recommended the practice of fasting, that the king had 30 already published the following among his Articles of Visitation, (No. II. see also No. X.) “ Whether they have declared, and to their wits and power have persuaded the people, that the manner and kind of fasting in Lent and other days in the year is but a mere positive law, and that therefore all persons having just cause of sickness or neces-35 sity, or being licensed by the king’s majesty, may temperately eat all kinds of meats without grudge or scruple of conscience.” See also Nos. XII. and LXXXV. and Burnet Hist. Ref. vol. ii. p. 121.

his majestie's realm, upon the fridays and saturdays, and the tyme commonly called lent, and other accustomed tymes; his highnes is constreined to se a convenient order herein set and appointed: not mindyng therby, that his subjectes should thynk any difference to be in the days or meats, or that th'one should be to God more holy, more pure, or more clean, then th'other; for al days and al meats be of one and equal purity, cleannes and holines, that we should in them, and by them, live to the glory of God, and at al tymes, and for al meats, geve thanks unto hym, of the which none can defile us at any tyme, or make us unclene; being christian men, to whom al things be holy and pure, so that they be not used in disobedience and vice: but his majesty hath allowed and approved the days and tymes before accustomed, to be continued and still observed here in this church of England, both that men should on those days abstein and forbear their pleasures, and the meats wherein they have more delight, to th'intent to subdue their bodies unto the soul and spirit; unto the which to exhort and move men is the office of a good and godly hed and ruler. And also for worldly and civil policy, certain days in the yere to spare flesh and use fish for the benefit of the commonwealth, and profit of this his majesties realm, wherof many be fishers and men using that trade of living, unto the which this realm, on every part environed with the seas, and so plentiful of fresh waters, doth easily minister occasion, to the great sustenance of this his highnes people. So that hereby both the nourishment of the land might be increased by saving flesh, and specially at the spring tyme, when lent doth commonly fal, and when the most common and plenteous breeding of flesh is. And also divers of his loving subjects have good lyvyngs, and get great riches therby, in uttering and selling such meats as the sea and fresh water doth minister unto us: and this his majestie's realm hath more plenty of ships, boats, crayers and other vessels, by reason of those which by hope of lucre do follow that trade of lyvyng.

Wherefore his majesty, having consideration, that 5 where men of their own myndes do not geve themselves, so oft as they should do, to fastyng, a common abstinence may and should be by the prince enjoyned and commaunded; and having an eye and mind to the profit and commodity of his realm and subjects, and to a common
10 and civil policy, hath willed and commaunded, and by these presents doth wil and commaund, by th'advice aforesaid, al maner of person and persons, of what estate, degree, or condition, he or they be (other then such as 15 already be, or hereafter shal be, excused by law, or licensed or authorized sufficiently to the contrary) to observe and keep from hencefurth such fastyng days, and the tyme commonly called lent, in absteyning from al maner of flesh, as heretofore in this realm hath been most commonly used and accustomed: upon pein, that whoso-
20 ever shal, upon any day heretofore wont to be fasted from flesh, and not by the king's highnes or his predecesors abrogate and taken away, eat flesh contrary to this proclamation, shal incurr the king's high indignation, and shal suffre imprisonment, and be otherwise grievously
25 punished at his majestie's wil and pleasure. And further the king's highnes, by th'advice aforesaid, straitly chargeth and commaundeth al maiors, bailiffs, and other head-officers, and rulers of cities and towns, and al justices of peace in the sheres where they be in commission, to be
30 attendant and diligent to the execution of this proclamation, in committing to prison the offenders contrary to this proclamation, upon sufficient proof thereof by two sufficient witnesses before them had and made: there to remain during the king's pleasure, according to the true
35 purport, effect and meaning of the same, as they tender the king's majestie's wil and pleasure, and wil answer to the contrary at their peril. ^h A proclamation] The restraints imposed by this proclamation upon the Reformers, who were desirous of imitating the example of some foreign churches, were repeated in the proclamation published in the March following together with the Order of the Communion, and led to the compilation of the first Book of Common Prayer, which was ratified²⁰ by Parliament in the month of January, 1549. See "The two Liturgies of K. Edw. VI. compared," pp. xi. and 425. Strype's Mem. vol. ii. P. i. p. 230. and P. ii. p. 346. "This proclamation was necessary for ions, and subjects, and others of his council, considering nothing so much to tend to the disquieting of his realm as diversity of opinions and variety of rites and ceremonies concerning religion and worshipping of Almighty God; and therefore studying all the ways and means, which can be, to direct this church and the cure committed to his highness, in one and most true doctrine, rite, and usage: yet is advertised that certain private curates, preachers, and other laymen, contrary to their bounden duties of obedience, do rashly attempt of their own and singular wit and mind, in some parish churches and otherwise, not only to persuade the people from the old and accustomed rites and ceremonies, but also themselves bring in new and strange orders every one in their church according to their fantasies; the which, as it is an evident token of pride and arrogancy, so it tendeth both to confusion and disorder, and also to the high displeasure of Almighty God, who loveth nothing so much as order and obedience. Wherefore his majesty straitly chargeth and commandeth, that no manner person, of what estate, order, or degree soever he be, of his private mind, will, or fantasy do omit, leave done, change, alter or innovate any order, rite or ceremony commonly used and frequented in the church of England, and not commanded to be left done at any time, in the reign of our late sovereign lord, his highness' father, other than such as his highness, by the advice aforesaid, by his majesty's visitors, injunctions, giving authority to the archbishop of Canterbury's letters, which were censured as a great presumption for him, without any public order, to appoint changes in sacred rites. Some observed that the council went on making proclamations, with arbitrary punishments, though the act was repealed that had formerly given so great authority for them. To this it was answered, that the king by his supremacy might still in matters of religion make new orders, and add punishments upon the transgressors; yet this was much questioned, though universally submitted to." Provided alwaysⁱ, that for not bearing a candle upon Candlemas-day, not taking ashes upon Ashwednesday, not bearing palm upon Palm-sunday, not creeping to the cross, not taking holy bread or holy water, or for omitting other such rites and ceremonies concerning religion, and the use of the church, which the most reverend father in God the archbishop of Canterbury by his majesty's will and commandment with the advice aforesaid hath declared, or hereafter shall declare to the other bishops by his writing under seal, as heretofore hath been accustomed, to be omitted or changed ; no man hereafter be imprisoned nor otherwise punished, but all such things to be reputed for the observation, and following of the same, as though they were commanded by his majesty's injunctions. And to the intent, that rash and seditious preachers should not abuse his highnes' people, it is his majesty's pleasure, that whosoever shall take upon him to preach openly in any parish church, chapel, or any other open place other than those, which be licensed by the king's majesty, or his highnes' visitors, the archbishop of Canterbury, or the bishop of the diocese, where he do preach, except it be the bishop, parson, vicar, dean, or provost, in his or their own cure, shall be forthwith, upon such attempt and preaching contrary to this proclamation, committed to prison, and there remain until such time as his

ⁱ*The archbishop's letter to the bishop of London against candles, and ashes, and palms in churches.—Ex reg. Bonn. fol. 110.*

THIS is to advertise your lordship, that my lord pro-20 tector's grace with advice of others the king's majesty's council, for certain considerations them thereⁱ*The archbishop's letter*] The practices forbidden in this letter had already been condemned in the Homilies published in July 1547, the 5th of which, "Of good works," now shewn to have been written by Cranmer himself (Wordsworth Eccl. Biog. vol. iii. p. 505. Cranmer's Works by Jenkyns, vol. i. p. xlvi. and vol. ii. p. 121) contains the following words, in a list of papistical superstitions and abuses; "of purgatory, of masses satisfactory, of stations and jubilees, of feigned relicks, of hallowed beads, bells, bread, water, palms, candles, fire, and such other." The unto moving, hath fully resolved, that no candles should be borne upon Candlemas-day, nor also from henceforth ashes or palms used any longer. Wherefore I beseech your lordship to cause admonition thereof to be given in all parish churches throughout your diocese with all⁵ celerity: and likewise unto all other bishops, that be hereabouts, that they may do the semblable in their dioceses before Candlemas-day. And as for other bishops, that cannot have knowledge so soon, you may give them knowledge hereof at more leisure, so that it be done be-¹⁰ fore Ashwednesday. Thus fare your lordship well, your loving friend, editions indeed, from that of Bill in 1623 down to our own times, generally read "psalms, candles, fire." And so also Strype quotes the¹⁵ passage in his Memorials of Cranmer, vol. i. p. 249. But it is evident from this letter, from the nature of the case, and from the original edition of Grafton in the year 1547, that the right reading is "palms." And so it is printed in the Oxford edition of 1832. It was on this passage that Bp. Gardiner, in a letter addressed to the Protector Somer-²⁰ set soon after the publication of the Homilies, made the following remarks (see Strype's Cranm. vol. ii. p. 786.): "The Boke of Homiles numbred the hallowing of bread, palmes, and candles among papisticall superstitions and abuses. The Doctrine of the Parliament willet them to be reverently used. And so do the Injunctions nowe set fourthe.²⁵ Which made me thinke the printer myght thrust in an homilie of his owen devise." How far these practices were allowed by the recent Injunctions may be seen by the direct comparison of them, and of the preceding Proclamation; in maintaining that they were in accordance with the Doctrine of the Parliament, Bp. Gardiner referred to "The neces-³⁰ sary Doctrine and Erudition of any Christen Man," published in 1540, which treated the errors of the church of Rome with great leniency, and was approved by Parliament in the year 1543, Bp. Gardiner himself having taken an active part in the correction of it. See Strype's Cranm. vol. i. pp. 143 and 226. It would appear that this letter of the³⁵ archbishop derives its authority from the preceding proclamation, and was written after the order in council was agreed upon, but before the proclamation was issued. But here, as in many other cases, there is some confusion as to dates. Comp. Collier, vol. ii. p. 241. Lingard. vol. iv. p. 393.

certain reformations and orders according to the laws and commaundment of God, in this his majesty's church of England, to the intent that one and a most godly conformitee might be had throughout all his realme: and is advertised that diverse unlearned and undiscrete preachers 5 and other priestes, of a devilshe mynd and intent, hath not only incited and moved his lovyng subjectes, as well in confession as otherwise, to disobedience and stubbornnesse against his majesty's godly procedyngs, but also that other light and perverse persones hath sowed abroad 10 false and traitorous rumours against his highnes their sovereigne lord, telling that they hear say, that his majesty will take and set upon them new and straunge exactions, as of every one that is married, half a crowne, likewise of every christening and of a burial, with other such 15 lying and untrue surmises: whereby some leude and light persons, and that of no small number, geving credit to suche false tales, and other havynge confidence in those seditious preachers, hath been seduced and brought to muche disorder of late and in some parties, in maner to 20 insurrection and rebellion, to his majesty's no little grief and disquietnes of his highnes' other lovyng subjectes; for reformacion whereof and to th' intent that by such like false and vain tale-tellers his majesty's subjectes should not hereafter be brought and induced to like mis- 25 order and inconvenience: his majesty by th' advice afore-said willeth and commaundeth that no man tell forth, spread abroad, or utter lies nor other such vain leude and untrue tales of the king's majesty, or his highnes' procedynges and affaires, upon pein of his majesty's displeasure 30 and grievous imprisonment of such offendour's body.

And also for to exhue the hurt that maye come of seditious and contentious preachyng, his highnes straitly chargeth and commaundeth, notwithstanding any former commaundment or injuncion, that no man hereafter be 35 permitted or suffered to preache (not meanyng yet hereby but that his highnes' homelies should be accordyng to his majesty's injunccion red and declared) except the same be licensed thereunto by his majesty, the lord protector, or the archbishop of Canterbury under his seale: and the honest men of the parishe beside, before his saied preachyng, upon pein of imprisonment, both of the preacher so preachyng without license, and of the curate or parson which suffereth any suche without license, as before is ex-10 pressed, to preache in any of his or their churches or chappelles or churchyardes. And for further execution of the premisses, his majesty by th' advise aforesaid willeth gent hede thereunto and to commit upon due examina-15 tion, as well the saied preacher so preachyng without license as aforesaid, as the curate or parson sufferyng any such preacher in his cure to preache, to prison, and there-lord protector, or the archbishop of Canterbury, as aforesaid, as thei tender his highnes' will and pleasure, and 30 wife may doo to the husband; other, that a man may have two wives or more at once, and that these thynges be prohibited not by Gode's law, but by the bishop of Rome's law; so that by suche evill and phantasticall opinions some have not been afraied in deed to mary and as a most Christain prince, by th' advise aforesaid not allowyng as godly or convenient to be spred abrode or maintained in the realme, straightly chargeth and commaundeth all archebishoppes and bishoppes and other which have spirituall iurisdiccions within the realme, to procede against all suche as hath or hereafter shall mary⁵ or kepe two wives at once (wherof the first is his lawful wife), or shall put awaie his wife and mary another; and to punishe such offenders, according to the ecclesiastical lawes, with grave and severe punishment, to feare there with others, which else would fall to suche insolent and¹⁰ unlawful actes.

And that all his highnes' officers and lovyng subjectes who hath charge or zeale thereto, shall detecte all such offendours to the s^d archebishoppes and bishoppes and others that exerciseth spirituall iurisdiccion, and ayde the¹⁵ same to the punishment of suche evill doers, accordyng to the order of the lawe in those cases. And if so bee, the saied archebishoppes, bishoppes, or other who hath the exercise of spirituall iurisdiccions be slacke and negligent in th' execution of the s^d processe and punyshing²⁰ such evill doers, as is before rehersed, that then the justices of peace in every shire, or any other his majesty's lovyng subjectes shall declare and signifie such offenders and misdoers to the king's highnes' counsail by their letters, that his highnes, by th' advise aforesaid, might se²⁵ a convenient redresse made of such misorder and loke more straitly upon the archebishoppes and bishoppes, which doth not execute their duties in this behalf, accordyng to the truste committed unto them.

A letter sent to all those preachers which the king's majesty hath licensed to preach, from the lord protector's grace, and other of the king's majesty's most honourable council, the 13th day of May, in the second year of the reign of our sovereign lord king Edward VI. Ex Burnet Hist. Reform. vol. ii. app. pag. 130.

AFTER our right hearty commendations, as well for the conservation of the quietness and good order of the king's majesty's subjects, as that they should not by evil and unlearned preachers be brought unto superstition, error, or evil doctrine, or otherwise be made stubborn and disobedient to the king's majesty's godly proceedings; his highness, by our advice, hath thought

A letter sent to all those] In the proclamation of the preceding February (N^o. VII.) licenses were allowed to be given to preachers from the king, the king's visitors, the archbishop or the bishops within their respective dioceses. In the proclamation of the 24th of April (see No. X*. and Strype's Mem. vol. ii. P. i. p. 142.) this power of licensing was given exclusively to the king, to the protector and the archbishop of Canterbury; and this letter of the council, dated May 13, was addressed to all preachers so licensed by the king or the protector. But disturbances still continued; and another proclamation, bearing date September 23rd in the same year, and referring to the previous proclamation of April 24th (see N^o. XIII.), cancelled the licenses of whatever kind previously given, and prohibited all preaching for the future, until one uniform order should be had throughout the realm. "So that now," says Strype, (Mem. vol. ii. P. i. p. 142,) "no bishop might license any to preach in his own diocese, nay, nor might preach himself without license: so I have seen licenses to preach granted to the bishop of Exeter, an. 1551, and to the bishops of Lincoln and Chichester, an. 1552." Lingard, vol. v. p. 386. n. Sharp on the Rubric, p. 148.

good to inhibit all manner of preachers, who have not such license as in the same proclamation is allowed, to preach or stir the people in open and common preachings of sermons, by any means, that the devout and godly homilies might the better in the meanwhile sink into his subjects' hearts, and be learned the sooner, the people not being tossed to and fro with seditious and contentious preaching, while every man according to his zeal, some better, some worse, goeth about to set out his own fantasy, and to draw the people to his opinion. Nevertheless it is not his majesty's mind, hereby clearly to extinct the lively teaching of the word of God by sermons made after such sort, as for the time the Holy Ghost shall put into the preacher's mind; but that rash, contentious, hot and indiscreet preachers should be stopped, and that they only, which be chosen and elect, be discreet and sober men, should occupy that place which was made for edification and not for destruction, for the honour of God and peace, and quietness of conscience, to be set forward, not for private glory to be advanced, to appease, to teach, to instruct the people with humility, and patience, not to make them contentious and proud, to instil into them their duty to their heads and rulers, obedience to laws and orders, appointed by the superiors, who have rule of God; nor that every man should run before their heads hath appointed them what to do, and that every man should choose his own way in religion. The which thing yet being done of some men, and they being rather provoked thereto by certain preachers, than dehorted from it, it was necessary to set a stay therein. And yet forasmuch as we have a great confidence and trust in you, that you will not only preach truly and sincerely the word of God, but also will use circumspection and moderation in your preaching, and such godly wisdom, as shall be necessary and most convenient for the time and place, we have sent unto you the king's majesty's license to preach, but yet with this exhortation and admonishment, that in nowise you do stir and provoke the people to any alteration or innovation, other than is already set forth by the king's majesty's injunctions, homilies, and proclamations; but contrariwise, that you do in all your sermons exhort men to that which is at this time more necessary, that is, to the emendation of their own lives, to the observance of the commandments of God, to humility, patience and obedience to their heads and 10 rulers, comforting the weak and teaching them the right way, and to flee all old, erroneous superstitions, as the confidence in pardons, pilgrimages, beads, religious images, and other such of the bishop of Rome's traditions and superstitions, with his usurped power, the which things

15 be here in this realm most justly abolished; and straitly rebuking those, who of an arrogancy and proud hastiness will take upon them to run before they be sent, to go before the rulers, to alter and change things in religion without authority, teaching them to expect and tarry the 20 time which God hath ordained to the revealing of all truth, and not to seek so long blindly and hidlings after it, till they bring all orders into contempt. It is not a private man's duty to alter ceremonies, to innovate orders in the church, nor yet it is not a preacher's part to bring
25 that into contempt and hatred, which the prince doth either allow or is content to suffer. The king's highness by our advice, as a prince most earnestly given to the true knowledge of God, and to bring up his people therein, doth not cease to labour and travail by all godly
30 means, that his realm might be brought and kept in a most godly and Christian order, who only may and ought to do it; why should a private man or a preacher take this royal and kingly office upon him, and not rather, as his duty is, obediently follow himself, and teach likewise

it is easy to see by the acts of parliament, the injunctions, proclamations, and homilies; the which things most earnestly it behoveth all preachers in their sermons to confirm, and approve accordingly; in other things, which be not yet touched, it behoveth him to think, that either the prince doth allow them, or else suffer them; and in those it is the part of a godly man, not to think himself wiser than the king's majesty and his council, but patiently to expect and to conform himself thereto, and not to intermeddle further to the disturbance of a realm, the disturbing of the king's people, the troubling of men's consciences, and disorder of the king's subjects.

These things we have thought good to admonish you of at this time, because we think you will set the same so forward in your preaching, and so instruct the king's majesty's people according to the most advancement of the glory of God, and the king's majesty's most godly proceedings, that we do not doubt but much profit shall ensue thereby, and great conformity in the people, the which you do instruct; and so we pray you not to fail to do; and having a special regard to the weakness of the people, what they may bear and what is most convenient for the time, in no case to intermeddle in your sermons, or otherwise, with matters in contention or controversy, except it be to reduce the people in them also to obedience, and following of such orders, as the king's majesty hath already set forth, and no other, as the king's majesty's and our trust is in you, and as you tender his highness' will and pleasure, and will answer to the contrary at your peril.

Fare you well.

Injunctions given by the king's majesty's visitors to all and every the clergy and laity now resident within the deanery of Doncastre.—Ex MS. Johnson apud Burnet Hist. Reform. vol. ii. app. pag. 126.

YOU shall not hereafter in the pulpit, or elsewhere, on the Sunday or any other day, give knowledge to your parishioners, when or what day in the week any of the abrogate holy-days were solemnized or kept in the church, but omit the same with silence, as other working days, for the utter abolishing of the remembrance thereof.

Item, You shall teach your parishioners, that fasting in the Lent and other days is a mere positive, that is to say, man's law, and by the magistrates upon considerations may be altered, changed, and dispensed with; and that therefore all persons having just cause of sickness or other necessity, or being licensed thereto, may temperately eat all kinds of meats without scruple or grudge of conscience.

Item, You shall every day, that an high mass is said or sung at the high altar, before the same mass read openly in your churches the English suffrages, for the preservation and safeguard of the king's majesty's people, and prosperous success of his affairs.

Item, You shall every Sunday, at the time of your going about the church with holy water, into three or four places, where most audience and assembly of people is, for the declaration of the ceremonies, say distinctly and plainly, that your parishioners may well hear and perceive the same, these words: "remember Christ's bloodshedding, by the which most holy sprinkling, of all your sins you have free pardon." And in like manner before the dealing of the holy bread these words: "of Christ's body this is a token, which on the cross for our sins was broken; wherefore of his death if you will be partakers, of vice and sin you must be forsakers." And the clerk in the like manner shall bring down the pax, and standing without the church door, shall say boldly to the people these words: "this is a token of joyful peace, which is betwixt God and men's conscience; Christ alone is the peacemaker, which straitly commands peace between brother and brother." And so long as ye use these ceremonies, so long shall ye use these significations.

Item, The churchwardens of every parish church shall some one Sunday, or other festival day, every month, go about the church and make request to every of the parish for their charitable contributions to the poor, and the sum so collected, shall be put in the chest of alms, for that purpose provided; and for as much as the parish clerk shall not hereafter go about the parish with his holy water, as hath been accustomed, he shall instead of that labour accompany the said churchwardens, and in a book register the name and sum of every man that giveth any thing to the poor, and the same shall intable, and against the next day of collection shall hang up somewhere in the church, in open place, to the intent the poor having knowledge thereby, by whose charity and alms they be relieved, may pray for the increase and prosperity of the same.

Item, The churchwardens for the better relief of honest poverty, shall upon sufficient surety found for the repayment of the same, lend to some young married couple, or some poor inhabitants of the parish, some part of the said alms, whereby they may buy some kind of stuff; by the working, sale, and gains whereof, they may repay the sum borrowed, and also well relieve themselves; or else the said churchwardens to buy the stuff themselves and pay the poor for their working thereof; and after sale of 5 the same, to return the sum with the gain to the said chest, there to remain to such like use.

Item, Forasmuch as heretofore you have not by any means, diligence, or study, advanced yourselves unto knowledge in God's word, and his scriptures, condignly
10 as appertaineth to priests and dispensators of God's testament; to the intent you may hereafter be of better ability to discharge yourselves towards God and your offices to the world, you shall daily for your own study and knowledge, read over diligently and weigh with 15 judgment two chapters of the new testament, and one of the old in English, and the same shall put in ure and practice, as well in living as preaching, at times convenient, when occasion is given.

Item, Forasmuch as drunkenness, idleness, brawls, dis-
20 sension, and many other inconveniences do chance between neighbour and neighbour, by the assembly of people together at wakes, and on the plough Mondays; it is therefore ordered and enjoyned, that hereafter the people shall use, make, or observe no more such wakes, 25 plough Mondays, or drawing of the same with any such assembly or rout of people, or otherwise, as hath been accustomed, upon pain of forfeiting to the king's highness forty shillings for every default, to be paid by the owner of the plough and householder, whereunto the said plough

WHEREAS of late by reason of certain controversial and seditious preachers, the king's majesty moved of tender zeal and love, which he hath to the quiet of his subjects, by the advice of the lord protector, and other his highnes' council, hath by proclamation inhibited and commanded, that no manner of person, except such as was licensed by his highnes, the lord protector, or by the archbishop of Canterbury, should take upon him to preach, in any open audience, upon pain in the said proclamation contained, and that upon hope and ¹⁰esperaunce, that those being chosen and elect men should preach and set forth only to the people such things, as should be to God's honour, and the benefit of the king's majesty's subjects; yet nevertheless his highnes is advertised, that certain of the said preachers so licensed not ¹⁵regarding such good admonitions, as have been by the said lord protector and the rest of the council on his majesty's behalf by letters or otherwise given unto them, have abused the said authority of preaching, and behaved themselves irreverently, and without good order in the ²⁰said preachings, contrary to such good instructions and advertisements, as were given unto them, whereby much contention and disorder might rise and ensue in this his

A proclamation] On this proclamation Bp. Burnet observes, (Hist. Ref. vol. ii. p. 167.) "I never met with any footsteps of it, neither in ²⁵records, nor in letters, nor in any book written at that time. But Mr. Fuller has printed it, and Dr. Heylin has given an abstract of it from him." Collier also quotes it without suspicion, vol. ii. p. 262. It may be seen in a small collection of royal proclamations printed in the year 1550, now among Mr. Douce's books in the Bodleian.

majesty's realm: wherefore his highnes minding to see very shortly one uniform order throughout this his realm, and to put an end to all controversies in religion, so far as God shall give grace (for which cause at this time
5 certain bishops and notable learned men, by his highnes' commandment, are congregate) hath by the advice aforesaid, thought good, although certain and many of the said preachers so before licensed, have behaved themselves very discreetly and wisely, and to the honour of God and
10 to his highnes' contentation; yet at this present and until such time as the said order shall be set forth generally, throughout this his majesty's realm, to inhibit and by these presents doth inhibit generally as well the said preachers, so before licensed, as all manner of persons
15 whosoever they be, to preach in open audience, in the pulpit or otherwise, by any sought colour or fraud, to the disobeying of this commandment; to the intent, that the whole clergy in this mean space might apply themselves to prayer to almighty God for the better achieving of the 20 same most godly intent and purpose; not doubting but that also his loving subjects in the mean time will occupy themselves to God's honour, with due prayer in the church, and patient hearing of the godly homilies, heretofore set forth by his highnes' injunctions unto them,
25 and so endeavour themselves that they may be the more ready with thankful obedience to receive a most quiet, godly and uniform order to be had throughout all his said realms and dominions; and therefore hath willed all his loving officers and ministers, as well justices of peace, 30 as mayors, sheriffs, bailiffs, constables, or any other his officers, of what estate, degree, or condition soever they be, to be attendant upon this proclamation, and commandment, and to see the infringers or breakers thereof to be imprisoned, and his highnes or the lord protector's concerning the communion to be ministered in both kinds.*

Ex ii. FOX. p. 659.

AFTER our most hearty commendations unto your lordship. Where in the parliament late holden at Westminster it was amongst other things most godly established, that according to the first institution and use of the primitive church, the most holy sacrament of the body and blood of our Saviour Jesus Christ, should be distributed to the people under the kinds of bread and wine; according to the effect whereof the king's majesty minding with the advice and consent of the lord protector's grace, and the rest of the council, to have the said statute well executed in such sort, or like as is agreeable with the word of God (so the same may be also faithfully and reverently received of his most loving subjects, to their comforts and wealth) hath caused sundry of his majesty's most grave and well learned prelates, and other learned men in the scripture, to assemble themselves for this matter, who after long conference together have with deliberate advice, finally agreed upon such an order to be used in all places of the king's majesty's dominions, in the distribution of the said most holy sacrament, as may appear to you by the book thereof, which

Letter missive] "The Order of the Communion," having previously been approved by the Convocation, and authorized by Act of Parliament, was printed by Grafton on the 8th of March, 1548, and accompanied by a proclamation enjoining the general use of it. we send herewith unto you ; albeit knowing your lordship's knowledge in the scriptures, and earnest good will and zeal to the setting forth of all things, according to the truth thereof, we be well assured you will of your 5 own good will, and upon respect to your duty, diligently set forth this most godly order here agreed upon, and commanded to be used by the authority of the king's majesty ; yet remembering the crafty practice of the devil, who ceases not by his members to work by all
10 ways and means the hinderance of all godliness ; and considering furthermore, that a great number of the curates of the realm either for lack of knowledge cannot, or for want of good mind will not, be so ready to set forth the same, as we would wish, and as the importance
15 of the matter and their own bounden duty requires, we have thought good to pray and require your lordship, and nevertheless in the king's majesty, our most dread lord's name, to command you to have an earnest diligence and careful respect both in your own person, and by all your
20 officers and ministers, also to cause these books to be delivered to every parson, vicar and curate, within your diocese, with such diligence, as they may have sufficient time well to instruct and advise themselves, for the distribution of the most holy communion, according to the
25 order of this book, before this Easter time, and that they may by your good means be well directed to use such good, gentle, and charitable instruction, of their simple and unlearned parishioners, as may be to all their good satisfactions, as much as may be ; praying you to consider, that this order is set forth, to the intent there
30 should be in all parts of this realm, and among all men, one uniform manner quietly used, the execution whereof like as it shall stand very much in the diligence of you and others of your vocation, so do we eftsoons require Articles to be followed and observed according to the king's majesty's injunctions and proceedings. Ex MS. Johnson apud Burnet, Hist. Reform. vol. ii. app. p. 165.

1. HAT all parsons, vicars and curates omit in the reading of the injunctions, all such as make mention of the popish mass, of chantries, of candles upon the altar, or any other such like thing.

Articles to be followed] Instructions given in charge to the visitors on a new royal visitation, and differing in some respects from the former Injunctions: for instance, in the Injunctions, (No. II.) and in Cranmer's Articles founded upon them, (No. X.) two lights were allowed upon the high altar; in these Articles it is forbidden that there should be any "candles upon the altar," or "any light upon the Lord's board at any time." See also Bp. Ridley's Injunctions, No. XXI., and Burnet, Hist. Ref. vol. ii. p. 209. It is clear that these Articles were drawn up after the Act of Uniformity had passed, (Jan. 21, 1549,) which enjoined that the new (the first) Book of Common Prayer should be used from the following Whitsunday; as may be shewn not only from the second, but also from the eighth Article, which was taken from the following rubric of that book: "The curate of every parish, once in six weeks at the least, upon warning by him given, shall, upon some Sunday or holy-day, half an hour before evensong, openly in the church instruct and examine so many children of his parish sent unto

2. Item, For an uniformity, that no minister do counterfeit the popish mass, as to kiss the Lord's table; washing his fingers at every time in the communion; blessing his eyes with the paten, or sudary; or crossing his head
5 with the paten; shifting of the book from one place to another; laying down and licking the chalice of the communion; holding up his fingers, hands, or thumbs, joined towards his temples; breathing upon the bread or chalice; shewing the sacrament openly before the distri-
10 bution of the communion; ringing of sacrying bells; or setting any light upon the Lord's board at any time; and finally to use no other ceremonies than are appointed in the king's book of common prayers, or kneeling, otherwise than is in the said book.

15 3. Item, That none buy or sell the holy communion, as in trentals and such other.

4. Item, That none be suffered to pray upon beads, and so the people to be diligently admonished, and such 20 as will not be admonished, to be put from the holy communion.

5. Item, That after the homily, every Sunday, the minister exhort the people, especially the communicants, to remember the poor men's box with their charity.

6. Item, To receive no corpse, but at the churchyard, 25 without bell or cross.

7. Item, That the common prayer upon Wednesdays and Fridays be diligently kept, according to the king's him, as the time will serve, and as he shall think convenient, in some part of this Catechism." (The two Lit. of King Edward VI. compared, 30 p. 351.) But though issued after the publication of the Prayer-book, these Articles are of the same year, and afford evidence of the contemporary practice in matters of rites and ceremonies. They prove accordingly that candles upon the Lord's table, being especially mentioned (see Article 2.) as not included among those ceremonies which were ap-35 pointed in the Book of Common Prayer, are not among those ornaments "which were in this church of England by authority of parliament in the second year of king Edward VI."

ordinances, exhorting such as may conveniently come to be there.

8. Item, That the curates, every sixth week at the least, teach and declare diligently the catechism, according to the book of the same. 5

9. Item, That no man maintain purgatory, invocation of saints, the six articles, beadrolls, images, relics, lights, holy bells, holy beads, holy water, palms, ashes, candles, sepulchres, paschal, creeping to the cross, hallowing of the font of the popish manner, oil, chrism, altars, beads, ¹⁰ or any other such abuses, and superstitions, contrary to the king's majesty's proceedings.

10. Item, That within any church or chapel be not used any more than one communion, upon any day, except Christmas day and Easter day. 15

11. Item, That none keep the abrogate holy-days other than those that have their proper and peculiar service.

12. Item, That the churchwardens suffer no buying or selling, gaming, or unfitting demeanour in church or churchyards, especially during the common prayer, the ²⁰ sermon, and reading of the homily.

13. Item, That going to the sick with the sacrament the minister have not with him either light or bells.

The council's letter to bishop Bonner for reformation of certain masses at St. Paul's. Ex Heylin Hist. Reform. p. 74, et vol. ii. Fox. p. 661. ed. 1641.

AFTER hearty commendations, having very credible notice that within that your cathedral church there ²⁵ be as yet the apostles' mass and our lady's mass, and other masses of such peculiar name under the defence and nomination of our lady's communion, and the apostles' communion, used in private chapels, and other remote

 5 places of the same, and not in the chancel, contrary to the king's majesty's proceedings, the same being for the misuse displeasing to God, for the place, Paul's, in example not tolerable, for the fondness of the name a scorn to the reverence of the communion of the Lord's body
 10 and blood; we for the augmentation of God's honour and glory, and the consonance of his majesty's laws, and the avoiding of murmur, have thought good to will and command you, that from henceforth no such masses in this manner be in your church any longer used, but that the
 15 holy blessed communion, according to the act of parliament, be ministered at the high altar of the church, and in no other places of the same, and only at such time, as your high masses were wont to be used; except some number of people desire (for their necessary business) to 20 have a communion in the morning, and yet the same to be executed in the chancel at the high altar, as it is appointed in the book of the public service, without cautele or digression from the common order; and herein you shall not only satisfy our expectation of your conformity in all
 25 lawful things, but also avoid the murmur of sundry, that be therewith justly offended, and so we bid your lordship heartily farewell.

From Richmond, the 24th of June, 1549.

Your loving friends,

Another letter directed by the king and his council to Bonner, bishop of London, partly rebuking him of negligence, partly charging him to see to the better setting out of the service book within his diocese. Ex vol. ii. Fox. p. 663.

RIGHT reverend father in God, right trusty and well beloved, we greet you well; and whereas after great and serious debating and long conference of the bishops and other grave and well learned men in the holy scripture, one uniform order for common prayers and administration of the sacraments hath been, and is most godly set forth, not only by the common agreement and full assent of the nobility and commons of the late session of our late parliament, but also by the like assent of the bishops in the said parliament, and of all other the learned men of this our realm in their synods and convocations provincial, like as it was much to our comfort to understand the godly travail then diligently and willingly taken for the true opening of things mentioned in the said book, whereby the true service and honour of Almighty God and the right ministration of the sacraments being well and sincerely set forth, according to the scriptures and use of the primitive church, much idolatry, vain superstition, and great and slanderous abuses be taken away: so it is no small occasion of sorrow unto us to understand by the complaints of many, that our said book so much travelled for, and also sincerely set forth (as is aforesaid) remaineth in many places of this our realm either not known at all, or not used, or at the least, if it be used, very seldom, and that in such light and irreverent sort, as the people in many places either have heard nothing, or if they hear, they neither understand, nor have that spiritual

10 occasions, our loving subjects remain yet still in their blindness and superstitious errors, and in some places in as irreligious forgetfulness of God, whereby his wrath may be provoked upon us and them, and remembering withal, that amongst other cures committed to our
15 princely charge, we think this the greatest, to see the glory and true service of him maintained and extolled, by whose clemency we know ourselves to have all that we have, we could not but by advice and consent of our dearest uncle Edward duke of Somerset, governor
20 of our person, and protector of our realms, dominions, and subjects, and the rest of our privy council, admonish you of the premisses. Wherein, as it hath been your office to have used an earnest diligence, and to have preferred the same in all places, within your diocese, as
25 the case required, so have we thought good to pray and require you and nevertheless straitly to charge and command you, that from henceforth ye have an earnest and special regard to the reduce of these things, so as the curates may do their duties more often and in more
30 reverent sort, and the people be occasioned by the good advices and examples of yourself, your chancellor, archdeacons, and other inferior ministers, to come with oftener and more devotion to their said common prayers, to give thanks to God, and to be partakers of the most 35 holy communion; wherein shewing yourself diligent and giving good example in your own person you shall both

discharge your duty to the great Pastor, to whom we all have to account, and also do us good service; and on the other side, if we shall hereafter (these our letters and commandment notwithstanding) hear eftsoons complaint, and find the like fault in your diocese, we shall have just cause to impute the fault thereof, and of all that ensueth thereof, unto you, and consequently be occasioned thereby to see otherwise to the redress of these things; whereof we would be sorry; and therefore we do eftsoons charge and command you, upon your allegiance to look well upon your duty herein, as ye tender our pleasure. Articles to be enquired of] "There was nothing else done of moment this year [1550] in relation to the church, save the visitation made of the diocese of London by Ridley, their new bishop. But the exact time of it is not set down in the Register. It was, according to King Edward's Journal, some time before the 28th of June; for he writes that on that day Sir John Yates, the high-sheriff of Essex, was sent down with letters to see the bishop of London's injunctions performed, which touched the plucking down of superaltaries, altars, and such like ceremonies and abuses: so that the visitation must have been about the beginning of June." Whether your parsons and vicars, absent from their benefice, do leave their cure to an able minister; and if he may dispend yearly xx*l.* or above in this deanery, or elsewhere, whether he doth distribute every year among his poor parishioners there at the least, the fortieth part of the fruits of the same. And likewise yearly spending *c*l. whether he doth find one scholar at either of the universities, or some grammar school, and so for every other hundred pound one scholar?

Whether every dean, archdeacon, and prebendary, being priest, doth personally by himself preach twice every year at the least, either where he is entitled, or where he hath jurisdiction, or in some place united or appropriate to the same?

Whether your minister having license thereunto, doth use to preach; or not licensed, doth diligently procure other to preach that are licensed: or whether he refuseth those offering themselves, that are licensed; or absenteth himself, or causeth other to be away from the sermon, or else admitteth any to preach that are not licensed?

Whether any curate doth marry them of other parishes without their curate's license and certificate from him of the banns thrice solemnly asked?

Whether any saith that the wickedness of the minister taketh away the effect of Christ's sacraments?

Whether any saith that christian men cannot be allowed to repentance, if they sin voluntary after baptism?

Injunctions given in the visitation of the reverend father in God Nicholas bishop of London, for an uniformity in his diocese of London, in the fourth year of our sovereign lord King Edward the Sixth, by the grace of God, King of England, &c.—London, anno Dom. 1550. g

1. That there be no reading of such injunctions as extolleth and setteth forth the popish mass, candles, images, chantries; neither that there be used any superaltaries, or trentals of communions.

10 Item, That no minister do counterfeit the popish mass in kissing the Lord's board; washing his hands or fingers after the Gospel or the receipt of the holy communion; shifting the book from one place to another; laying down and licking the chalice after the communion; blessing
15 his eyes with the sudary thereof, or patten, or crossing his head with the same; holding his forefingers and thumbs joined together toward the temples of his head, after the receiving of the sacrament; breathing on the bread or chalice; saying the Agnus before the communion; shew-
20 ing the sacrament openly before the distribution, or making any elevation thereof; ringing of the sacrying bell, or setting any light upon the Lord's board. And finally, that the minister, in time of the holy communion, do use only the ceremonies and gestures appointed by the Book
25 of Common Prayer, and none other, so that there do not appear in them any counterfeiting of the popish mass.

Item, That none be admitted to receive the holy communion but such as will, upon request of the curate, be ready with meekness and reverence to confess the articles of the Creed.

Item, That none make a mart of the holy communion by buying and selling the receipt thereof for money, as the popish mass in times past was wont to be.

Item, Whereas in divers places some use the Lord's board after the form of a table, and some as an altar, whereby dissention is perceived to arise among the unlearned; therefore wishing a godly unity to be observed in all our diocese; and for that the form of a table may more move and turn the simple from the old superstitious opinions of the popish mass, and to the right use of the Lord's supper, ^hwe exhort the curates, churchwardens and questmen here present to erect and set up the Lord's

^h we exhort the curates, churchwardens] "The injunction only exhorts the curates to do it, which Ridley could not have done in such soft words, after the council had required and commanded him to do it: so it appears that the injunctions were given only by his episcopal power. And that afterwards, the same matter being brought before the council, who were informed that in many places there had been contests about it, some being for keeping to their old custom, and others being set on a change, the council thought fit to send their letter concerning it to Ridley on the 24th of November following. (See No. XXIV.) The letter sets out that altars were taken away in divers places upon good and godly considerations, but still continued in other places; by which there rose much contention among the king's subjects: therefore for avoiding that, they did charge and command him to give substantial order through all his diocese for removing all altars, and setting up tables every where, for the communion to be administered in some convenient part of the chancel; and that these orders might be the better received, there were reasons sent with the letters. . . . Upon these reasons therefore was this change ordered to be made all over England, which was universally executed this year." Burnet H. R. vol. ii. p. 328. Comp. Collier, vol. ii. p. 304. Ridley framed his injunction, doubtless, on the authority given to bishops in the Preface to the Book of Common Prayer, "to take order for the quieting and appeasing of all doubts" connected with the use of that book.

Item, That the minister in the time of the communion immediately after the offertory shall monish the communicants, saying these words or such like, "Now is the 10 time, if it please you, to remember the poor men's chest with your charitable alms."

Item, That the Homilies be read orderly, without omission of any part thereof.

Item, That the Common Prayer be had in every church
15 upon Wednesdays and Fridays, according to the king's grace's ordinance: and that all such as conveniently may, shall diligently resort to the same.

Item, That every curate be diligent to teach the Catechism whensoever just occasion is offered, upon the 20 Sunday or holy-day, and at least every six weeks once shall call upon his parishioners, and present himself ready to instruct and examine the youth of the same parish, according to the book of service touching the same.

Item, That none maintain purgatory, invocation of 25 saints, the six articles, bedrowls, images, relics, rubric primers, with invocation of saints, justification of man by his own works, holy bread, palms, ashes, candles, sepulchre paschal, creeping to the cross, hallowing of the fire or altar, or any other such-like abuses, and superstitions, 30 now taken away by the king's grace's most godly proceedings.

Item, That all ministers do move the people to often and worthy receiving of the holy communion.

Item, That every minister do move his parishioners 35 to come diligently to the church; and when they come, not to talk or walk in the sermon, communion or divine service time, but rather at the same to behave themselves reverently, godly and devoutly in the church; and that they also monish the churchwardens to be diligent overseers in that behalf.

Item, That the churchwardens do not permit any buy-⁵ing, selling, gaming, outrageous noise or tumult, or any other idle occupying of youth in the church, church-porch, or church-yard, during the time of common prayer, sermon, or reading of the homily.

Item, That no persons use to minister the sacraments, ¹⁰or in open audience of the congregation presume to expound the holy scriptures, or to preach, before they be first lawfully called and authorized in that behalf.

King Edward VI. order] This order will be sufficiently explained by the following extracts from the Journal of King Edward. (Burnet, H. R. vol. ii. P. ii. p. 25.) “ July 9. The Earl of Warwick, the Lord Treasurer, Sir William Herbert, and the Secretary Petre, went to the ¹⁵ Bishop of Winchester, with certain articles signed by me and the council, containing the confession of his fault, the supremacy, the establishing of holy-days, the abolishing of six articles, and divers other, whereof the copy is in the council chest; whereunto he put his hand, saving to the confession. Commissio regia pro reformatione legum ecclesiasticarum.

EDWARDUS sextus Dei gratia Angliæ, Franciæ et Hiberniæ rex, fidei defensor, et in terra ecclesiæ Anglicanæ et Hibernicæ supremum caput, reverendissimo

Commissio regia] “ The revision of the ecclesiastical laws had been projected as early as 1532. In the submission then made to king 15 Henry by the clergy, they declared, that whereas divers canons were ‘thought to be not only much prejudicial to his prerogative royal, but also overmuch onerous to his highness’s subjects,’ they were content to commit the judgment respecting them to thirty-two persons—‘all to be chosen and appointed by his most noble grace.’ In conformity with 20 this concession, an Act of parliament was passed in March 1534 (Stat. 25 Hen. VIII. c. 19.) empowering his majesty to nominate commissioners, and enacting that the canons approved by these commissioners, if fortified by the royal assent under the great seal, should be kept and observed within the realm. This Act was renewed in 1536 (Stat. 27 25

in Christo patri, Thomæ eadem gratia Cant. archiepiscopo, totius Angliæ primati, et metropolitano, reverendoque in Christo patri Thomæ Eliensi episcopo; ac dilectis nobis in Christo Richardo Cox eleemosynario nostro, Petro Martyr, sacræ theologiæ professoribus, Willielmo Maye, Rowlando Taylour de Hadley, legum doctoribus; necnon dilectis et fidelibus nostris, Johanni Lucas, et Richardo

Hen. VIII. c. 15.) and again in 1544 (Stat. 35 Hen. VIII. c. 16). In the latter case it was so far carried into execution that commissioners were appointed, a body of ecclesiastical law digested, and a letter of ratification prepared for the king's signature. But this signature was never affixed; and the powers granted to the crown having been limited to the life-time of Henry VIII., a fresh Act was passed with the same object in 1549. Commissioners are said to have been named shortly afterwards in pursuance of its provisions; but if this was the fact, they seem to have made little progress in the business, for a new commission was issued in Oct. 1551, to eight bishops, eight divines, eight civilians, and eight common lawyers; of whom eight were selected to gather and put in order the materials. 'But the matter' says Strype 'was in effect wholly entrusted by the king to the archbishop, who associated to himself in the active part of this work, Taylor, Martyr and Haddon.' And this account is confirmed by the numerous corrections in the hand-writing of Cranmer and Peter Martyr, which may still be seen in a MS. copy of the projected code preserved in the British Museum." (Harl. MSS. 426.) Cranmer's Works by Jenkyns, vol. i. p. cviii. The present commission is dated Nov. 11, 1551, and seems to have superseded that of October, for the sole purpose of substituting the names of Goodrich, bishop of Ely, William May, and Richard Goodrich, for those of Ridley, Traheron and Gosnold. A reason may easily be found for the introduction of the bishop of Ely into this commission, as it had recently been determined, on the disgrace of lord Rich, to raise him to the office of lord chancellor. The code was completed by these commissioners, but not early enough to obtain the force of law before the death of king Edward. The attempts to revive it in the reign of Elizabeth were unsuccessful. It was published in 1571 by John Daye, with a Preface written by Fox. This account of the matter is derived principally from Strype, and differs in many points from that of bishop Burnet. 5 commissariorum nostrorum, juxta formam statuti prædicti, conjunctim nominandorum transmittamus.

Et quamvis vos ea modestia, et sapientia præditos esse scimus, quod onus istud humeris vestris commissum, et impositum, haud parvi esse momenti, et ponderis

FIRST upon the receipt of the said commission by any one of the same commissioners, he that so shall first receive the commission, shall forthwith with all convenient speed give knowledge to the rest named in the said commission, and with them shall agree to meet and assemble with what speed they can, for the execution of the same commission, and these instructions; and if any of the said commissioners shall be dead, sick, or otherwise be so absent out of the country for the service of the king, that he cannot with speed attend the same, in that case, the rest of the same commissioners, so that they be to the number appointed by the commission, shall not make any delay from the proceeding in the Instructions given] "There was a strict enquiry made of all who had cheated the king in the suppression of chantries, or in any other thing that related to churches; from which the visitors were believed to have embezzled much to their own uses; and there were many suits in the Star-chamber about it. Most of all these persons had been the friends or creatures of the duke of Somerset: and the inquiry after these things seems to have been more out of hatred to him, than out of any design to make the king the richer by what should be recovered for his use." Burnet, H. R. vol. ii. p. 424. See also Strype, Mem. vol. ii. P. ii. p. 211.

same commission, but shall forthwith allot their sittings assemblies and meetings for the same commission, as in like cases hath been, or shall be meet to be used.

Item, for their better and more certain proceeding, the 5 said commissioners shall in such cases, where none of the commissioners be "custos rotulorum" of that county, nor hath been since the beginning of our reign, command the said "custos rotulorum" or their deputy, or the clerk of the peace of those parts, to bring or send
10 unto them such books, registers, and inventories, as hath heretofore any wise come to their hands by indenture touching the sums, numbers, and values of any goods, plate, jewels, vestments, and bells, or ornaments of any churches, chapel, and such like: and likewise the said
15 commissioners shall send to the bishops of every diocese, wherein the said county is situate, or to their chancellors, commissaries, or other ecclesiastical officers, in whose hands or custody the like of the aforesaid inventories and registers have command of them and every of them,
20 they shall receive and take the said books, registers, and inventories; and that done, the said commissioners shall compare both the same inventories (that is to say) as well such as they shall receive and take of the "custos rotulorum," or their deputy, or the clerk of the peace, as
25 of the bishops or other under officers; and accordingly to the best, richest, and greatest inventories of the said commissioners shall proceed to make their survey and inquiry, and by the same make the searches of the defaults and wants that shall be found. And generally the 30 same commissioners shall not only by the view of the said registers and inventories, but also by any other means they can better devise, proceed to the due search, and inquisition of the wants or defaults of any part of the said goods, plate, jewels, vestments, bells, or orna-35 ments.

Item, for the more speedy obtaining of the said

registers, and inventories, the said commissioners shall receive special letters of commandment from our privy council for the delivery thereof, which letters the said commissioners shall deliver as they shall see occasion.

Item, the said commissioners shall upon their view⁵ and survey taken, cause due inventories to be made by bills or books indented, of all manner of goods, plate, jewels, bells and ornaments as yet remaining, or any wise forth-coming and belonging to any churches, chapels, fraternities, or guilds; and the one part of the same in-¹⁰ventories to send and return to our privy council, and the other to deliver to them, in whose hands the said goods, plate, jewels, bells, and ornaments shall remain to be kept preserved. And they shall also give good charge and order, that the same goods and every part¹⁵ thereof, be at all times forth-coming to be answered, leaving nevertheless in every parish church or chapel of common resort, one, two, or more chalices or cups, according to the multitude of the people in every such church or chapel; and also such other ornaments as by²⁰ their discretion shall seem requisite for the divine service in every such place for the time.

And because we be informed, that in many places great quantity of the said plate, jewels, bells, and ornaments be embezzled by certain private men, contrary to²⁵ our express commandments in that behalf; the said commissioners shall substantially and justly inquire and attain the knowledge thereof, by whose default the same is, and hath been, and in whose hands any part of the same is come. And in that point the said commissioners³⁰ shall have good regard, that they attain to certain names and dwellingplaces of every person and persons, that hath sold, alienated, embezzled, taken or carried away; and of such also as have counselled, advised, and commanded any part of the said goods, plate, jewels, bells, vestments,³⁵ and ornaments to be taken or carried away, or otherwise embezzled. And these things they shall as certainly and duly as they can, cause to be searched and understand.

Upon a full search and inquiry whereof, the said commissioners, four or three of them, shall cause to be called before them also the persons by whom any of the said goods, plate, jewels, bells, ornaments, or any other the premises, have been alienated, embezzled, or taken away; or by whose means or procurement the same or any part thereof hath been attempted, or to whose hands or use any of the same, or any profit for the same hath grown; and by such means as to their discretions shall seem best, cause to bring into their the said commissioners' hands, to our use, the said plate, jewels, bells, and other the premises so alienated, or the true and just value thereof; certifying unto our privy council the names of all such as refuse to stand to, or obey their order, touching the redelivery and restitution of the same, or the just value thereof, to the intent that, as cause and reason shall require, every man may answer to his doings in this behalf.

Finally, our pleasure is, that the said commissioners in all their doings, shall use such sober and discreet manner of proceeding, as the effect of this commission may go forward with as much quiet, and as little occasion of trouble or disquiet of the multitude, as may be; using to that end such wise persuasions in all places of their sessions, as in respect of the place and disposition of the people may seem to their wisdoms most expedient; giving also good and substantial order for the stay of the inordinate and greedy covetousness of such disordered people, as have or shall go about the alienating of any of the premises, so as according to reason and order, such as have or shall contemptuously offend in this behalf, may receive reformation, as for the quality of their doings shall be requisite.

THE queen's highness well remembering, what great inconvenience and dangers have grown to this her realm in times past through the diversities of opinions in questions of religion; and hearing also, that now of late sithence the beginning of her most gracious reign the same contentions be again much revived, through certain false and untrue reports and rumours spread by some evil disposed persons, hath thought good to give to understand to all her highness' most loving subjects her most gracious pleasure in manner following. 10

First, her majesty being presently by the only goodness of God settled in her just possession of the imperial crown of this realm, and other dominions thereunto belonging, cannot now hide that religion, which God and the world knoweth she hath ever professed from her infancy hitherto; which as her majesty is minded to observe and maintain for herself by God's grace during her time, so doth her highness much desire, and would be glad, the same were of all her subjects quietly and charitably entertained. 20

And yet she doth signify unto all her majesty's loving subjects, that of her most gracious disposition and clemency, her highness minded not to compel any her said subjects thereunto, until such time as further order, by common assent, may be taken therein; forbidding never- 25

theless all her subjects of all degrees, at their perils, to move seditions, or stir unquietness in her people, by interpreting the laws of this realm after their brains and fancies, but quietly to continue for the time, till (as before is said) further order may be taken; and therefore willeth and straitly chargeth and commandeth all her good loving subjects to live together in quiet sort, and Christian charity, leaving those new found devilish terms of papist and heretic, and such like, and applying their whole care, study, and travel to live in the fear of God, exercising their conversations in such charitable and godly doing, as their lives may indeed express the great hunger and thirst of God's glory, which by rash talk and words many have pretended; and in so doing they shall best please God and live without danger of the laws, and maintain the tranquillity of the realm: whereof as her highness shall be most glad, so if any man shall rashly presume to make any assemblies of people, or at any public assemblies, or otherwise shall go about to stir the people to disorder, or disquiet, she mindeth according to her duty to see the same most severely reformed and punished, according to her highness' laws.

And furthermore, forasmuch as it is well known, that sedition and false rumours have been nourished and maintained in this realm by the subtlety and malice of some evil disposed persons, which take upon them without sufficient authority, to preach and interpret the word of God after their own brains in churches and other places, both public and private, and also by playing of interludes, and printing of false fond books and ballads, rhymes and other lewd treatises in the English tongue, containing doctrine in matters now in question and controversies, touching the high points and mysteries in Christian religion, which books, ballads, rhymes, and treatises are chiefly by the printers and stationers set out to sale to her grace's subjects, of an evil zeal for lucre and covetousness of vile gain; her highness therefore straitly chargeth and commandeth all and every of her said subjects of whatsoever state, condition, or degree they be, that none of them presume from hence-⁵ forth to preach, or by way of reading in churches and other public or private places, except in schools of the university, to interpret or teach any scriptures, or any manner of points of doctrine, concerning religion; neither also to print any book, matter, ballad, rhyme, interlude,¹⁰ process or treatise, nor to play any interlude, except they have her grace's special license in writing for the same, upon pain to incur her highness' indignation and displeasure. And her highness also further chargeth and commandeth all and every her said subjects, that none of¹⁵ them of their own authority do presume to punish or to rise against any offender in the causes abovesaid, or any other offender in words and deeds in the late rebellion committed or done by the duke of Northumberland or his complices; or to seize any of their goods, or²⁰ violently to use any such offender by striking, or imprisoning, or threatening the same; but wholly to refer the punishment of all such offenders unto her highness, and public authority, whereof her majesty mindeth to see due punishment according to the order of her highness' laws.²⁵ Nevertheless, as her highness mindeth not hereby to restrain and discourage any of her loving subjects to give from time to time true information against any such offenders in the causes abovesaid unto her grace or her council, for the punishment of every such offender, ac-³⁰ cording to the effect of her highness' laws provided in that part; so her said highness exhorteth, and straitly chargeth her said subjects to observe her commandment and pleasure in every part aforesaid, as they will avoid her highness' said indignation, and most grievous displea-³⁵ sure. The severity and rigour whereof, as her highness shall be most sorry to have cause to put the same in execution, so doth she utterly determine not to permit such unlawful and rebellious doings of her subjects, whereof may ensue the danger of her royal estate, to remain unpunished; but to see her said laws touching these points to be throughly executed; which extremities she trusteth all her said loving subjects will foresee, dread and avoid accordingly; her said highness straitly charging and commanding all mayors, sheriffs, justices of peace, bailiffs, constables, and all other public officers and ministers, diligently to see to the observing and executing of her said commandments and pleasure, and to apprehend all such as shall willingly offend in this part, committing the same to the next gaol, there to remain without bail or mainprize, till upon certificate made to her highness, or her privy council of their names and doings, and upon examination had of their offences, some further order shall be taken for their punishment to the example of others, according to the effect and tenour of the laws aforesaid. Given at our manor of Richmond the 18th day of August, in the first year of our most prosperous reign.

JULIUS episcopus, servus servorum Dei, dilecto filio Reginaldo sanctæ Mariæ in Cosmedin diacono cardinali, Polo nuncupato, ad charissimam in Christo filiam nostram Mariam Angliæ reginam illustrem, et universum Angliæ regnum nostro et apostolicæ sedis legato de

latere salutem et apostolicam benedictionem. Si ullo unquam tempore licuit, nunc certe expositissime licet dicere, dextra Domini fecit virtutem. Hanc inquam lætissimam vocem licet omnium piorum gaudiis atque acclamatione celebrare. Quid enim aliud dicamus, quam 5 dextram Domini hanc tam inopinatam rerum conversionem fecisse, ut florentissimum Angliæ regnum ab Henrico octavo in discidium ab ecclesia catholica secessionemque seductum, ac deinde Edwardi ejus nati successione in paterno et hæreditario errore corroboratum 10 atque firmatum, in eum nunc statum repente devenerit, ut ad sanctum ovile atque ad ecclesiæ catholicæ septa revocari facillime posse videatur? Profecto hoc nihil aliud est quam mutatio dextræ excelsi. Defuncto enim vita supradicto Edwardo, admissisque illius sectatoribus, 15 qui rerum habenas, qui arces, qui exercitum, qui classem obtinebant, regnum alicui ex sua secta deferre, exclusa legitima hærede, clarissima in Christo filia Mariæ Angliæ regina illustri, tunc principe præfati Henrici regis nata, quæ semper in catholicæ fidei unitate permansit, atque, 20 ut eis videbatur, voto jam potitis, ecce ille Dominator Dominus et terribilis, qui aufert spiritum principum, cuncta iniquorum commenta dejecit, et repentina animorum totius regni inclinatione atque motu, ea quam ipsi constituerant regia potestate dejecta, ut ipsa Maria una 25 omnium voce regina salutaretur, effecit. Gratia Domino Deo nostro, qui non obliviscitur suos; qui et huic illustri fœminæ præmium fidei suæ, invictæque constantiæ paternum regnum, quod jam humanitus amiserat, divinitus detulit; et hanc non parvam gregis sui partem a recta 30 semita jampridem abactam, et pro deserta dispersam, respicere dignatus est; quam et non dubitamus, eodem divino favore perseverante, postquam catholicam principem nacta est, etiam ipsam in catholicæ fidei viam facile conversam iri, et communioni ecclesiæ restitutam. Cui 35 quidem spei sanctæque fiduciæ, quam habemus in Domino, nos pro pastoralis (quæ nobis est ab illo commissa) universalis ecclesiæ cura, et pro ea charitate, qua erga Anglicam gentem proprie debemus affici, tanquam hujus sanctæ sedis, cui sine meritis ullis nostris, sed sola summi

5 Dei providentia præsidemus, peculiarem filiam, procurata olim ab ipsa sede divini illic verbi disseminatione generatam, deesse nec volumus nec debemus. Cum igitur super hujusmodi tractanda re, negotioque divina ope conficiendo, et potissimum, cui hanc provinciam deman-

25 que sanctam ecclesiam catholicam amorem atque observantiam, multis jam in rebus cognitam atque perspectam spectaremus; personam tuam, quam hiis, quas modo commemoravimus, et pluribus aliis virtutibus omnium munerum largitor altissimus exornavit, ad hanc legationem aptissimam judicavimus. Quamobrem circum-

A letter with articles sent from the queen's majesty unto the bishop of London, and by him and his officers at her gracious commandment to be put in speedy execution with effect, in the whole diocese, as well in places exempt as not exempt whatsoever, according to the tenour and form of the same. Ex Burnet. Hist. Reform. vol. ii. Append. p. 252.

Sent by the queen's majesty's commandment in the month of March, anno Domini 1553.

By the queen.

RIGHT reverend father in God, right trusty and well beloved, we greet you well. And whereas hereto- 10

A letter with articles] The most important of these articles was in reference to married priests. In this matter bishop Bonner appears to have acted on his own authority before the articles were issued. In the latter end of February he deprived all married priests within his diocese of their livings, and commanded them to bring their wives 15 within a fortnight in order that they might be divorced. (Strype, Cranm. vol. i. p. 471.) The same letter and articles were sent to all the bishops on the 4th of March, and the consequences that followed with regard to the parochial clergy are stated at length by Strype, Cranm. vol. i. pp. 467—475. Burnet, Hist. Ref. vol. ii. pp. 550—556. 20 Collier, vol. ii. p. 366.

fore in the time of the late reign of our most dearest brother king Edward VI. (whose soul God pardon) divers notable crimes, excesses and faults, with divers kinds of heresies, simony, advoutry, and other enormities, have
5 been committed within this our realm and other our dominions; the same continuing yet hitherto in like disorder since the beginning of our reign without any correction or reformation at all; and the people both of the laity and clergy, and chiefly of the clergy, have been
10 given to much insolence and ungodliness, greatly to the displeasure of Almighty God, and very much to our regret and evil contentation, and to the slander of other Christian realms, and in a manner to the subversion and clear defacing of this our realm: and remembering our duty to 15 Almighty God to be to foresee, as much as in us may be, that all virtue and godly living should be embraced, flourish and increase, and therewith also that all vice and ungodly behaviour should be utterly banished, and put away, or at the least wise, so nigh, as might be, so bridled
20 and kept under, that godliness and honesty might have the overhand: understanding by very credible report, and public fame, to our no small heaviness and discomfort, that within your diocese, as well in not exempted as in exempted places, the like disorder and evil behaviour
25 hath been done and used, like also to continue and increase, unless due provision be had and made to reform the same (which earnestly in very deed we do mind and intend) to the uttermost all the ways we can possible, trusting in God's furtherance and help in that behalf:
30 for these causes, and other most just considerations us moving, we send unto you such certain articles of such special matter, as among other things be most special and necessary to be now put in execution by you and your officers, extending to them by us desired, and the reformation

you and your officers may the more earnestly and boldly proceed thereunto, without fear of any presumption to be noted on your part, or danger to be incurred of any such our laws, as by your doings of that is in the said articles contained, might any wise grieve you, whatsoever be threatened in any such case; and therefore we straitly charge and command you, and your said officers, to proceed to the execution of the said articles without all tract and delay, as ye will answer to the contrary. Given under our hand at our palace of Westminster the fourth day of March, the first year of our reign.

ARTICLES.

1. That every bishop and his officers, with all other having ecclesiastical jurisdiction, shall with all speed and diligence, and all manners and ways to them possible, put in execution all such canons and ecclesiastical laws heretofore in the time of king Henry VIII. used within this realm of England, and the dominions of the same, not being direct and expressly contrary to the laws and statutes of this realm.

2. Item, That no bishop, or any his officers, or other person aforesaid, hereafter in any of their ecclesiastical writings in process, or other extrajudicial acts, do use to put in this clause or sentence: "Regia auctoritate fulcitus."

3. Item, That no bishop, or any his officers, or other person aforesaid, do hereafter exact or demand in the admission of any person to any ecclesiastical promotion, orders, or office, any oath touching the primacy or succession, as of late in few years passed hath been accustomed and used.

4. Item, That every bishop, and his officers, with all other persons aforesaid, have a vigilant eye, and use special diligence and foresight, that no person be admitted or received to any ecclesiastical function, benefit, or office, being a sacramentary, infected or defamed with any notable kind of heresy, or other great crime. And that the said bishop do stay, and cause to be stayed, as much as lieth in him, that benefices and ecclesiastical promotions do not notably decay, or take hinderance, by passing or confirming of unreasonable leases.

5. Item, That every bishop, and all other persons aforesaid, do diligently travel for the repressing of heresies, and notable crimes, especially in the clergy, duly correcting and punishing the same.

6. Item, That every bishop, and all other persons aforesaid, do likewise travel for the condemning and repressing of corrupt and naughty opinions, unlawful books, ballads, and other pernicious, and hurtful devises, engendering hatred among the people, and discord among the same; and that schoolmasters, preachers, and teachers, do exercise and use their offices and duties without teaching, preaching, or setting forth any evil corrupt doctrine; and that doing the contrary, they may be by the bishop and his said officers punished and removed.

7. Item, That every bishop, and all the other persons aforesaid, proceeding summarily, and with all celerity and speed, may and shall deprive, or declare deprived, and amove according to their learning and discretion all such persons from their benefices and ecclesiastical promotions, who, contrary to the state of their order, and the laudable custom of the church, have married and used women as their wives, or otherwise notably and slanderously disordered or abused themselves; sequestering also, during the said process, the fruits and profits of the said benefits and ecclesiastical promotions.

8. Item, That the said bishop, and all other persons aforesaid, do use more lenity and clemency with such as have married, whose wives be dead, than with others, whose women do yet remain in life; and likewise such priests as with the consents of their wives, or women openly in the presence of the bishop, do profess to abstain, to be used the more favourably: in which case after penance effectually done, the bishop according to his discretion and wisdom may upon just consideration receive and admit them again to their former adminis-⁵tration, so it be not in the same place; appointing them such a portion to live upon, to be paid out of their benefice, whereof they be deprived, by discretion of the said bishop, or his officers, as they shall think may be spared of the said benefice. 10

9. Item, That every bishop, and all persons aforesaid, do foresee, that they suffer not any religious man, having solemnly professed chastity, to continue with his woman or wife; but that all such persons after deprivation of their benefice, or ecclesiastical promotion, be also divorced ¹⁵ every one from his said woman, and due punishment otherwise taken for the offence therein.

10. Item, That every bishop, and all other persons aforesaid, do take order and direction, with the parishioners of every benefice, where priests do want, to repair ²⁰ to the next parish for divine service; or to appoint for a convenient time, till other better provision may be made, one curate to serve “alternis vicibus” in divers parishes, and to allot to the said curate for his labour some portion of the benefice, that he so serveth. 25

11. Item, That all, and all manner of processions of the church be used, frequented, and continued after the old order of the church in the Latin tongue.

12. Item, That all such holy-days, and fasting-days be observed and kept, as was observed and kept in the ³⁰ late time of king Henry VIII.

13. Item, That the laudable and honest ceremonies, which were wont to be used, frequented, and observed in the church, be also hereafter frequented, used, and observed. 35

14. Item, That children be christened by the priest, and confirmed by the bishops, as heretofore hath been accustomed and used.

15. Item, Touching such persons as were heretofore promoted to any orders after the new sort and fashion
5 of orders, considering they were not ordered in very deed, the bishop of the diocese finding otherwise sufficiency, and ability in those men, may supply that thing, which wanted in them before; and then according to his discretion admit them to minister.

10 16. Item, That by the bishop of the diocese an uniform doctrine be set forth by homilies, or otherwise, for the good instruction and teaching of all people; and that the said bishop, and other persons aforesaid, do compel the parishioners to come to their several churches, and there 15 devoutly to hear divine service, as of reason they ought.

17. Item, That they examine all schoolmasters and teachers of children, and finding them suspect in any ways, to remove them, and place catholic men in their rooms, with a special commandment to instruct their 20 children, so as they may be able to answer the priest at the mass, and so help the priest to mass, as hath been accustomed.

18. Item, That the said bishop, and all persons aforesaid, have such regard, respect and considerations of 25 and for the setting forth of the premises with all kind of virtue, godly living, and good example, with repressing also and keeping under of vice and unthriftiness, as they, and every of them may be seen to favour the restitution of true religion; and also to make an honest
30 account and reckoning of their office and cure to the honour of God, our good contentation, and the profit of this realm, and dominions of the same.

JULIUS papa III.

DILECTE fili noster, salutem et apostolicam benedictionem. Dudum cum charissima in Christo filia nostra Maria Angliæ tunc princeps regina declarata fuisset, et speraretur regnum Angliæ, quod sæva tyrannide ab unione sanctæ ecclesiæ catholicæ separatum fuerat, ad ovile gregis Domini et ejusdem ecclesiæ unionem, ipsa Maria primum regnante, redire posse; nos te, præstanti virtute, singulari pietate, ac multa doctrina insignem ad eandem Mariam reginam, et universum Angliæ regnum de fratrum nostrorum consilio et unanimi consensu nostrum et apostolicæ sedis legatum de latere destinavimus; tibi que inter cætera omnes et singulos utriusque sexus tam laicas quam ecclesiasticas seculares, et quorumvis ordinum regulares personas in quibusvis etiam sacris ordinibus constitutas cujuscunque status, gradus, conditionis et qualitatis extiterint, ac quacunque eccle-

Bulla papæ Julii] The first Bull (No. XXIX.) appointing cardinal Pole legate a latere, bears date in August 1553, and was drawn up on the supposition that he would immediately repair to England. But as he was detained by the emperor in Flanders for prudential reasons suggested in the first instance by the English court, and afterwards approved by the pope, (see Burnet, H. R. vol. ii. p. 520,) it was thought necessary to issue another Bull, which bears date the 8th of March following, in order that he might be able to appoint his officers, and exercise his legatine powers, before his actual arrival in the kingdom. Articles of visitation by bishop Bonner. Ex reg. Bonner et Burnet, Hist. Reform. vol. ii. append. p. 260, &c. (Bodl. Douce A. 281.)

ARTICLES to be inquired of in the general visitation of Edmund, bishop of London, exercised by him in the year of our Lord God 1554, in the city and diocese
 15 of London, and set forth by the same for his own dis-

Articles of visitation] Strype, Mem. vol. iii. P. i. p. 216. P. ii. p. 217. Burnet, H. R. vol. ii. p. 579. P. ii. p. 364. Collier, vol. ii. p. 371. A bitter invective against these articles was published by Bale in 1554, entitled, "A declaration of Edmond Boner's articles concerning the 20 clergy of London diocese; whereby that execrable Antichrist is in his right colours revealed." This visitation was continued from the 3rd of September 1554, to the 8th of October, 1555; and a copy of the Injunctions issued in conformity with these Articles may be seen among Douce's books in the Bodleian, printed by John Cawood, and bearing

charge towards God and the world, to the honour of God, and his catholic church, and to the commodity and profit of all those, that either are good (which he would were all) or delight in goodness (which he wisheth to be many) without any particular grudge or displeasure to any one, good or bad, within this realm; which articles he desireth all men of their charity, especially those that are of his diocese, to take with as good intent and mind, as he the said bishop wisheth and desireth, which is to the best: and the said bishop withal desireth all people to understand, that whatsoever opinion, good or bad, hath been conceived of him, or whatsoever usage or custom hath been heretofore, his only intent and purpose is to do his duty charitably, and with that love, favour, and respect, both towards God, and every Christian person, which any bishop should shew to his flock in any wise.

The first Articles are concerning the clergy, because they should of duty give good example, and that their fault is more in deed, and more worthy punishment, than the faults of the laity.

ARTICLE I.

Whether the clergy, to give example to the laity, have in their living, in their teaching, and in their doing so behaved themselves, that they (in the judgment of indifferent persons) have declared themselves to search principally the honour of God, and his church, the health of the souls of such as are committed to their cure and charge, the quietness of their parishioners, and the wealth and honour of the king and queen of this realm?

ARTICLE II.

Item, Whether your parson, vicar, or any other ministering as priest within your parish, have been or is married, or taken for married, not yet separated from his concubine, or woman taken for wife; or whether the same woman be dead, or yet living; and being living, whether the one resorteth to the other, openly, secretly, or slanderously, maintaining, supporting, or finding the same in any wise, to the offence of the people?

ARTICLE III.

Item, Whether there be any person of what estate, condition, or degree he be, that doth in open talk, or privily defend, maintain, or uphold the marriage of priests, encouraging or bolding any person to the defence thereof?

ARTICLE IV.

Item, Whether you have your parson or vicar resident continually with you upon his benefice, doing his duty in the serving of the cure; and whether being able, he do keep hospitality upon the same, feeding his flock with his good living, with his teaching, and his relieving of them to his power?

ARTICLE V.

Item, Whether your parson or vicar being absent, have a sufficient dispensation, and license therein; and whether in his absence he do appoint an honest, able, and sufficient learned curate to supply his room and absence, to serve his cure?

ARTICLE VI.

Item, Whether your parson or vicar by himself, or his good and sufficient deputy for him, do relieve his poor parishioners, repair and maintain his house or mansion, and things thereunto appertaining, and otherwise do his duty, as by the order of the law, and custom of this realm he ought to do?

ARTICLE VII.

Item, Whether the said curate so appointed in the absence of your parson or vicar, do in all points the best he can to minister the sacraments and sacramentals, and other his duty in serving the same cure, especially in celebrating divine service at convenient hours, chiefly upon Sundays and holy-days and procession days; and ministering the said sacraments and sacramentals, as of duty and reason he ought, moving and exhorting earnestly his parishioners to come unto, and devoutly to hear the same; and whether he himself do reverently celebrate, practise, minister, and use the same as appertaineth.

ARTICLE VIII.

Item, Whether he the said curate, parson, or vicar have been or is of suspect doctrine, erroneous opinion, misbelief, or evil judgment, or do set forth, preach, favour, aid, and maintain the same, contrary to the catholic faith and order of this realm?

ARTICLE X.

Item, Whether they, or any of them, be familiar, or keep company, and be conversant with any suspect person of evil conversation and living, or erroneous opinion or doctrine; or be noted to aid, favour and assist the same in any wise contrary to the good order of this realm, and the usage of the catholic church?

ARTICLE XI.

Item, Whether there be dwelling within any your parishes any priest, foreigner, stranger, or other, who not presented to the bishop of this diocese, or his officers, examined and admitted by some one of them, doth take 5 upon him to serve any cure, or to minister any sacraments, or sacramentals within the said parish?

ARTICLE XII.

Item, Whether there be dwelling within any your parishes, or repairing thither any priest or other naming himself minister, which doth not come diligently to the 10 church to hear the divine service, or sermons there; but absenteth himself or discourageth other by his example or words to come unto the same, expressing their name and surname, with sufficient knowledge of them?

15 Item, Whether there be any married priests, or naming themselves ministers, that do keep any assemblies or conventicles with such like, as they are in office or sect, to set forth any doctrine or usage not allowed by the laws and laudable customs of this realm; or whether there be 20 any resort of any of them to any place for any privy lectures, sermons, plays, games, or other devices not expressly in this realm by laws allowable?

ARTICLE XVI.

Item, Whether they, or any of them do admit any person to receive the blessed sacrament of the altar, who are openly known or suspected to be adversaries and speakers against the said sacrament, or any other article of the catholic faith, or to be a notorious evil person in his conversation or doctrine, an open oppressor or doer to his neighbour, or being in hatred and malice with his said neighbour, not being confessed, reconciled, and having made satisfaction in that behalf?

ARTICLE XVII.

Item, Whether they, or any of them have, of their own authority, admitted and licensed any to preach in their cure, not being authorized and admitted thereunto, or have denied or refused such to preach as have been lawfully licensed; and whether they or any of them having authority to preach within their cures, doth use to preach, or at the least doth procure other lawful and sufficient persons to do the same according to the order of this realm?

25 gently visited his and their parishioners in the time of sickness and need, and ministered sacraments and sacramentals to them accordingly; and whether they have exhorted and monished them to have due respect to their souls' health, and also to set an order in their temporal lands and goods, declaring their debts perfectly, and what is owing unto them; and they so to make their testaments and last wills, that as much as may be, all trouble and business may be excluded, their wives and children with their friends may be holpen and succoured, and themselves decently buried and prayed for, and to have an honest memory and commendations for their so doing?

ARTICLE XXII.

^a Article XXIX.] “It appears both by these and the queen’s in-²⁰ junctions (see N^o. XXX. Art. 15.) that they did not pretend to re-ordain those that had been ordained by the new book in king Edward’s time; but to reconcile them, and add those things that were wanting: which were the anointing, and giving the priestly vestments, with other rites of the Roman pontifical Though they only supplied²⁵ at this time the defects, which they said were in their former ordination, yet afterwards when they proceeded to burn them that were in orders, they went upon the old maxim that orders given in schism were not valid.” Burnet, H. R. vol. ii. p. 581.

Pape Rom.	Archiepisc. Cant.	Anno Christi	Reg. Angliæ
JULII III. 5.	THO. CRANMER. 23.	1554.	MARIE 2.

A mandate of Bonner, bishop of London, to abolish the scriptures and writings painted upon the church walls.
Fox, vol. iii. p. 107. ed. 1641.

EDMUND, by God's permission bishop of London, to all and every parsons, vicars, clerks, and lettered within the parish of Hadham, or within the precincts of our diocese of London, wheresoever being, sendeth greeting, grace, and benediction.

Because some children of iniquity, given up to carnal desires and novelties, have by many ways enterprized to banish the ancient manner and order of the church, and to bring in and establish sects and heresies, taking from thence the picture of Christ and many things besides, instituted and observed of ancient time laudably in the same, placing in the room thereof such things, as in such a place it behoved them not to do; and also have procured as a stay to their heresies (as they thought) certain scriptures wrongly applied, to be painted upon the church walls: all which persons tend chiefly to this end, that they might uphold the liberty of the flesh, and marriage of priests, and destroy, as much as lay in them, the reverend sacrament of the altar; and might extinguish and enervate holy-days, fasting days, and other laudable discipline of the catholic church, opening a window to all vices, and utterly closing up the way unto virtue: wherefore we being moved with a Christian 5 zeal, judging that the premises are not to be longer suffered, do, for discharge of our duty, commit unto you jointly and severally, and by the tenour hereof do straitly charge and command you, that at the receipt hereof, with all speed convenient you do warn, or cause to be 10 warned, first, second, and third time, and peremptorily, all and singular churchwardens and parishioners whosoever, within our foresaid diocese of London, wheresoever any such scriptures or paintings have been attempted, that they abolish and extinguish such manner of scriptures, 15 so that by no means they be either read or seen; and therein to proceed moreover as they shall see good and laudable in this behalf. And if after the said monition the said churchwardens and parishioners shall be found remiss and negligent or culpable, then you jointly and 20 severally shall see the foresaid scriptures to be razed, abolished, and extinguished forthwith; citing all and singular those churchwardens and parishioners (whom we also for the same do cite here by the tenour hereof) that all and singular the said churchwardens and parish-25 ioners being slack and negligent, or culpable therein, shall appear before us, our vicar general, and principal official, or our commissary special in our cathedral church of St. Paul at London, in the consistory there, at the hour appointed for the same, the sixth day next after their 30 citation, if it be a court day, or else at the next court day after ensuing, whereas either we or our official or commissary shall sit, there to say and allege for themselves some reasonable cause, if they have any, or can tell of any, why they ought not to be excommunicated, 35 and otherwise punished for such their negligence, slack-ness and fault; to say and to allege, and further to do and receive, as law and reason requireth. And what you have done in the premises, do you certify us, or our vicar, principal official, and such our commissary diligently and duly in all things, and through all things; or let him among you thus certify us, which hath taken upon him to execute this mandate. The declaration of the bishop of London to be published to the lay people of his diocese, concerning their reconciliation.—Excusum Londini in ædibus Johan. Cawodi, typographi regie majestatis.

EDMUND, by the permission of God byshop of London, unto all and singuler the laye people of my diocesse, do send greetinge in our Saviour Jesu Christe.

Whereas this noble realme of England dividinge it self from the unitie of the catholyke church, and from the agreement in religion with all other christen realmes, hath bene, besydes many other miseries and plages, which God's indignation hath powr'd upon it, grevously also vexed, and sore infected with many and sondry sorts of sectes of hereticks, as Arrians, Anabaptistes, Libertines, Zwinglians, Lutheranes, and many other; all whiche sectes be most repugnaunt, and contrary one agaynst another, and all agaynst God's truth and Christ's catholyke fayth: whereupon hath growen such sclauder to the realme, such malyce and disagreement among ourselves, the inhabitantes therof, such treasons, tumultes, and insurrections against our prince, such blasphemy, and dishonour unto

God, as no mans tongue or penne is hable to expresse. It hath pleased the goodnes of God to cast his eye of mercye and clemencye upon us, and to move the popes holynes to send his most godly messenger, the most
5 reverende father in God, the lorde cardynall Pole legate de latere, to brynge us the glade tydynges of peace and reconciliation, and to reduce and brynge home unto the folde, the loste shepe that was gone astraye; whose mes-
10 sage as it hath bene honourably receaved of the kinge and quenes majesties, even so the lordes spiritual and temporal, and commons at the last parliament hath received it, revoking all lawes (the which in the tyme of 15 scysme were promulgate agaynst the authority of the popes holynes) and restorynge the same, and the church of Rome to all that power which they had in this realme, before the sayd scisme; the which reconciliation was also most gladly and joyfully imbraced, as well of all the clergy and convocation of the province of Canterburye, as also of many other persons: and being so great and
20 necessary to be extended to every person of the realme, it hath pleas'd the sayd lord legates grace to geve, and impart unto me the sayd bishop of London, for my sayd diocesse, and to all such as I shall appoint in that behalf, power and authority to absolve and reconcile all and 25 every person thereof, aswel of the clergy, as of the laytie, and aswel men as women, the which wyl renounce theyr errorrs, and (being penitent) wyl humbly requyre to be restored to the unities of the catholyke church, as by the letters of the sayd lord legates grace sent unto me, and 30 from me sent unto everyche of the archdeacons within my diocesse, more at large may, and doth appear. And forasmuch as in mine own person, aswell for the multitude of people, as distaunce of places, I cannot minister this benefit unto every pryvate person my self; and for 35 that also the holy tyme of lent is now at hand, in whiche everye true christen man ought to come unto his own

pastour and curate, to be of hym confessed, and to receive at his hand holsome counsell, penaunce, and absolution; these are therefore aswel to geve knowledge hereof unto every one of you, as also to signifye, and declare, that for that purpose I have by the sayde auctoritie, chosen, named, and deputed, and so by these presentes do chose, name, and depute all and synguler pastours, and curates, having cure of soules within my diocesse, and beyng themselves reconciled herein, that they and every of them, by auctoritie hereof, shall have full power and auctoritie to absolve all such as be laye persons of theyr paryshes, from heresy and scysme, and from the censures of the church into the which they be fallen by occasion thereof; and also to reconcytle unto the church all suche, whiche shall declare themselves penytent, and desyrous to enjoy the benefyt of the sayd reconciliation. And whereas dyverse pastours and curates in sondrye paryshes peradventure be not able to satisfye the myndes, and appeace the consciences of some of their paryshners in cases that shall trouble them; I have therefore geven also authoritie to every archdeacon of my diocesse, within his archdeaconrye, to name and appoint certeyne of the best learned in everye deanrye of theyre archdeaconrye, to supply that lacke, so that every man so troubled, may repayre to any one of them within the said deanrye whom he shall lyke best, to be instructed and appeaced in that behalf. And also I have appoynted, that if this beyng done, there shall yet remayne any scruple in the parties conscience, and hymself not satisfied, then the sayd partye to repayre, unto one of myne archdeacons, or chapleyns, unto whom his mynde shall be moost inclyned unto, or elles to repayre unto myne own selfe, to be resolv'd in his sayd scruple or doute, and to receive and take such ordre therein, as to one of the sayd archdeacons, or unto me shall therein appeare to be most expedient. Further certifyinge and declaring unto you, that I have gyven commaundement herein to all my archedeacons, that they monyshe, and commaunde every pastour, and curate within their archedeaconries, that they havinge knowledge hereof, do in the fyrst holy 5 day next then followynge, at the masse tyme, when the multitude of people is present, declare all these thinges unto their parisheners, and exhort them that they esteeme this grace accordyngly, and reconcile themselves to the churche before the fyrst sonday after Easter next ensuyng,

10 which thinge I also do commaunde by the tenour hereof, with intimation that the sayde tyme beyng once past, and they not so reconciled, every one of them shall have processe made agaynst him, accordyng to the canons as the case shal requyre; for which purpose the pastours
15 and curates of every paryshe shal be commaunded by their archedeacon to certifye me in wrytinge of every man and womans name that is not so reconcyed. Further, herewith I do signify and declare unto you, that our holy father the pope Julius, the third of that name, lyke a 20 moost tender and naturall father, hearynge of the retourn and recovery of his prodigall child, this realme of England, hath hymselfe made much joye and gladnes hereat, and also all other true christen realmes have done the lyke. Exhortynge you therefore in our Lord, not to be un-
25 thankfull yourselves, or negligent in this behalfe; but diligently to seke for it, joyfully to embrace it, and fruyctfullye to use it; remembryng withall the monicion and charge which came from me the laste yeare, concernyng your coming to confession in Lent, and re-
30 ceaving of the sacrament at Easter, whiche monicion to all effectis and purposes, I have now here for repeated and renewed, charging you and also all your curates therewith. And because all our dueties is earnestly and devoutly to pray for the prosperous estate of our so-35 veraignes, the kyng and quene of this realme, I do finally requyre and pray you as hertely as I can, to pray for

theyr majesties accordingly, and specially that it may please almyghtye God to sende unto her grace a good tyme, and to make her a glad mother, which cannot be but unto us all great joye, much comforte, and inestimable profyte. Geven at London the 19th day of the moneth of February, in the yeare of our Lord God, after the computation of the church of Englande M.D.LIV. and of my translation the 16.

The fourme of absolution to be kepte by the pastores and curates in pryvate confessions concerning this reconciliation.

Our Lord Jesus Christ absolve you, and by the apostolyke authority to me graunted and committed, I ab-¹⁰ solve you from the sentences of excommunication, and from all other censures and paynes, into the whiche you be fallen by reason of heresy, or scisme, or any otherwyse; and I restore you unto the unities of our holy mother the church, and to the communion of all the¹⁵ sacraments, dispensyng with you for all manner of irregularitie. And by the same authoritie, I absolve you from all your synnes, in the name of the Father, and of the Sonne, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

God save the kyng and the quene.

A monition of Bonner, bishop of London, sent down to all and singular curates of his diocese, for the certifying of the names of such as would not come in Lent to confession, and receiving at Easter. Fox, vol. iii. p. 37.

EDMUND, by the permission of God, bishop of London, to all parsons, vicars, curates, and ministers of the church within the city and diocese of London sendeth grace, peace and mercy in our Lord everlasting. Forasmuch as by the order of the ecclesiastical laws and constitutions of this realm, and the laudable usage and custom of the whole catholic church by many hundred years agoe duly and devoutly observed and kept, all faithful people being of lawful age and discretion, are bound once in the year at least (except reasonable cause excuse them) to be confessed to their own proper curate, and to receive the sacrament of the altar with due preparation and devotion; and forasmuch also as we be credibly informed, that sundry evil disposed and undevout persons, given to sensual pleasures and carnal appetites, following the lusts of their body, and neglecting utterly the health of their souls, do forbear to come to confession according to the said usage, and to receive the sacrament of the altar accordingly; giving thereby pernicious and evil example to the younger sort to neglect and contemn the same: we minding the reformation hereof for our own discharge, and desirous of good order to be kept, and good example to be given, do will and command you by virtue hereof, that immediately upon the receipt of this our commandment, ye and every of you within your cure and charge, do use all your diligence and dexterity to declare the same, straitly charging and commanding all your parishioners, being of lawful age and discretion, to come before Easter next coming to confession, according to the said ordinance and usage, with due preparation and devotion to receive the said sacrament of the altar; and that ye do note the names of all such as be not confessed unto you, and do not receive of you the said sacrament: certifying us or our chancellor or commissary thereof before the 6th day of April next ensuing the date hereof; that so we knowing thereby, who did not come to confession and receive the sacrament accordingly, may proceed against them, as being persons culpable, and transgressors of the said ecclesiastical law and usage. Further also certifying us, our said chancellor, or commissary before the day aforesaid, whether you have your altars set up, chalice, book, vestments, and all things necessary for mass and the administration of sacraments⁵ and sacramentals, with procession, and all other divine service prepared and in readiness, according to the order of the catholic church, and the virtuous and godly example of the queen's majesty: and if ye so have not, ye then with the churchwardens cause the same to be pro-¹⁰vided for, signifying by whose fault and negligence the same want or fault hath proceeded, and generally of the not coming of your parishioners to church, undue walking, talking, or using of themselves there unreverently in the time of divine service, and of all other open faults and¹⁵ misdemeanours; not omitting thus to do. and certify as before, as you will answer upon your peril for the contrary. Given at London the 23rd of February, in the year of our Lord MDLIV.

Constitutiones legatinæ Reginaldi Poli cardinalis, legati a latere, archiepiscopi Cantuariensis. Ex MS. Cott. Cleop. F. 2. fol. 72. Collat. cum MS. Synodal. in Colleg. Corp. Christi Cantabrig.

Decretum primum.

QUONIAM hoc regnum, quod a corpore catholicæ²⁰ ecclesiæ separatam erat, jam Dei misericordia ad

Constitutiones legatinæ] “ Cardinal Pole obtained of the queen on the 2d of November a warrant under the great seal, giving him license to hold a synod. The license he had formerly taken out is made menejus unitatem rediit ; ne immemores tanti beneficii videremur, placuit, ut in quibuscunque missarum (præterquam de festo duplici majori) celebrationibus post alias ejus diei collectas, et infrascripta dicantur. Item, ut quotannis in quibuscunque hujus regni locis, in die sancti Andreæ apostoli, quo die hæc reconciliatio facta est, processio solennis celebretur, qua tam insignis beneficii per universos fideles memoria renovetur ; et inter missarum solennia in ecclesia, unde processio ducetur, concio ad populum habeatur, in qua processione prædictæ causa exponatur ; et ubi id fieri non possit, is, qui celebravit, erudiat plebem per homiliam super hoc specialiter edendam.

Quia vero cum obedientia sedis Romanæ etiam canonicarum legum usus in hoc regno sublatus fuit, ex eaque re maxima fidei, et morum corruptio subsecuta est ; idcirco statutum est, ut universa sacrorum tam generalium, quam provincialium conciliorum ab ea sede receptorum decreta, et Romanorum pontificum constitutiones, necnon et ecclesiæ leges, olim in hoc regno canonice

tion of ; and to avoid all ambiguities, which might arise from the laws or prerogatives of the crown, she authorized him to call that or any other synod after, and to decree what canons he should think fit : she also authorized the clergy to meet, consent to, and obey those canons without any danger of the law. This was thought safe on both sides ; both for the preserving the rights of the crown, and securing the clergy from being brought within the statute of præmunire, as they had been upon their acknowledging cardinal Wolsey's legatine power. To this convocation Pole proposed a book he had prepared, which was afterwards printed with the title of The Reformation of England by the decree of cardinal Pole . . . These decrees were all finished, agreed to, and published by him in February next year . . . and by all them it may appear how well tempered this cardinal was." Burnet, H. R. vol. ii. pp. 651. 654. 655. See also Strype, Cranm. vol. i. p. 528. Collier, vol. ii. p. 388. Lingard, vol. v. p. 97.

editæ, in pristinum statum restituantur, et ab universis ejusdem regni fidelibus respective, et prout ad eos pertinet, observentur, et transgressores earum puniantur. Item, ut in scholis publicis (sicut antea fiebat) jus canonicum doceatur. Item, ut non solum archiepiscopi, 5 episcopi, decani, et archidiaconi, verum etiam officiales, et reliqui omnes, ecclesiasticam jurisdictionem habentes, volumen præsentium decretorum, et eorum, quæ bonæ memoriæ Otho et Othobonus, olim sedis apostolicæ in hoc regno legati, in similibus synodis, et archiepiscopi 10 Cantuarienses in conciliis provincialibus pro tempore ediderunt, habeant. Cæteri vero sacerdotes, quibus animarum cura commissa est, præter sacrorum bibliorum veteris editionis librum Latine scriptum, et alios libros ad curam animarum exercendam necessarios, easdem etiam 15 constitutiones habere, et si quid dubii in eis occurrerit, peritiores consulere, et ex his ea, quæ populum nosse oportet, declarare teneantur; qui vero hoc non observaverit, ordinariorum arbitrio puniatur. Et ne posthac ex librorum damnatorum lectione populus corrumpatur, 20 damnantur, et anathematizantur omnes, qui sine speciali apostolicæ sedis licentia habent, legunt, imprimunt, disseminant, aut in hoc regnum important libros hæreticorum, seu aliter de fide suspectos; et, ut omnibus pœnis contra eos latis puniantur, præcipitur; placuitque juxta 25 ultimi Lateranen. concilii statutum, ne quis in hoc regno librum aliquem seu aliud quodvis scriptum imprimere audeat, nisi id prius per loci ordinarium, aut per alium ejus mandato, diligenti examinatione et subscriptione approbatum fuerit; qui vero contrarium fecerit, pœnis in 30 eo statuto contentis subjaceat. Item, ut universi libri et traditiones ad fidem et ecclesiasticam disciplinam spectantes, quas sancta Romana ecclesia probavit et recepit, seu in posterum probabit et recipiet, quasque cum omni reverentia præsens synodus recipit et amplectitur, ab 35

Et ut populus sciat, quam doctrinam sequi et fugere debeat, placuit recipere omnem eam fidem, quam tenet ac docet sancta Romana et apostolica ecclesia, omnium ecclesiarum mater et magistra, et ut omnes eam profiteantur et teneant; contraque omnis hæresis adversus hanc sanctam, orthodoxam, et catholicam fidem, et quicquid ab ea recedit et deviat, damnatur et rejicitur; et omne dogma quod cum ea fide non convenit, hic credendum aut docendum sub anathemate vetatur; et omnes hæretici, qui aliter tenent et docent, quam eadem Romana credit ac tenet ecclesia, damnantur et anathematizantur; et omnes censuras et pœnas contra hæreticos et eorum defensores, necnon contra ordinarios et cæteros omnes, ad quos spectat, in extirpandis hæresibus negligentes, a jure vel ab homine latas, executioni demandari præcipitur. Et quia contra capitis ecclesiæ et sacramentorum doctrinam potissimum hic erratum est, placuit doctrinam de primatu ecclesiæ Romanæ, et de septem sacramentis, quæ in concilio generali Florentiæ sub Eugenio quarto explicata est, huic decreto subijcere. Item, constitutio bonæ memoriæ Johannis, archiepiscopi Cantuariensis in concilio provinciali edita renovatur; qua statutum est, ut in qualibet ecclesia parochiali fiat tabernaculum decens et honestum cum sera et clavi, quod in altum elevatum in medio summi altaris affigatur, si commode fieri potest, alias in commodiori et honorabiliori et magis summo altari vicino loco, qui haberi posset; in quo tabernaculo sanctissimum eucharistiæ sacramentum custodiatur, non in bursa vel in loculo, sed in pixide lineo panno mundissimo interius ornata, ut sine diminutionis periculo facile reponi et eximi possit, atque ut ipsum venerabile sacramentum singulis hebdomadis innovetur. Ut autem hoc facilius executioni mandetur, statutum est, ut ordinarii in suis ecclesiis hujus observa-

tionis initium faciant, et, ut in aliis idem fiat, provideant; negligentibus per tantam fructuum subtractionem, quanta huic operi sufficiat, et alia juris remedia ad hoc observandum compulsis. Huic constitutioni in honorem corporis Domini nostri Jesu Christi, et plebis ædificationem placuit⁵ addere, ut perpetuo lampas vel cereus coram sanctissimo hoc sacramento ardeat; ubi vero per paupertatem ecclesiæ id commode fieri non potest, locorum ordinarii curabunt, ut alia via, quantum in eis fuerit, hic cultus antiquus restituatur. 10

Item, constitutiones omnes ecclesiasticæ tam generales, quam hujus regni particulares circa custodiam fontis baptismalis, chrismatis, et olei sancti, et reverentem administrationem ipsorum sacramentorum, sub pœnis in eis contentis, et aliis etiam, si ordinariis placuerit, gravioribus innovantur, atque ut observentur, mandatum est. Item statutum est, ut in ecclesiarum dedicationibus, quæ primo die dominico mensis Octobris ubique in hoc regno celebrari mandantur, cæterisque diebus festis, populus spectaculis, commensationibus, tripudiis, similibusve vanitatibus non attendat, sed divinis officiis vacet. Hoc autem ut fiat, episcopi ipsi, pœnis censurisve adhibitis, ac seculari brachio, si opus fuerit, invocato, diligenter curabunt. 20

Quoniam ecclesiæ reformatio ab hiis, qui aliis præsumunt,²⁵ est inchoanda, et cum potissimum ipsa deformatur, quod ei non resideant, (a quo abusu reliqua mala provenere,) archiepiscopi et episcopi et cæteri curam animarum habentes, attendentes sibi et universo gregi, in quo Spiritus Sanctus posuit eos regere ecclesiam Dei, quorum sanguis³⁰ de manibus eorum a supremo judice est requirendus, et præsentiam suam et operas suas debitas illi exhibebunt, et omni negotiorum secularium solitudine vacui super gregem suum vigilabunt, et in omnibus, secundum apo-

cujus decreti observatione omnes leges ecclesiasticæ tam generales, quam hujus regni particulares contra non resi-dentes editæ, innovantur, easque inviolabiliter observari 5 mandatur. Et ut contumaces etiam per ipsorum beneficiorum privationem ad residendum compellantur, præ-cipitur; poterit tamen ordinarius juxta canonem fe. re.
Gregorii decimi papæ, et in concilio generali Lugdunen.
editum, dispensare ad tempus super personali residentia, 10 si causa rationabilis et juri consona id exposcet.

Item, cum constet dignitates et alia ecclesiastica officia in Dei ecclesiis ob id fuisse instituta, ut essent, qui ecclesiæ Dei servirent, et ecclesiasticam disciplinam tanquam inspectores et moderatores conservarent; jam vero multa 15 ab his occupantur, qui dignitatum et officiorum titulos quidem gerant, ab ecclesiis autem suis cum magno earum detrimento absint; ideo statutum est, ut posthac omnes decani, præpositi, et reliqui dignitates, et officia tam in cathedralibus, quam collegiatis ecclesiis obtinentes, nec-20 non et scholarium collegiorum præfecti in suis ecclesiis et collegiis, archidiaconi vero vel in archidiaconatibus vel in cathedralibus ecclesiis episcoporum arbitrio resideant, et operam ex officio suo illis debitam per se ipsi præ-stent. Si quis vero ultra vacationem, sibi ex statutis 25 ecclesiæ concessam, ab ecclesia, archidiaconatu, vel col-legio suo abfuerit, arctioribus ecclesiarum et collegiorum statutis et consuetudinibus in suo robore permanentibus, placuit, ut fructus pro rata temporis absentia amittat, iique in usum mensæ ecclesiæ cathedralis, quæ ad alen-30 dos scholares erecta jam fuerit, vel erigetur, convertantur.
Et si longioris absentia ratio ista postulaverit, aliis etiam juris remediis, usque ad dignitatis ipsius et ecclesiæ pri-vationem inclusive ad residend. compellatur; poterunt tamen, qui hujusmodi ministeria obtinent, ex rationabili 35 et justa causa, per majorem partem capituli vel collegii probata, de licentia ordinariorum ad certum tempus

abesse. Et cum canonicatus et præbendæ in ecclesia ideo sint instituti, ut personæ, quæ ad eos assumuntur, episcopo assistant, et ut per eos cultus divinus congrue peragatur; placuit, ut posthac omnes canonici quarumcunque ecclesiarum, qui ad personalem residentiam ex 5 fundatione, statuto, vel consuetudine tenentur ad residend. per subtractionem fructuum ex canonicatibus et præbendis provenientium, eis pro rata temporis, quo ultra vacationem sibi ex statutis ecclesiæ concessam, sine licentia superioris ex justa causa concessa, et a majori 10 parte capituli approbata, abfuerint, compellantur; hi autem fructus in prædictæ scholarium mensæ usum convertendi sunt. Si qui vero sint, qui ex fundatione, statuto, vel consuetudine ad residentiam asserunt se non teneri, statutum est, ut ubi præbendæ reditus ad decem 15 libras quotannis ascendunt, uno saltem, vel, si ad viginti libras perveniunt, duobus mensibus continuis vel interpolatis ampliusve ad arbitrium ordinarii quolibet anno in ecclesia, ad quam præbenda spectat, præsentés sint, et in habitu per canonicos, qui ibi resident, gestari solito, di- 20 vinis officiis intersint. Qui secus fecerit, sexta parte proventus annui illius præbendæ multetur, eaque in usum prædictæ mensæ convertatur, nisi hujusmodi fructus his, qui divinis intersint, seu aliis piis usibus per statuta ecclesiæ, seu alias legitime sint jam applicati; 25 quod et in præcedentibus capitibus, ubi de hoc agitur, placuit observari. Et insuper est adjectum, ut distributiones quotidianæ appellatæ, quæ ab hiis, qui divinis intersunt, tantummodo percipiuntur, ex quantumvis justa causa, nisi ea talis sit, quæ expresse in hoc a jure vel 30 statutis ecclesiæ probetur, nemini qui eisdem divinis non intersit, concedantur.

Item, ad dolos et fraudes tollendas mandatur omnibus locorum ordinariis, ut posthac alicui ecclesiasticæ personæ studiorum causa indultum, ut non promoveatur ad 35 ordines, ad quos alias ratione beneficiorum promoveri teneretur, et a sua ecclesia absens fructus eorundem beneficiorum percipiat, minime concedant, nisi prius examinauerint personam, an ad eas disciplinas, quibus vult intendere, sit apta, et an eæ disciplinæ ecclesiæ utiles sint.

5 Et si, omnibus mature perspectis, licentiam concedant, tum de hujusmodi personæ vita et studiis solliciti sint; et si eam non honeste vivere, vel in literis non proficere compererint, indultum sibi concessum revocent.

Cum autem pluralitas beneficiorum maxime residen-
10 tiam in eisdem impediatur, statutum est, ut quicumque, cujuscunque ordinis aut dignitatis existat, plura beneficia ecclesiastica de facto jam obtinet, unicum retineat, et vel aliud seu alia, quæ de jure tenere non potest, intra duorum mensium spatium a præsentium publicatione com-
15 putandorum, in manibus ordinarii sui resignet et dimittat; alioquin omnibus ipso facto sit privatus. Qui vero in posterum plura beneficia curam animarum habentia, seu alias incompatibilia, absque sedis apostolicæ dispensatione per quamcunque viam præter illum modum, quem constitu-
20 titio Gregoriana edita in concilio Lugdunen. permittit, obtinuerit, omnibus etiam, quæ jure possidebat, sit ipso facto privatus. Innovantur etiam omnes pœnæ in constitutione felicis recordationis Johannis xxii. quæ incipit "Audistis," contentæ, et quæcunque aliæ de jure contra 25 non residentes editæ, et ut eæ debitæ executioni mandentur, præcipitur.

Item, ut ordinarii locorum quoscunque plura beneficia incompatibilia obtinentes, dispensationes suas exhibere districte compellant, et alias procedant juxta constitutionem Gregorii X. in concilio Lugdunen. editam, quæ 30 incipit "Ordinarii." Idem etiam per idoneorum vicariorum deputationem et congruæ portionis fructuum assignationem providebunt, ut animarum cura in eisdem ecclesiis nullatenus negligatur, et earundem onera con-35 grue supportentur consueta.

De prædicatione verbi Dei. Decretum quartum.

Quoniam episcoporum et curatorum omnium residentia in ecclesiis suis ad hoc exigitur, ut pastorum fungantur officio; statutum est, ut archiepiscopi, episcopi, et cæteri curam animarum habentes, per seipsos prædicandi verbi Dei munus juxta Christi et apostolorum mandatum et sacrorum canonum normas exerceant. Quod si aliquando legitime fuerint impediti, viros idoneos ad id deligant, ut plebs cibo animarum suarum minime defraudetur. Qui vero hoc facere neglexerint, ad ea per superiores suos compellantur; hoc autem officium non modo publice, sed privatim etiam peragant docendo, admonendo, adhortando, deterrendo, consolando, prout opus esse cognoverint. Nullus autem prædicandi munus exercere præsumat, nisi vel ab apostolica sede, vel ab ordinario licentiam habeat; qui vero secus fecerit, pœnis et censuris canonicis subjaceat. Item, episcopi admonebunt, quos ad prædicandum mittent, de materia et forma, quam in prædicando servare debeant; ut caveant abusus qui in hoc sacrum mysterium verbi divini irrepserunt, ut instituto populo ad pœnitentiam, a qua salutis nostræ initium sumendum est, contra ea vitia et abusus, qui tum in doctrina, tum in moribus tempore schismatis hic maxime viguerunt, juxta mandatum Domini ad Esaiam prophetam “Clament nec cessent annunciare populo Dei scelera eorum:” ubi defuerint concionandi periti rectores aut vicarii, homilias, ex hujus^a synodi mandato con-

^a homilias ex hujus] . . . “homilies which were intended to be published: and among archbishop Parker’s papers I find the scheme he [the cardinal] had of them was thus laid. He designed four books of homilies: the first, of the controverted points, for preserving the people from error: the second, for the exposition of the Creed and Ten Commandments, the Lord’s Prayer, the salutation of the Virgin, and the sacraments: the third was to be for the Saints’ days, and the scriptas, dominicis et aliis festis diebus legere tenebuntur.

Episcopi etiam provideant, ut curati pueros parochiæ suæ dominicis saltem diebus et aliis festis certa hora ad ecclesiam vocent, ibique eosdem in primis fidei rudimentis et pietate christiana diligenter instituunt; negligentes in hoc suo arbitrio puniendo.

De vita et honestate clericorum. Decretum quintum.

Exemplum vitæ genus est quoddam prædicandi non minus efficax, quam per verbum Dei, ideo omnes episcopi et alii ecclesiarum prælati monentur, eisque præcipitur, ut sobrie, caste, et pie vivant, nec solum a malo sed etiam ab omni specie mali abstineant, ut eorum personæ, domus, familia, mensa, supellex, modestiæ et frugalitatis speculum dici mereantur. Quamobrem usus vestium sericarum et pretiosarum prohibetur. In mensa qualescunque convivæ sint, non plusquam tria aut ad summum quatuor (quod magis inspecta præsentis temporis qualitate indulgendo, quam probando conceditur) ciborum genera præter fructus et bellaria apponantur. Reliqua mensæ condimenta sint lectio sacrorum librorum et pii sermones. A familiarium et equorum numerosa et superflua multitudine abstineant; curentque ut domesticorum suorum vita honesta et probata sit, utque modesto ac decenti vestitu omnes utantur. De fructibus autem ecclesiasticis quicquid deductis necessariis expensis, supererit, in pauperes Christi et alia pia opera distribuunt; et demum ita se in omnibus gerant, ut forma gregis ex animo facti merito videantur.

Hæc, quæ de vita et moribus episcoporum dicta sunt, statutum est, ut in reliquis etiam inferioris ordinis clericis

Sundays and holy-days of the year, for explaining the epistles and gospels: and the fourth was concerning virtues and vices, and the rites and ceremonies of the Church." Burnet, H. R. vol. ii. p. 654. vol. iii. p. 494.

observentur; quod ut facilius executioni mandetur, curabunt ordinarii, ut omnes leges ecclesiasticæ de vita et honestate clericorum editæ observentur. Et ne quis ignorantiam hac in re prætereundum possit, omnia, quæ ad id magis pertinere videbuntur, in breve compendium redacta, 5 ut ad omnium notitiam deducantur, operam dabunt. Quamvis religiosis professis et clericis in sacris ordinibus constitutis, uxores habere non liceat, tamen quia multi post emissam professionem vel sacrorum ordinum susceptionem matrimonia (quæ potius impudica contubernia 10 sunt appellanda) de facto contrahere non sunt veriti, omnia hujusmodi matrimonia de facto contracta reprobantur; præcipiturque omnibus ordinariis, ut hujusmodi personas sic de facto conjunctas per censuras ecclesiasticas separent, et contra eos, qui quocumque modo non paruerint, juxta sacrorum canonum regulas severe procedant. 15

Item placuit, ut quævis ecclesiastica persona, quæ aliquod beneficium quantumvis simplex obtinet, vel in sacro ordine est constituta, habitum et tonsuram clericales juxta canonicas sanctiones deferat, et ab omnibus negotiis secularibus et vilibus exercitiis omnino abstineat, et horas canonicas persolvat, et alia, quæ ordini suo conveniunt, observet; inobedientes ordinarius per quodcumque juris remedium etiam usque ad beneficiorum privationem inclusive compellat, minorum autem ordinum clerici ab illicitis abstineant exercitiis, alioquin privilegiis clericalibus eo ipso privati sunt. 25

Quoniam episcopis nihil magis commendat apostolus post prædicationem verbi, quam manuum impositionem, 30 ob eamque neglectam maximi abusus et innumera fere scandala in ecclesiam irrepserunt; omnibus locorum ordinariis mandatur, ut omni studio et charitate, statutis a jure temporibus, diœcesanus suos, quos idoneos judicaverint, ordinibus per seipsos, nisi legitime impediti fuerint, initiarent.

Item placuit, ut ordinarii, quibus dictum est, “Nemini cito manum imposueris,” ipsimet examinationi ordinandorum cum omni cura et sollicitudine intendant, nec ad alios rejiciant; si vero propter multitudinem ordinandorum aliorum auxilio indigeant, tum eorum opera utantur, quorum probitatem et diligentiam perspectam habeant; nec tamen archidiaconi aliive, ad quos hujusmodi munus spectat, excusantur, quominus et ipsi episcopo assistere debeant.

In examinatione ordinandorum, imprimis fides catholica, tum ætas, mores, vita, eruditio, et affectus spectentur, an sint de legitimo matrimonio nati, an in eis aliquis sit defectus, quo ab ordinibus de jure repellantur, atque inter cætera advertatur, ne fictis aut ementitis titulis promoveantur.

Et ut hæc recte fiant. ordinandi ad sacros ordines mensibus aliquot ante tempus ordinationis episcopo voluntatem suam significabunt, ut de illorum statu commode cognoscere possit; deinde feria quinta præcedente diem ordinationis eidem episcopo se præsentabunt, et omnium prædictorum fiat diligens et plena examinatio; adferant autem omnes de his, quæ superius dicta sunt, certa et fide digna testimonia non modo suorum parochorum, sed etiam præceptorum, aliorumve proborum hominum, qui eos bene noverint.

Item placuit, ut nemo ad sacros ordines admittatur, nisi paulo ante confessus fuerit idoneo sacerdoti, qui ejus vitæ conditionem sedulo scrutatus intelligat, an forte aliqua irregularitate aut aliquo alio impedimento teneatur, ut expediat eum ab ordinibus vel omnino, vel quoad hujusmodi impedimentum tollatur, abstinere. In minoribus etiam ordinibus ea cura et examinatio adhibeatur, quæ cuique ordini suscipiendo necessaria videbitur.

Cum beneficium non detur nisi propter officium; ideo episcopi omnes admonentur, ut omni humano affectu semoto ecclesiastica munera, præsertim ea, quibus animarum cura est annexa, non conferant nisi magis probatis atque idoneis, quærentes non quæ sua sunt, sed quæ Jesu Christi.

Quoniam vero quod Paulus dixit, “Nemini cito manum imposueris,” potissimum ministrorum ecclesiasticorum institutionem respicit, episcopi beneficia maxime curam animarum habentia, nisi habita prius diligenti personarum inquisitione, nemini conferant.

In his autem, quæ præficiuntur, hæc spectari debent; sana doctrina, ætatis maturitas, morum gravitas, literarum scientia, saltem ea quæ ad id munus, ad quod assumuntur, est necessaria, ut juxta Pauli doctrinam testimonium bonum habeant, utque nullum canonicum impedimentum eis obsistat.

Et cum aliquis ad beneficium, quod personalem residentiam requirit, assumendus est, episcopus provideat an talis sit, qui et velit et possit in beneficio residere; nam si non possit, repellendus est; sin possit, tum etiam antequam admittatur, promissionem etiam juratam de personaliter residendo et officium exequendo, sub pœna amissionis beneficii, ab eo recipiat: hanc autem promissionem in vicariorum provisionibus præstari debere juxta provinciales constitutiones declaratum est. Ad episcopos etiam pertineat a præfectis academiæ et collegiorum scripta habere nomina eorum, qui et moribus et doctrina ad beneficia obtinenda sint idonei.

Item quoniam multa mala ex diutina ecclesiarum vacatione oriuntur, admonentur omnes episcopi, ut, quam citissime possint, ecclesiis vacantibus de idoneis rectoribus provideant. Durante autem earum vacatione, procurent, ut recte gubernentur. Quæ vero de episcopis dicta sunt, hæc ad omnes inferiores quacunq̄ ratione conferendi, eligendi, aut præsentandi facultatem habentes extendentur.

De concessione præbendæ et ecclesiæ non vacant. Decretum octavum.

5 Cum in fraudem statuti concilii Lateranensis, de non faciendis dispositionibus nec provisionibus beneficiorum non vacantium, multi ad beneficia vacatura præsentandi, seu de illis disponendi potestatem in alios transferant, ex quo in hoc regno multa mala provenisse compertum
10 est; ideo hujusmodi translationes perpetuo fieri prohibentur, et irritæ inanesque declarantur; personæ autem ecclesiasticæ, quæ in hoc deliquerint, pro ea et altera vice sint eo jure privatæ, et ad superiorem facultas disponendi devolvatur. Qui vero contra hoc decretum bene-15 ficium receperit, is non solum illud ipso jure amittat, sed ad alia quæque obtinenda inhabilis per quinquennium omnino sit.

De simonia. Decretum nonum.

Cum detestabile simoniæ scelus universa jura tam humana, quam divina vehementer excrentur; ideo omnis 20 pecuniæ datio, fructuum donatio, prædiorum ad firmam seu afflictum concessio, seu cujuslibet temporalis commodi interpositio, et omne pactum seu promissio in quorumlibet beneficiorum adeptione vel circa eam interveniens damnatur; siquidem beneficia ecclesiastica gratis, infamem esse, et omni disponendi facultate de eisdem beneficiis ad superiores devolvenda privari. Laicus vero patronus excommunicationis sententiæ et aliis ecclesiasticis pœnis subiaceat; mediatores autem tum ad omnes actus canonicos inhabiles sint, tum ad restituend. quicquid inde acceperint, alicui pro loco postea applicand. compellantur. Mandatur insuper ordinariis, ut ab eo qui præsentatus sibi fuerit, juramentum infra adnotatum recipiant, et omnes constitutiones contra simoniacos editæ innoventur. Forma autem dicti juramenti talis est: Ego N. præsentatus ad beneficium de N. juro ad hæc sacrosancta Dei evangelia, per me corporaliter tacta, quod propter dictum beneficium obtinend. aut præsentationem ad idem habend. ac acquirend. neque ego, neque alia persona vice et nomine meo, nec de consensu aut scientia mea, patrono seu alicui cuicumque aliquid promissorum nomine aut intuitu promisimus aut dedimus; nec quicquam ejus rei gratia permutavimus, compensavimus, aut primo datum confirmavimus, apudve quemquam deposuimus, seu quicquam mutavimus, seu elocavimus; priusve mutuatum, commodatum, depositum, aut elocatum, aut quocunque modo debitum remisimus seu relaxavimus; nec de sanctuario, gleba, domibus, terris, prædiis, tenementis, redditibus prædictæ ecclesiæ, fructibusve, decimis, aut oblationibus ejusdem præteritis, præsentibus, aut futuris, donationem, remissionem, locationemve promisimus, fecimus aut inivimus; seu aliquis nostrum de mandato, scientia, aut consensu meo promisit, fecit, aut inivit. Ita me Deus adjuvet, et hæc sancta Dei evangelia.
25 libere, et absque ulla sorde vel conditione concedi et recipi oporteat; atque in beneficiis ad hunc modum adeptis, placuit non modo jus nullum acquiri, sed et fructus, qui percepti fuerint restitui debere: et qui in hoc deliquerit, ad omnia beneficia ecclesiastica obtinenda perpetuo inha-

Ut indemnitatibus ecclesiarum prospiciatur, statutum est felicis recordationis Pauli papæ II. constitutionem de rebus ecclesiæ non alienandis, quæ incipit "Ambitiose," una cum reliquis ecclesiasticis super eadem re provisio-

nibus editis observandam esse. Item mandatur archiepiscopis et inferioribus prælatis, et piorum locorum gubernatoribus, ut infra sex mensium spatium a præsentium publicatione inventarium omnium bonorum mobilium et immobilium, jurium et actionum, ac debitorum ad ecclesias et pia loca quomodolibet spectant. coram pluribus fide dignis personis in forma probante conficiant; quod inventarium tertio quoque anno et quotiens rector mutatur, renovetur; cujus duo fiant publica instrumenta, quorum unum in propria ecclesia seu pio loco, alterum vel apud metropolitanam, si ad cathedralem, vel apud capitulum, si ad metropolitanam, vel apud episcopum, si ad inferiorem spectet ecclesiam, perpetuo conservetur. Hæc autem inventaria in visitatione diœcesium inspiciantur, et si quid deperditum reperiatur, curandum erit ut recuperetur: excipiantur ab his tamen ea, quæ de bonis ante ab ecclesiis ablatis jam apostolica auctoritate sancita sunt.

Præterea constitutio bonæ memoriæ Othonis et Othoboni de dignitatibus et officiis ecclesiasticis sive proventibus ex spirituali exercitio provenient. nullo modo locandis, seu ad firmam et afflictum dandis innovatur; ac ne reliqua beneficia ecclesiastica ultra anni spatium cum ulla invocationis spe, sine ordinarii consensu, ad firmam concedi liceat, vetatur.

De pueris educandis in ecclesiis. Decretum undecimum.

Statutum est, ut singulæ hujus regni metropolitanæ et cathedrales ecclesiæ certum puerorum numerum, vel seminarium quoddam pro cujusque proventu et diœcesis magnitudine alere teneantur. In hunc autem numerum non cooptabuntur, nisi qui annos undecim vel duodecim ad minimum nati sint, quique pauperes potius parentes, quam divites habeant; qui bonæ indolis ac spei sint; qui legere et scribere sciant: erudiendi sunt hii in grammatica, et in ecclesiastica disciplina diligenter instituendi. Horum duæ erunt classes; altera proveciores ætate et doctrina continebit, qui acolythi sint; hisque præter victum et togam annuam, quam liberalem vocant, aliquid etiam mercedis constituetur; in altera juniores erunt, quibus toga tantum et mensa dabitur. Incedent autem omnes, utriusque sint classis, cum tonsura et vestitu clericali, eodemque vivendi modo utentur, et divinis in ecclesia officiis inservient. Ex acolythorum classe quicumque ad ætatem legitimam pervenerint, et in moribus literisque profecerint, sacris initiabuntur ordinibus, et in quocunque ecclesiæ ministerio episcopo et capitulo visum fuerit, operam suam præstabit; hisque pro cujusque merito de beneficio aliquo providebitur: quorum in locum alii ex inferiori classe substituentur. Licebit etiam extra hunc numerum aliis ejusdem civitatis et diœcesis pueris una cum his in grammatica et literis erudiri, dummodo honesti sint, eodemque vestitu et moribus utantur, qui item in locum clericorum, qui quocunque modo desiderabuntur, substituentur. Quousque autem certa dos huic operi assignabitur, archiepiscopi et episcopi omnes fructuum annuorum, quos ex proventibus episcopatum suorum percipiunt, deductis decimis, subsidiis et feudis, quadragesimam partem cum ad ipsos pueros alendos, tum etiam ad mercedem solvendam magistris, qui eos in grammatica et ecclesiastica doctrina et disciplina erudient, in singulos annos pendent. Quod item ut ab omnibus, qui præbendas vel beneficia quæcunque ecclesiastica aut jam obtinent, aut posthac obtinebunt, fiat; statutum est auctoritate scilicet ut ex fructibus beneficiorum suorum, quæ vel singula, vel plura simul ad annum censum viginti librarum ascendunt, partem quadragesimam ad hos ipsos usus in ea diœcesi, in qua beneficia obtinent, quotannis persolvant. Exigetur autem quadragesima hæc pars ab his, qui per episcopum, decanum et capitulum quibus scholæ cura committitur, ad hoc erunt designati. Docendi munus nemo in posterum quovis in loco suscipere audeat, nisi ab ordinario examinatus, probatusque, et de libris, quos legere debet, ante admonitus fuerit; alioquin excommunicationis pœnam incurrat, et a docendo per triennium prohibeatur. Ex his vero, qui jam docendi munus exercent, si quis indignus fide, doctrina, vel moribus repertus fuerit, ejiciatur; sin 5 dignus, confirmetur.

De visitatione. Decretum duodecimum.

Cum ecclesiarum visitatio ad vitia et abusus tollendos, ac rursus ad bonos mores inducendos, ac legum ecclesiarum vim et usum retinendum non solum utilis, verum
10 etiam necessaria sit; placuit, ut episcopi, et alii locorum ordinarii diœceses et loca sibi commissa juxta antiquam hujus regni consuetudinem, saltem singulis trienniis per seipsos, sin autem legitimo aliquo impedimento detineantur, per idoneos substitutos, juxta formam ab eadem 15 synodo descriptam, visitent.

Item, archidiaconi partem diœcesis sibi commissam in hiis, quæ ad eos pertinent, secundum eandem formam visitent; graviora autem, et quæ per eos emendari non possunt, ad episcopos referant; operam etiam dabunt, ut
20 ea, quæ in visitatione per episcopum statuta et mandata sunt, perficiantur, ac de his, quæ perfecta fuerint aut non perfecta, simulque de causis, quæ eorum executionem impediunt, episcopum statim admonebunt; atque ut iidem archidiaconi officio suo tam in visitationibus quam
25 cæteris in rebus satisfaciant, constitutiones provinciales ac bonæ memoriæ Othonis, et Othoboni, sedis apostolicæ legatorum, hac de re editæ innoventur: et illi ejusdem Othoboni, qua cavetur, ne archidiaconi ob crimen manifestum a delinquentibus pecunias accipiant, sed illud 30 digna animadversione puniant, additum est; ut si quis contra id fecerit, pœna dupli ejus, quod acceperit, per episcopum multetur, eaque pecunia in usum mensæ scholæ convertatur. Ut autem ecclesiarum prælati officium correctionis et reformationis libere exercere possint, 35 constitutionem felicis recordationis Innocentii papæ III, in concilio generali editam, qua statuitur, ut iidem prælati eorum, qui suæ sunt jurisdictionis, excessus, appellatione postposita, vel consuetudine non obstante, corrigant et reformat, innovari placuit, et ab omnibus observari præcipitur^c.

IV. Credimus baptismum omnibus ad salutem esse necessarium, etiam infantibus; peccataque omnia tan actualia, quam originalia baptismum tolli et plenarie deleri, adeo ut, qui rite baptizentur, filii Dei fiant et hæredes

V. Credimus hominem liberum habere arbitrium, quo potest male, et cum gratia Dei bene agere; et post peccatum admissum, Deo adjuvante, pœnitere, et peccatorum

VI. Credimus, quod nec sine fide nec sola fide sine pœnitentia et proposito vivendi secundum Dei mandata, aut sine spe et charitate homo possit justificari: eosque improbamus, qui vel solam fidem sine operibus satis esse

In qua missa vivificum esse Christi sacrificium tam pro vivis, quam pro mortuis propitiabile, communionemque sub utraque specie ad salutem necessariam non esse asseveramus; potestatemque consecrandi corpus et sanguinem Christi esse concessam solis sacerdotibus, secundum ecclesiæ catholicæ ritum legitime a Christo ordinatis.

IX. Credimus matrimonium inter christianos legitime contractum esse indissolubile, qualiscunque fuerit alter conjugum, sive adulter, sive sterilis, sive hæreticus.

X. Credimus unam esse in terris catholicam Christi ecclesiam, eamque visibilem, quæ a tempore apostolorum ad nostram ætatem durans in hiis, quæ fidei sunt et religionis, non potest errare; hæreticisque, schismaticis, et excommunicatis, et ab hac ecclesiæ unitate alienis et avulsis nullam superesse salutem; unumque esse sub Christo summum pastorem, cui omnes obedire tenentur, summamque hanc præposituram divum Petrum, verum in terris Christi vicarium, et generalem totius Christi familiæ pastorem, primum omnium gessisse; post Petrum vero ex Christi institutione omnes deinceps Romanos pontifices, Petri in cathedra successores.

 30 of this to be, that there was at that time only one minister of the word in London, namely, Bentham, whereas the number of papists was very considerable. Others think that it is owing to the circumstance, that having heard only one public discourse of Bentham's, the people began to dispute among themselves about ceremonies, some declaring for Injunctions given by the queen's majesty, concerning both the clergy and laity of this realm, published anno Domini MDLIX. being the first year of the reign of our sovereign lady queen Elizabeth. (Bodl. 4to I. 2. Th. Seld.)

THE queen's most royal majesty, by the advice of her most honourable council, intending the advancement

Injunctions given by] "Injunctions for the ordering of matters of the church and religion were framed and set forth, to the number²⁰ of LIII, called the Queen's Injunctions, by virtue of her supremacy in causes ecclesiastical as well as civil. . . . Who the compiler or compilers were I cannot say assuredly, but I make little doubt they were that select company of divines at Westminster, who had been employed in sir Thomas Smith's house in Canon Row about king Edward's Book,²⁵ of the true honour of Almighty God, the suppression of superstition through all her highness's realms and dominions, and to plant true religion to the extirpation of all hypocrisy, enormities, and abuses, (as to her duty appertaineth,) doth minister unto her loving subjects these godly injunctions hereafter following. All which injunctions her highness willeth and commandeth her loving subjects obediently to receive, and truly to observe and keep, every man in their offices, degrees, and states, as they will avoid her highness's displeasure, and the pains of the same hereafter expressed.

I. The first is, That all deans, archdeacons, parsons, vicars, and all other ecclesiastical persons shall faithfully keep and observe, and as far as in them may lie, shall cause to be observed and kept of other, all and singular laws and statutes made for the restoring to the crown the ancient and other church matters; as Cox, Sandys, Grindal, &c. and most probably Parker among the rest, after his coming up to London. And to this business of the Injunctions I am apt to think Cox had respect in that passage of his letter to the divine at Worms (see Strype, Ann. vol. i. P. i. p. 197.), 'that they were then breaking down the popish hedge, and restoring the Lord's vineyard; and that they were then in the work: but the harvest was great and the labourers few.' To be sure in these Injunctions sir William Cecil the secretary had a great hand; who, as his office was, after the copy of them was brought to his hand, reviewed, considered, and worded them according to his discretion; as appeareth by a passage in a letter of archbishop Parker to him April 11, 1575. 'Whatsoever the [queen's] ecclesiastical prerogative is, I fear it is not so great as your pen hath given it in the Injunctions.' Strype, Ann. vol. i. P. i. p. 235. Burnet, H. R. vol. ii. p. 794. Collier, vol. ii. p. 433.

I. The first is] This injunction is copied from king Edward's, except that in this case the reference to foreign jurisdiction is made general; whereas in king Edward's there is specific mention of "the bishop of Rome, his pretended and usurped power and jurisdiction." In conformity with the same plan, the words "from the tyranny of the bishop of Rome, and all his detestable enormities" which had appeared in the Litany of both king Edward's Service Books, were omitted on the revision of queen Elizabeth.

jurisdiction over the state ecclesiastical, and abolishing of all foreign power, repugnant to the same. And furthermore, All ecclesiastical persons having cure of souls, shall, to the uttermost of their wit, knowledge, and learning, purely and sincerely, and without any colour or dissimulation, declare, manifest and open four times every year at the least, in their sermons and other collations, that all usurped and foreign power, having no establishment nor ground by the law of God, is, for most just causes, taken away and abolished; and that therefore no manner ¹⁰ of obedience and subjection within her highness's realms and dominions is due unto any such foreign power. And, that the queen's power within her realms and dominions is the highest power under God, to whom all men, within the same realms and dominions, by God's laws, owe most ¹⁵ loyalty and obedience, afore and above all other powers and potentates in earth.

II. Besides this, to the intent that all superstition and hypocrisy crept into divers men's hearts, may vanish away, they shall not set forth or extol the dignity of any ²⁰ images, relics, or miracles; but, declaring the abuse of the same, they shall teach, that all goodness, health and grace ought to be both asked and looked for only of God, as of the very Author and Giver of the same, and of none other. 25

III. Item, That they, the parsons above rehearsed, shall preach in their churches, and every other cure they have,

II. relics or miracles;] After these words in king Edward's Injunctions were the following: "for any superstition or lucre; nor allure the people by any enticements to the pilgrimage of any saint or ³⁰ image." The practice was discontinued and the prohibition was no longer required.

III. one sermon every month] The sermons required in K. Edward's time were "one sermon every quarter of the year;" and the additional instances given of superstitious practices were "offering of money, ³⁵ candles or tapers, to relics, or images, or kissing or licking of the same."

one sermon every month of the year at the least, wherein they shall purely and sincerely declare the word of God, and in the same exhort their hearers to the works of faith, as mercy and charity, specially prescribed and 5 commanded in scripture; and that the works devised by man's fantasies, besides scripture, (as wandering of pilgrimages, setting up of candles, praying upon beads, or such like superstition,) have not only no promise of reward of scripture for doing of them, but contrariwise
 10 great threatenings and maledictions of God, for that they be things tending to idolatry and superstition, which of all other offences God Almighty doth most detest and abhor, for that the same diminish most his honour and glory.

15 IV. Item, That they, the parsons above rehearsed, shall preach in their own persons, once in every quarter of the year at the least, one sermon, being licensed specially thereunto, as is specified hereafter; or else shall read some homily prescribed to be used by the queen's 20 authority every Sunday at the least, unless some other preacher sufficiently licensed, as hereafter, chance to come to the parish for the same purpose of preaching.

V. Item, That every holy-day through the year, when they have no sermon, they shall immediately after the 25 Gospel openly and plainly recite to their parishioners in the pulpit the "Pater noster," the "Creed," and the

IV. Item, That they the parsons] This injunction is new, and in the place of one, which required the removal of all images, and the tapers or candles usually set before them, but expressly allowed "two lights 30 upon the high altar before the sacrament, which, for the signification that Christ is the very true light of the world, they shall suffer to remain still." It appears however from the Injunctions of the 3rd year of K. Edward (No. XV.) and the subsequent Injunctions of Bp. Ridley (No. XXI.) that the permission had in the meantime been with-35 drawn.

V. Item, That every holy-day] This is copied from king Edward's Injunctions.

“Ten Commandments,” in English, to the intent, the people may learn the same by heart; exhorting all parents and householders to teach their children and servants the same, as they are bound by the law of God and conscience to do. 5

VI. Also, That they shall provide within three months next after this visitation, at the charges of the parish, one book of the whole Bible of the largest volume in English; and within one twelve months next after the said visitation, the Paraphrases of Eras-
 10 mus also in English upon the Gospels, and the same set up in some convenient place within the said church, that they have cure of, whereas their parishioners may most commodiously resort unto the same, and read the 15 same, out of the time of common service. The charges of the Paraphrases shall be by the parson or proprietary and parishioners borne by equal portions; and they shall discourage no man from the reading of any part of the Bible, either in Latin or in English, but shall rather 20 exhort every person to read the same with great humility and reverence, as the very lively word of God, and the special food of man's soul, which all Christian persons are bound to embrace, believe and follow, if they look to be saved; whereby they may the better know their duties
 25 to God, to their sovereign lady the queen, and their neighbour; ever gently and charitably exhorting them, and in her majesty's name straitly charging and commanding them, that in the reading thereof, no man to reason or contend, but quietly to hear the reader.

VII. Also, the said ecclesiastical persons shall in 30 wise at any unlawful time, nor for any other cause, than for their honest necessities, haunt or resort to any taverns or alehouses. And after their meats, they shall not give themselves to drinking or riot, spending their time idly by day or by night at dice, cards, or tables playing, or any other unlawful game; but at all times, as they shall have leisure, they shall hear or read somewhat of holy scripture, or shall occupy themselves with some other honest study, or exercise; and that they always do the things which appertain to honesty, and endeavour to profit the commonwealth; having always in mind that they ought to excel all other in purity of life, and should be examples to the people to live well and christianly.

VIII. Also, That they shall admit no man to preach within any their cures, but such as shall appear unto them to be sufficiently licensed thereunto by the queen's majesty, or the archbishop of Canterbury or the archbishop of York, in either their provinces, or the bishop of the diocese, or by the queen's majesty's visitors. And such as shall be so licensed, they shall gladly receive to declare the word of God at convenient times, without any resistance or contradiction. And that no other be suffered to preach out of his own cure or parish, than such as shall be licensed, as is above expressed.

IX. Also, If they do or shall know any man within their parish or elsewhere, that is a letter of the word of God to be read in English, or sincerely preached, or of the execution of these the queen's majesty's injunctions, or a fautor of any usurped and foreign power, now by the laws of this realm justly rejected and taken away, they shall detect and present the same to the queen's majesty, or to her council, or to the ordinary, or to the justice of peace next adjoining.

VIII. Also, That they] The same; except that in this Injunction the queen's visitors are added to those who could grant licenses to preach, and that the last clause is new. The licenses granted by the visitors were objected to by the bishops, and were soon revoked. See Strype, Ann. vol. i. P. i. pp. 318 and 329.

IX. Also, If they] The same; except that in K. Edward's Injunction was special mention of "the bishop of Rome's pretended power."

X. Also, That the parson, vicar, or curate, and parishioners of every parish within this realm, shall in their churches and chapels keep one book of register, wherein they shall write the day and year of every wedding, christening, and burial made within the parish for their time, and so every man succeeding them likewise; and also therein shall write every person's name that shall be so wedded, christened and buried. And for the safe keeping of the same book, the parish shall be bound to provide of their common charges one sure coffer, with two locks and keys, whereof the one to remain with the parson, vicar, or curate, and the other with the wardens of every parish church or chapel, wherein the said book shall be laid up. Which book they shall every Sunday take forth, and in the presence of the said wardens, or one of them, write and record in the same all the weddings, christenings, and burials, made the whole week before; and that done, to lay up the book in the said coffer as before: and for every time that the same shall be omitted, the party that shall be in the fault thereof shall forfeit to the said church 3*s.* 4*d.*, to be employed, the one half to the poor men's box of that parish, the other half towards the repairing of the church.

XI. Furthermore, because the goods of the church are called the goods of the poor, and at these days nothing is less seen, than the poor to be sustained with the same; all parsons, vicars, pensionaries, prebendaries, and other beneficed men within this deanery, not being resident upon their benefices, which may dispend yearly twenty pounds or above, either within this deanery, or elsewhere, shall distribute hereafter among their poor parishioners, or other inhabitants there, in the presence of the churchwardens, or some other honest men of the parish, the fortieth part of the fruits and revenues of the said benefice; lest they be worthily noted of ingratitude, which reserving so many parts to themselves, cannot vouchsafe to impart the fortieth portion thereof among the poor people of that parish, that is so fruitful and profitable unto them.

XII. And, to the intent that learned men may hereafter spring the more, for the execution of the premises, every parson, vicar, clerk, or beneficed man within this deanery, having yearly to dispend in benefices and other promotions of the church an hundred pounds, shall give 3*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in exhibition to one scholar in any of the universities; and for as many cl. more as he may dispend, to so many scholars more shall give like exhibition in the university of Oxford or Cambridge, or some grammar-school, which, after they have profited in good learning, may be partners of their patron's cure and charge, as well in preaching, as otherwise in executing of their offices, or may, when time shall be, otherwise profit the commonweal with their counsel and wisdom.

XIII. Also, That all proprietaries, parsons, vicars and clerks, having churches, chapels, or mansions within this deanery, shall bestow yearly hereafter upon the same mansions, or chancels of their churches, being in decay, the fifth part of that their benefices, till they be fully repaired, and shall always keep and maintain in good estate.

XIV. Also, That the said parsons, vicars, and clerks, shall once every quarter of the year read these injunctions given unto them, openly and deliberately before all their parishioners at one time, or at two several times in one

XII. And, to the intent] The same; except that the sum which is here specially mentioned as 3*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* is left in K. Edward's Injunctions under the general term of "a competent exhibition."

XV. Also, Forasmuch as by laws established, every man is bound to pay his tithes, no man shall by colour of duty omitted by their curates, detain their tithes and so requite one wrong with another, or be his own judge; but shall truly pay the same, as hath been accustomed, to their parsons, vicars and curates, without any restraint or diminution; and such lack and default as they can justly find in their parsons and curates, to call for reformation thereof at their ordinaries, and other superiors, who, upon complaint and due proof thereof, shall reform the same accordingly.

XVI. Also, That every parson, vicar, curate, and stipendary priest, being under the degree of a master of arts, shall provide and have of his own, within three months after this visitation, the New Testament both in Latin and in English, with paraphrases upon the same, conferring the one with the other. And the bishops and other ordinaries by themselves or their officers, in their synods and visitations, shall examine the said ecclesiastical persons, how they have profited in the study of holy scripture.

XVII. Also, That the vice of damnable despair may be clearly taken away, and that firm belief and steadfast hope may be surely conceived of all their parishioners,

XV. Also, Forasmuch] The same.

XVI. Also, That every] The same; except that in K. Edward's Injunctions the degree mentioned is that of Bachelor of Divinity, and the Paraphrase to be studied is exclusively that of Erasmus, thereby shewing the progress which had since been made in learning by the clergy.

XVII. Also, That the vice] Abridged from the corresponding injunction of K. Edward; and with this difference, that the expression which was previously "the damnable vice of despair" is now "the vice of damnable despair."

being in any danger; they shall learn and have always in a readiness such comfortable places and sentences of scripture, as do set forth the mercy, benefits, and goodness of almighty God towards all penitent and believing persons; that they may at all times when necessity shall require, promptly comfort their flock with the lively word of God, which is the only stay of man's conscience.

XVIII. Also, To avoid all contention and strife, which heretofore hath risen among the queen's majesty's subjects in sundry places of her realms and dominions, by reason of fond courtesy, and challenging of places in procession; and also that they may the more quietly hear that, which is said or sung to their edifying, they shall not from henceforth in any parish church at any time use any procession about the church or churchyard, or other place; but immediately before the time of communion of the sacrament, the priests with other of the quire shall kneel in the midst of the church, and sing or say plainly and distinctly the Litany, which is set forth in English, with all the suffrages following, to the intent the people may hear and answer; and none other procession or litany to be had or used, but the said litany in English, adding nothing thereto, but as it is now appointed. And in cathedral or collegiate churches the same shall be done in such places, and in such sort, as our commissioners in our visitation shall appoint. And in the time of the litany, of the common prayer, of the sermon, and when the priest readeth the scripture to the parishioners, no manner of persons, without a just and urgent cause, shall use any walking in the church, nor shall depart out of the church; and all ringing and knolling of bells shall be utterly forborne for that time, except one bell in convenient time to be rung or knolled before the sermon.

XVIII. Also, To avoid] The same as before; except that "communion of the sacrament" is substituted for "high mass," and the last sentence respecting "perambulation of parishes" is new.

But yet for the retaining of the perambulation of the circuits of parishes, they shall once in the year at the time accustomed, with the curate and the substantial men of the parish, walk about their parishes, as they were accustomed, and at their return to the church, make their common prayers.

XIX. Provided, That the curate in their said common perambulations, used heretofore in the days of rogations, at certain convenient places shall admonish the people to give thanks to God, in the beholding of God's benefits, for the increase and abundance of his fruits upon the face of the earth, with the saying of the 103rd Psalm, "Benedic anima mea," &c. or such like. At which time also the same minister shall inculcate these or such sentences: "Cursed be he, which translateth the bounds and doles of his neighbour." Or such other order of prayers, as shall be hereafter appointed.

XX. Item, All the queen's faithful and loving subjects shall from henceforth celebrate and keep their holy-day according to God's holy will and pleasure; that is, in hearing the word of God read and taught, in private and public prayers, in knowledging their offences to God, and amendment of the same, in reconciling themselves charitably to their neighbours, where displeasure hath been, in oftentimes receiving the communion of the very body and blood of Christ, in visiting of the poor and sick, using all soberness and godly conversation. Yet notwithstanding, all parsons, vicars and curates, shall teach and declare unto their parishioners, that they may with a safe and quiet conscience, after their common prayer in the time of harvest, labour upon the holy and festival days, and save that thing which God hath sent; and if for any scrupulosity or grudge of conscience, men should superstitiously abstain from working upon those days, that then they should grievously offend and displease God.

XXI. Also, Forasmuch as variance and contention is a thing, that most displeaseth God, and is most contrary to the blessed communion of the body and blood of our Saviour Christ, curates shall in no wise admit to the receiving thereof any of their cure and flock, which be openly known to live in sin notorious without repentance, or who hath maliciously and openly contended with his neighbour, unless the same do first charitably and openly reconcile himself again, remitting all rancour and malice, whatsoever controversy hath been between them. And nevertheless, their just titles and rights they may charitably prosecute before such as have authority to hear the same.

XXII. Also, That they shall instruct and teach in their cures, that no man ought obstinately and maliciously to break and violate the laudable ceremonies of the church, commanded by public authority to be observed.

XXIII. Also, That they shall take away, utterly extinct, and destroy all shrines, coverings of shrines, all tables, candlesticks, trindals, and rolls of wax, pictures, paintings, and all other monuments of feigned miracles, pilgrimages, idolatry, and superstition, so that there remain no memory of the same in walls, glass-windows, or elsewhere within their churches and houses; preserving nevertheless, or repairing both the walls and glass-windows; and they shall exhort all their parishioners to do the like within their several houses.

XXIV. And, That the churchwardens, at the common charge of the parishioners, in every church shall provide a comely and honest pulpit, to be set in a convenient place within the same, and to be there seemly kept for the preaching of God's word.

XXV. Also, They shall provide and have within three months after this visitation, a strong chest with a hole in the upper part thereof, to be provided at the cost and charge of the parish, having three keys, whereof one shall remain in the custody of the parson, vicar, or curate, and the other two in the custody of the churchwardens, or any other two honest men, to be appointed by the parish from year to year; which chest you shall set and fasten in a most convenient place, to the intent the parishioners should put into it their oblations and alms for their poor neighbours. And the parson, vicar and curate shall diligently from time to time, and especially when men make their testaments, call upon, exhort and move their neighbours to confer and give, as they may well spare, to the said chest: declaring unto them, whereas heretofore they have been diligent to bestow much substance, otherwise than God commanded, upon pardons, pilgrimages, trentals, decking of images, offering of candles, giving to friars, and upon other like blind devotions, they ought at this time to be much more ready to help the poor and needy; knowing that to relieve the poor is a true worshipping of God, required earnestly upon pain of everlasting damnation; and that also whatsoever is given for their comfort, is given to Christ himself, and so is accepted of him, that he will mercifully reward the same with everlasting life.

XXV. Also, They shall provide] The same as before; except that the clauses, "or to the poor people of such parishes near, as shall be thought &c." and "to obits and diriges," are new.

The which alms and devotion of the people the keepers of the keys shall at times convenient take out of the chest, and distribute the same in the presence of the whole parish, or six of them, to be truly and faithfully delivered to their most needy neighbours; and if they be provided for, then to the reparation of highways next adjoining, or to the poor people of such parishes near, as shall be thought best to the said keepers of the keys. And also the money which riseth of fraternities, guilds, and other stocks of the church (except by the queen's majesty's authority it be otherwise appointed) shall be put in the said chest, and converted to the said use; and also the rents of lands, the profit of cattle, and money given or bequeathed to obits and diriges, and to the finding of torches, lights, tapers and lamps, shall be converted to the said use; saving that it shall be lawful for them to bestow part of the said profits upon the reparation of the said church, if great need require, and whereas the parish is very poor, and not able otherwise to repair the same.

XXVI. Also, To avoid the detestable sin of simony, because buying and selling of benefices is execrable before God, therefore all such persons, as buy any benefices, or come to them by fraud or deceit, shall be deprived of such benefices, and be made unable at any time after to receive any other spiritual promotion; and such as do sell them, or by any colour do bestow them for their own gain and profit, shall use their right and title of patronage and presentment for that time, and the gift thereof for that vacation shall appertain to the queen's majesty.

XXVII. Also, Because through lack of preachers in many places of the queen's realms and dominions the people continue in ignorance and blindness, all parsons, vicars, and curates shall read in their churches every Sunday one of the homilies, which are and shall be set forth for the same purpose by the queen's authority, in such sort, as they shall be appointed to do in the preface of the same.

XXVIII. Item, Whereas many indiscreet persons do at this day uncharitably contemn and abuse priests and ministers of the church, because some of them (having small learning) have of long time favoured fond fantasies, rather than God's truth; yet forasmuch as their office and function is appointed of God, the queen's majesty willeth and chargeth all her loving subjects, that from henceforth they shall use them charitably and reverently for their office and ministration sake, and specially such as labour in the setting forth of God's holy word.

XXIX. Item, Although there be no prohibition by the word of God, nor any example of the primitive church, but that the priests and ministers of the church may lawfully, for the avoiding of fornication, have an honest and sober wife, and that for the same purpose the same was by act of Parliament in the time of our dear brother king Edward the Sixth made lawful, whereupon a great number of the clergy of this realm were then married, and so continue; yet because there hath grown offence, and some slander to the church by lack of discreet and sober behaviour in many ministers of the church, both in choosing of their wives, and indiscreet living with them, the remedy whereof is necessary to be sought: it is thought therefore very necessary, that no manner of priest or deacon shall hereafter take to his wife any manner of woman without the advice and allowance first had upon good examination by the bishop of the same diocese, and two justices of the peace of the same shire, dwelling next to the place, where the same woman hath made her most abode before her marriage; nor without the good will of the parents of the said woman, if she have any living, or two of the next of her kinsfolks, or, for lack of knowledge of such, of her master or mistress, where she serveth. And before he shall be contracted in any place, he shall make a good and certain proof thereof to the minister, or to the congregation assembled for that purpose, which shall be upon some holy-day, where divers may be present. And if any shall do otherwise, that then they shall not be permitted to minister either the word or the sacraments of the church, nor shall be capable of any ecclesiastical benefice. And for the manner of marriages of any bishops, the same shall be allowed and approved by the metropolitan of the province, and also by such commissioners, as the queen's majesty shall thereunto appoint. And if any master or dean, or any head of any college shall purpose to marry, the same shall not be allowed, but by such to whom the visitation of the same doth properly belong, who shall in any wise provide that the same tend not to the hinderance of their house.

XXX. Item, Her majesty being desirous to have the prelacy and clergy of this realm to be had as well in outward reverence, as otherwise regarded for the worthiness of their ministries, and thinking it necessary to have them known to the people in all places and assemblies, both in the church and without, and thereby to receive the honour and estimation due to the special messengers and ministers of Almighty God; willeth and commandeth, that all archbishops and bishops, and all other that be called or admitted to preaching or ministry of the sacraments, or that be admitted into vocation ecclesiastical, or into any society of learning in either of the universities, or elsewhere, shall use and wear such seemly habits, garments, and such square caps, as were most commonly and orderly received in the latter year of the reign of king Edward the Sixth; not thereby meaning to attribute any holiness or special worthiness to the said garments, but as St. Paul writeth: "Omnia decenter et secundum ordinem fiant." 1 Cor. 14 cap.

XXXI. Item, That no man shall wilfully and obstinately defend or maintain any heresies, errors, or false doctrine, contrary to the faith of Christ and his Holy Spirit.

XXXII. Item, That no persons shall use charms, sorceries, enchantments, witchcraft, soothsaying, or any such like devilish device, nor shall resort at any time to the same for counsel or help.

XXXIII. Item, That no persons shall, neglecting their own parish church, resort to any other church in time of common prayer or preaching, except it be by the occasion of some extraordinary sermon in some parish of the same town.

XXXIV. Item, That no innholders or alehouse keepers shall use to sell meat or drink in the time of common prayer, preaching, reading of the homilies or scriptures.

XXXV. Item, That no persons keep in their houses any abused images, tables, pictures, paintings, and other monuments of feigned miracles, pilgrimages, idolatry, and superstition.

XXXVI. Item, That no man shall willingly let or disturb the preacher in time of his sermon, or let or discourage any curate or minister to sing or say the divine service now set forth; nor mock or jest at the ministers of such service.

XXXVII. Item, That no man shall talk or reason of the holy scriptures rashly, or contentiously, nor maintain any false doctrine or error, but shall commune of the same, when occasion is given, reverently, humbly, and in the fear of God, for his comfort and better understanding.

5 XXXVIII. Item, That no man, woman or child, shall be otherwise occupied in the time of the service, than in quiet attendance to hear, mark, and understand that is read, preached, and ministered.

XXXIX. Item, That every schoolmaster and teacher
10 shall teach the Grammar set forth by king Henry VIII. of noble memory, and continued in the time of king Edward VI, and none other.

XL. Item, That no man shall take upon him to teach, but such as shall be allowed by the ordinary, and 15 found meet as well for his learning and dexterity in teaching, as for sober and honest conversation, and also for right understanding of God's true religion.

XLI. Item, That all teachers of children shall stir and move them to the love and due reverence of God's 20 true religion now truly set forth by public authority.

XLII. Item, That they shall accustom their scholars reverently to learn such sentences of scriptures, as shall be most expedient to induce them to all godliness.

XLIII. Item, Forasmuch as in these latter days
25 many have been made priests, being children, and otherwise utterly unlearned, so that they could read to say matins or mass; the ordinaries shall not admit any such to any cure or spiritual function.

XLIV. Item, Every parson, vicar, and curate, shall 30 upon every holy-day, and every second Sunday in the year, hear and instruct all the youth of the parish for half an hour at the least before evening prayer, in the Ten Commandments, the Articles of the Belief, and in the Lord's Prayer, and diligently examine them, 35 and teach the Catechism set forth in the book of public prayer.

XLV. Item, That the ordinaries do exhibit unto our visitors their books, or a true copy of the same, containing the causes, why any person was imprisoned, famished, or put to death for religion.

XLVI. Item, That in every parish three or four discreet men, which tender God's glory, and his true religion, shall be appointed by the ordinaries diligently to see that all the parishioners duly resort to their church upon all Sundays and holy-days, and there to continue the whole time of the godly service; and all such as shall be found slack or negligent in resorting to the church, having no great nor urgent cause of absence, they shall straitly call upon them, and after due admonition if they amend not, they shall denounce them to the ordinary.

XLVII. Item, That the churchwardens of every parish shall deliver unto our visitors the inventories of vestments, copes, and other ornaments, plate, books, and specially of grails, couchers, legends, processions, hymnals, manuals, portasses, and such like appertaining to the church.

XLVIII. Item, That weekly upon Wednesdays and Fridays, not being holy-days, the curate at the accustomed hours of service shall resort to church, and cause warning to be given to the people by knolling of a bell, and say the litany and prayers.

XLIX. Item, Because in divers collegiate, and also some parish churches heretofore there have been livings appointed for the maintenance of men and children to use singing in the church, by means whereof the laudable science of music hath been had in estimation, and preserved in knowledge; the queen's majesty neither meauing in any wise the decay of any thing, that might conveniently tend to the use and continuance of the said science, neither to have the same in any part so abused in the church, that thereby the common prayer should be the worse understood of the hearers, willeth and commandeth, that first no alteration be made of such assignments of living, as heretofore hath been appointed to the use of singing or music in the church, but that 5 the same so remain. And that there be a modest and distinct song so used in all parts of the common prayers in the church, that the same may be as plainly understood, as if it were read without singing; and yet nevertheless for the comforting of such that delight in 0 music, it may be permitted, that in the beginning, or in the end of common prayers, either at morning or evening, there may be sung an hymn, or such like song to the praise of Almighty God, in the best sort of melody and music that may be conveniently devised,

5 having respect that the sentence of the hymn may be understood and perceived.

L. Item, Because in all alterations, and specially in rites and ceremonies, there happen discords amongst the people, and thereupon slanderous words and railings, whereby charity, the knot of all Christian society, is 0 loosed; the queen's majesty being most desirous of all other earthly things, that her people should live in charity both towards God and man, and therein abound in good works, willeth and straitly commandeth all
25 manner her subjects to forbear all vain and contentious disputations in matters of religion, and not to use in despite or rebuke of any person these convicious words, papist or papastical heretic, schismatic or sacramentary, or any such like words of reproach. But if any manner
30 of person shall deserve the accusation of any such, that first he be charitably admonished thereof; and if that shall not amend him, then to denounce the offender to the ordinary, or to some higher power, having authority to correct the same.

35 LI. Item, Because there is a great abuse in the printers of books, which for covetousness chiefly regard not what they print, so they may have gain, whereby ariseth the great disorder by publication of unfruitful, vain, and infamous books and papers; the queen's majesty straitly chargeth and commandeth, that no manner of person shall print any manner of book or paper, of what sort, nature, or in what language soever it be, except the same be first licensed by her majesty by express words in writing, or by six of her privy council; or be perused and licensed by the archbishops of Canterbury and York, the bishop of London, the 10 chancellors of both universities, the bishop being ordinary, and the archdeacon also of the place, where any such shall be printed, or by two of them, whereof the ordinary of the place to be always one. And that the names of such, as shall allow the same, to be added in 15 the end of every such work, for a testimony of the allowance thereof. And because many pamphlets, plays, and ballads be oftentimes printed, wherein regard would be had, that nothing therein should be either heretical, seditious, or unseemly for Christian ears; her majesty 20

likewise commandeth that no manner of person shall enterprize to print any such, except the same be to him licensed by such her majesty's commissioners, or three of them, as be appointed in the city of London to hear and determine divers causes ecclesiastical, tending to the 25 execution of certain statutes made the last parliament for uniformity of order in religion. And if any shall sell or utter any manner of books or papers, being not licensed as is abovesaid, that the same party shall be punished by order of the said commissioners, as to the 30 quality of the fault shall be thought meet. And touching all other books of matters of religion, or policy, or governance, that have been printed, either on this side the seas, or on the other side, because the diversity of them is great, and that there needeth good consideration 35 to be had of the particularities thereof, her majesty

referreth the prohibition or permission thereof to the order, which her said commissioners within the city of London shall take and notify. According to the which her majesty straitly chargeth and commandeth all manner her subjects, and specially the wardens and company of stationers to be obedient.

Provided that these orders do not extend to any profane authors and works in any language, that have been heretofore commonly received or allowed in any the universities or schools, but the same may be printed, and used as by good order they were accustomed.

LII. Item, Although Almighty God is all times to be honoured with all manner of reverence that may be devised; yet of all other times, in time of common prayer the same is most to be regarded; therefore it is to be necessarily received, that in time of the litany, and all other collects and common supplications to Almighty God, all manner of people shall devoutly and humbly kneel upon their knees and give ear thereunto; and that whensoever the name of Jesus shall be in any lesson, sermon, or otherwise in the church pronounced, that due reverence be made of all persons young and old, with lowness of courtesy, and uncovering of heads of the menkind, as thereunto doth necessarily belong, and heretofore hath been accustomed.

LIII. Item, That all ministers and readers of public prayers, chapters, and homilies shall be charged to read leisurely, plainly, and distinctly; and also such, as are but mean readers, shall peruse over before, once or twice the chapters, and homilies, to the intent they may read to the better understanding of the people, and the more encouragement to godliness.

An admonition to simple men deceived by malicious.

The queen's majesty being informed, that in certain places of the realm, sundry of her native subjects, being called to ecclesiastical ministry in the church, be by sinister persuasion, and perverse construction induced to find some scruple in the form of an oath, which by an act of the last parliament is prescribed to be required of divers persons, for the recognition of their allegiance to her majesty, which certainly never was ever meant, nor by any equity of words or good sense can be thereof gathered; would that all her loving subjects should understand, that nothing was, is, or shall be meant, or intended by the same oath to have any other duty, allegiance, or bond required by the same oath, than was acknowledged to be due to the most noble kings of famous memory, king Henry the Eighth, her majesty's father, or king Edward the Sixth, her majesty's brother.

And further her majesty forbiddeth all manner her subjects to give ear or credit to such perverse and malicious persons, which most sinisterly and maliciously labour to notify to her loving subjects, how by the words of the said oath it may be collected, that the kings or queens of this realm, possessors of the crown, may challenge authority and power of ministry of divine offices in the church; wherein her said subjects be much abused by such evil disposed persons. For certainly her majesty neither doth, nor ever will challenge any other authority, than that was challenged and lately used by the said noble kings of famous memory, king Henry the Eighth, and king Edward the Sixth, which is, and was of ancient time due to the imperial crown of this realm; that is, under God to have the sovereignty and rule over all manner persons born within these her realms, dominions and countries, of what estate, either ecclesiastical or temporal, soever they be, so as no other foreign power shall or ought to have any superiority over them. And if any person, that hath conceived any other sense of the form of the said oath, shall accept the same oath with this interpretation, sense, or meaning; her majesty is well pleased to accept every such in that behalf, as her good and obedient subjects, and shall acquit them of all manner of penalties contained in the said act against such, as shall peremptorily or obstinately refuse to take the same oath.

An admonition] Strype, Ann. vol. i. P. i. p. 236. Collier, vol. ii. p. 433. "This admonition may be reckoned in the nature of a contemporaneous exposition of a law, as restraining the royal supremacy which was established by the act 1 Eliz. c. 1. and was asserted in the oath required by it.... It was afterwards given in one of the 39 Articles, which having been confirmed by parliament, it is undoubtedly to be reckoned the true sense of the oath.... I conceive that it was intended not only to relieve the scruples of Catholics, but of those who had imbibed from the school of Calvin an apprehension of what is sometimes, though rather improperly, called Erastianism, the merging of all spiritual powers, even those of ordination and of preaching, in the paramount authority of the state; towards which the despotism of Henry, and obsequiousness of Cranmer, had seemed to bring the Church of England." Hallam, Const. Hist. vol. i. p. 120. ed. 4to. 1827.

Whereas her majesty understandeth, that in many and sundry parts of the realm the altars of the churches be removed, and tables placed for the administration of the holy sacrament,⁵ according to the form of the law therefore provided; and in some other places, the altars be not yet removed, upon opinion conceived of some other order therein to be taken by her majesty's visitors; in the other whereof, saving for an uniformity, there seemeth ⁵ no matter of great moment, so that the sacrament be duly and reverently ministered; yet for observation of one uniformity through the whole realm, and for the better imitation of the law in that behalf, it is ordered, that no altar be taken down, but by oversight of the ¹⁰ curate of the church, and the churchwardens, or one of them at the least, wherein no riotous or disordered manner to be used. And that the holy table in every church be decently made, and set in the place, where the altar stood, and there commonly covered, as thereto belongeth, ¹⁵ and as shall be appointed by the visitors, and so to stand, saving when the communion of the sacrament is to be distributed; at which time the same shall be so placed in good sort within the chancel, as whereby the minister may be more conveniently heard of the communicants ²⁰ in his prayer and ministration, and the communicants also more conveniently, and in more number communicate with the said minister. And after the communion done, from time to time the same holy table to be placed where it stood before. 25

For tables] Strype, Ann. vol. i. P. i. p. 237. "This order for the table and the bread was occasioned from the variety used in both for some time, until these injunctions came forth. For indeed in the beginning of the queen's reign the protestants were much divided in their opinion and practice about them; which was the cause of some disturbance. And the papists made their advantage of it; laying to the charge of the protestants their mutability and inconstancy. Thus did Thomas Dorman in his book called 'A Proof,'" &c. Strype, Ann. vol. i. P. i. p. 242. Comp. Collier, vol. ii. p. 433.

Item, Where also it was in the time of king Edward the Sixth used to have the sacramental bread of common fine bread; it is ordered for the more reverence to be given to these holy mysteries, being the sacraments of the body and blood of our Saviour Jesus Christ, that ³⁰ the same sacramental bread be made and formed plain, without any figure thereupon, of the same fineness and fashion round, though somewhat bigger in compass and thickness, as the usual bread and wafer, heretofore named singing cakes, which served for the use of the ³⁵ private mass.

The form of bidding the prayers to be used generally in this uniform sort.

Ye shall pray for Christ's holy catholic church, that is for the whole congregation of Christian people dispersed
 5 throughout the whole world, and specially for the church of England and Ireland. And herein I require you most specially to pray for the queen's most excellent majesty, our sovereign lady Elizabeth, queen of England, France, and Ireland, defender of the faith, and supreme 10 governor of this realm as well in causes ecclesiastical, as temporal. You shall also pray for the ministers of God's holy word and sacraments, as well archbishops and bishops, as other pastors and curates. You shall also pray for the queen's most honourable council, and 15 for all the nobility of this realm, that all and every of these in their calling, may serve truly and painfully to the glory of God, and edifying of his people, remembering the account that they must make. Also ye shall

20 The form of bidding] This differs greatly from the corresponding form of K. Edward; more especially in substituting the title "supreme governor of this realm" for "supreme head immediately under God," and in ordering "praise" instead of "prayer" for those "that are departed out of this life in the faith of Christ." It is retained and 25 repeated with very slight alterations in the Canons of 1603. The objection of queen Elizabeth to the title "supreme head" was first suggested to her by Lever, (Burnet, H. R. vol. ii. P. ii. p. 465,) and is stated by Jewel in a letter to Bullinger (dated 22d May, 1559) in the following words: "Regina non vult appellari aut scribi 'caput 30 ecclesiæ Anglicanæ.' Graviter enim respondit, illam dignitatem soli attributam esse Christo, nemini autem mortalium convenire. Deinde, illos titulos ita fœde ab Antichristo contaminatos esse, ut jam non possint amplius satis pie a quoquam usurpari." Strype, Ann. vol. i. P. ii. p. 490. The same account was given by Parkhurst in a letter to 35 Bullinger, May 21, 1559. Hess. Catal. vol. ii. p. 117. Zurich Letters, pp. 19. 17. Comp. Burnet, H. R. vol. ii. p. 772. The subject of "prayers for the dead" has been considered under (No. II.) king Edward's Injunctions.

pray for the whole commons of this realm, that they may live in true faith and fear of God, in humble obedience and brotherly charity one to another. Finally, let us praise God for all those which are departed out of this life in the faith of Christ, and pray unto God, 5 that we have grace for to direct our lives after their good example, that after this life, we with them may be made partakers of the glorious resurrection in the life everlasting.

And this done, shew the holy-days, and fasting days. 10

All and singular which injunctions the queen's majesty ministereth unto her clergy, and to all other her loving

All and singular which injunctions] The archbishop and bishops afterwards drew up "Interpretations and further Considerations" of these injunctions for the better direction of the clergy, which are preserved 15 in archbishop Parker's papers (vol. entit. Synodalia) at Cambridge, and are published by Strype, as follows :

To the third injunction the interpretation is,

"That if the person be able, he shall preach in his own person every month; or else shall preach by another, so that his absence be 20 approved by the ordinary of the diocese, in respect of sickness, service, or study at the universities. Nevertheless, for want of able preachers and parsons, to tolerate them without penalty, so they preach in their own persons, or by a learned substitute, once in every three months of the year." 25

Item, To the eighth, "That no visitors' licenses to preach be continued in force."

Item, That to the sixteenth article be added, "That at the archdeacon's visitation, the archdeacons shall appoint the curates to certain texts of the New Testament to be conned without book; and at their 30 next synod to exact a rehearsal of them."

To the nineteenth, "That in the procession [in Rogation week] they sing or say the two psalms beginning Benedic, anima mea, Domino, with the litany and suffrages thereto, with some sermon, or a homily of thanksgiving to God; and moving to temperancy in their drink- 35 ings."

To the twentieth, Item, "That on Sundays there be no shops open, nor artificers going about their affairs worldly: and that all fairs and subjects, straitly charging and commanding them to observe and keep the same upon pain of deprivation, sequestration of fruits and benefits, suspension, excom-common marts falling upon the Sunday, there be no shewing of any wares before the service be done."

Item, "That there be some long^a Catechism devised and printed, for the erudition of simple curates: homilies to be made of those arguments which be shewed in the book of homilies; or others of some convenient arguments, as of the sacrifice of the mass, of the common prayer to be in English, that every particular church may alter and change the public rites and ceremonies of their church, keeping the substance of the faith inviolably, with such like. And that these be divided to be made by the bishops; every bishop two, and the bishop of London to have four."

Item, "That all bishops and others, having any living ecclesiastical, shall go in apparel agreeable; or else, within two monitions given by the ordinary, to be deposed or sequestered from his fruits, according to the discretion of his said ordinary, or his lawful deputy."

Item, "That such as be for their wilfulness deprived in this necessity of ministers, shall be called by the discretion of the ordinary to minister some cure upon reasonable wages; else to be ordered according to the laws."

Item, "That incorrigible Arians, Pelagians, or Free-will-men, be sent into some one castle in North Wales, or Wallingford; and there to live of their own labour and exercise: and none other be suffered to resort unto them but their keepers, until they be found to repent their errors."

Item, "That public teachers of grammar be neither officers in cities or towns; or farmers, or otherwise encumbered worldly, to the let of their labours."

Concerning the book of service.

First, "That there be used only but one apparel; as the cope in the ministration of the Lord's supper, and the surplice in all other ministrations: and that there be no other manner and form of ministering the sacraments, but as the service book doth precisely prescribe, with the declaration of the Injunctions; as for example, the common bread."

Item, "That the table be removed out of the choir into the body of the church, before the chancel door; where either the choir seemeth to be too little, or at great feasts of receivings. And at the end of the communion to be set up again, according to the Injunctions."

Item, "That there be no other holy-days observed besides the Sundays, but only such as be set out bin the act of king Edward, an. 5 et 6, cap. 3."

Item, "That the ministers receiving the communion at the hands of the executor be placed kneeling next to the table."

Item, "That the communion bread be thicker and broader than it is now commonly used." 20

Item, "That private baptism in necessity, as in peril of death, be ministered either by the curate, deacon, or reader, or some other grave and sober man, if the time will suffer.

Item, "That children be not admitted to the communion before the age of twelve or thirteen years, of good discretion, and well instructed before." 25

Concerning burials, christenings, admission of ministers, &c.

Item, "That when any Christen body is passing, the bell be tolled; and the curate be especially called for, to comfort the sick person. And after the time of his passing, to ring no more but one short peal; and one before the burial, and another short peal after the burial." 30

Item, "To avoid contention, let the curate have the value of the chrisom; not under the value of four-pence, and above as they can agree, and as the state of the parents may require."

Item, "That ministers being not learned in the Latin tongue, if they be well exercised in the scriptures, and well testified of for their lives 35

And of such as be skilled in the Latin tongue, to have good examination of their competent knowledge in the principal articles of the faith, and of some competent matter to comfort the sick and weak in conscience, [ere they be admitted to higher orders.]

Item, "Against the day of ordering appointed, to give open recognitions to all men, to except against such whom they know to be not worthy, either for life or conversation. And there to give notice, that none shall sue for orders but within their own diocese, where they were born, or had there long time of dwelling; and that by the testimony of their ordinaries; except of such as be degraded in the universities."

Item, "That canonical impediments be still observed to respect them which sue to be ordered, except they have decency agreeable to the same."

Item, "That ministers or readers of service remove not from the diocese or cure where they first began, and were admitted by the ordinary; except they bring letters testimonial of their removing, allowed by the ordinary."

Item, "Suit to be made to the queen's majesty for reformation of pensions imposed."

Item, "That the order of the articles prescribed to ministers be inserted in this form, ut infra."

Item, "That one brief form of declaration be made, setting out the principal articles of our religion; the rather, for the unity of doctrine in the whole realm: especially to be spoken by the parsons, curates, or both, at their first entry; and after, twice in the year, for avoiding all doubt and suspicion of varying from the doctrine determined in the realm."

Item, "That the bishops do call home once in the year any prebendary in their church which studieth in the universities, to know how he profiteth in learning; and that he be not suffered to be a serving or waiting-man dissolutely; or else to sequester the fruits of his living."

ELIZABETHA, Dei gratia Angliæ, Franciæ, et Hi-bernici regina, fidei defensor, &c. charissimis consan-

Commissio regia] " This was the first high commission that was given out; that for the province of Canterbury was without doubt of the same nature. The prudence of reserving pensions for such priests as were turned out, was much applauded; since thereby they were kept from extreme want, which might have set them on to do mischief; and by the pension which was granted them upon their good behaviour, they were kept under some awe, which would not have been otherwise. That which was chiefly condemned in these commissions was the queen's giving the visitors authority to proceed by ecclesiastical censures, which seemed a great stretch of her supremacy: but it was thought that the queen might do that, as well as the lay-chancellors did it in the ecclesiastical courts; so that one abuse was the excuse for another. These visitors having made report to the queen of the obedience given to the laws and her injunctions, it was found that of guineis et consiliariis nostris, Francisco comiti Salop. domino præsidenti concilii nostri in partibus borealibus, et Edwardo comiti de Darbia, ac charissimo consanguineo nostro Thomæ comiti Northumb. domino guardiano sive custodi marchiarum nostrarum de "Le East March," et 5

9400 beneficed men in England there were no more but fourteen bishops, six abbots, twelve deans, twelve archdeacons, fifteen heads of 10 colleges, fifty prebendaries, and eighty rectors of parishes that had left their benefices upon the account of religion." Burnet, H. R. vol. ii. p. 801. (Comp. Strype, Ann. vol. i. P. i. pp. 245-247. Collier, vol. ii. p. 435.) Such is the description given by bishop Burnet. But it is evident that this commission only concerned the "visitation of the ecclesiastical 15 state and persons," and did not extend to the reformation of all manner of heresies and offences. And so sir Edward Coke describes it in his Institutes (4 Inst. p. 326), and adds, "This first commission is said to be lost; and enrolled it is not, as it ought to have been. And it is affirmed by some that have seen it, that it passed not above twenty 20 sheets of paper; but now the high commission contains above 300 sheets of paper. And it is likewise affirmed that never any high commission was enrolled (as they all ought to have been) until my lord chancellor Egerton's time (1596), so as no man before that time could know what their jurisdiction was." Similar also is the account given 25 by Stowe, who represents the commission as consisting of certain members of the Queen's privy council, empowered to deprive bishops and other ecclesiastics for refusing to take the oath of supremacy. Stowe, Hist. p. 639. Comp. Stillington, Works, vol. iii. p. 766.

Sandys, who was placed on this commission, gives the following 30 account of his labours, in a letter dated April 1, 1560, and addressed to Peter Martyr, "Sub Augusti initium cum literas ad te dedissem, in partes Angliæ boreales ad abusus ecclesiæ tollendos et ritus pietati et veræ religioni consonantes eidem restituendos, tanquam inspector et visitator, ut vocant, cum principis mandato dimissus, et illic ad No- 35 vembrius usque initium assidue in obeundo quod mihi creditum erat munere, non sine maximis cum corporis tum animi laboribus versatus, Londinum tandem redii." Zurich Letters, p. 42. See a similar account from Jewel of the commission sent into the western parts of England, Zur. Lett. pp. 22, 25.

The queen's warrant for the court of high commission in causes ecclesiastical. (Tanner MSS. vol. 1. p. 5.)

15 I. ELIZABETH by the grace of God, &c. To the reverend father in God Matthew Parker, nominated bishop of Canterbury, and Edmund Grindall, nomi-

The queen's warrant] This is the first warrant issued for the establishment of a general and permanent court of high commission in causes ecclesiastical. On a comparison with other warrants issued afterwards, as new powers or a change of commissioners were wanted, (see Rymer, Fœd. vol. xvi. pp. 291. 489. Strype, Grind. App. p. 543.) it will appear that it was found necessary in after-times to give the court the express power of interrogating the accused party on oath, a power which was exercised in the first instance under the general clause of inquiring "by all ways and means they could devise," and which became at last one of the principal reasons for the total suppression of the whole jurisdiction. "Whoever will compare the powers," says Dr. Lingard, "given to this tribunal with those of the inquisition, which Philip the Second endeavoured to establish in the nated bishop of London, and to our right trusted and right well-beloved councellers Francis Knowles our vice-chamberlain and Ambrose Cave, knights, and to our trusty and well-beloved Anthony Cook, and Thomas Smith, knights, Wm. Bill our almoner, Walter Haddon⁵ and Thomas Sackford, masters of our requests, Rowland Hill, and Wm. Chester, knights, Randol Cholmely, and John Southcote, sergeants at the law, Wm. May, doctor of law, Francis Cave, Richard Goodrick and Gilbert Gerrard, esqrs, Robert Weston and . . . Huck, doctors¹⁰ of law, greeting.

II. Where at our parliament holden at Westminster the 25th day of January and there continued, and kept until the . . . of May then next following (amongst other things) there was two acts and statutes made and esta-¹⁵ blished, the one entitled, "An act for the uniformity of common prayer, and service in the church and administration of the sacraments," and the other entitled, "An act restoring to the crown the ancient jurisdiction of the state ecclesiastical and spiritual, and abolishing all²⁰ foreign power repugnant to the same, as by the same several acts more at large doth appear:" and whereas diverse seditious and slanderous persons do not cease

Low Countries, will find that the chief difference between the two courts consisted in their names." Hist. of Engl. vol. v. p. 316. But Dr. Lin-²⁵ gard ought to have added, that though such commissions were not unknown in the time of Edward VI. the person who first brought into England the model attempted in the Low Countries was queen Mary, as may be seen from her general commission dated Feb. 8, 1556, (Burnet, H. R. vol. ii. P. ii. p. 435.) and her special commission dated³⁰ Feb. 16, 1556, (Wilkins, Concil. vol. iv. p. 140,) from which the warrant of queen Elizabeth is in great measure copied; and that the same system was continued in the reign of Elizabeth, not because it was congenial with the spirit of protestantism, but because the temper of the times had been trained and hardened in the school of popery.³⁵ Comp. Neal, Purit. vol. i. p. 89. Burnet, H. R. vol. ii. p. 772. Collier, vol. ii. p. 420.

daily to invent and set forth false rumours, tales, and seditious slanders, not only against us and the said good laws and statutes, but also have set forth diverse seditious books within this our realm of England, meaning thereby to move and procure strife, division, and dissention, amongst our loving and obedient subjects, much to the disquieting of us and our people.

III. Wherefore we, earnestly minding to have the same acts beforementioned to be duly put in execution, and such persons as shall hereafter offend in any thing contrary to the tenor and effect of the said several statutes, to be condignly punished; and having especial trust and confidence in your wisdoms and discretions, have authorized, assigned, and appointed you to be our commissioners, and by these presents do give our full power and authority to you, or six of you, whereof you the said Mathew Parker, Edmund Grindall, Thomas Smith, Walter Haddon, Thomas Sackford, Richard Goodrick and Gilbert Gerrard, to be one, from time to time hereafter, during our pleasure, to inquire as well by the oaths of twelve good and lawful men, as also by witnesses and other ways and means ye can devise, for all offences, misdoers and misdemeanours, done and committed, and hereafter to be committed or done contrary to the tenour of the said several acts and statutes, and either of them; and also of all and singular heretical opinions, seditious books, contempts, conspiracies, false rumours, tales, seditious misbehaviours, slanderous words, or shewings, published, invented or set forth by any person or persons, against us, or contrary, or against any the laws or statutes of this our realm, or against the quiet government and rule of our people and subjects, in any county, city, borough, or other place or places, within this our realm of England, and of all and every the coadjutors, counsellors, comforters, procurers and abettors of every such offender.

IV. And further, we do give power and authority to you, or six of you, whereof the said Mathew Parker, Edmund Grindall, Thomas Smith, Walter Haddon, Thomas Sackford, Richard Goodrick, or Gilbert Gerrard, to be one, from time to time hereafter, during our pleasure, as well to hear and determine all the premises, as also to inquire, hear, and determine all and singular enormities, disturbances and misbehaviour, done and committed, or hereafter to be done and committed, in any church or chapel, or against any divine service, or the minister or ministers of the same, contrary to the law and statutes of this realm: and also to inquire of, search out, and to order, correct and reform all such persons, as hereafter shall or will obstinately absent themselves from church, and such divine service, as by the laws and statutes of this realm is appointed to be had and used.

V. And also we do give and grant full power and authority unto you, and six of you, whereof you the said Mathew Parker, Edmund Grindall, Thomas Smith, Walter Haddon, Thomas Sackford, Richard Goodrick, or Gilbert Gerrard to be one, from time to time, and at all times during our pleasure, to visit, reform, redress, order, correct and amend, in all places within this our realm of England, all such errors, heresies, crimes, abuses, offences, contempts and enormities, spiritual and ecclesiastical wheresoever, which by any spiritual or ecclesiastical power, authority, or jurisdiction, can or may lawfully be reformed, ordered, redressed, corrected, restrained, or amended, to the pleasure of Almighty God, the increase of virtue, and the conservation of the peace and unity of this our realm, and according to the authority and power limited, given and appointed by any laws or statutes of this realm.

VI. And also, that you, and six of you, whereof the said Mathew Parker, Edmund Grindall, Thomas Smith, Walter Haddon, Thomas Sackford, Richard Goodrick, or

Gilbert Gerrard to be one, shall likewise have full power and authority, from time to time to inquire and search out men quarrellers, vagrant, and suspect persons within our city of London, and ten miles compass about the same city, and of all assaults and affrays done and committed within the same city and compass aforesaid.

VII. And also we give full power and authority unto you, and six of you, as before, summarily to hear and finally to determine, according to your discretions, and by the laws of this realm, all causes and complaints of all them, which in respect of religion, or for lawful matrimony contracted and allowed by the same, were injuriously deprived, defrauded, or spoiled of their lands, goods, possessions, rights, dignities, livings, offices, spiritual or temporal; and them so deprived, as before, to restore into their said livings, and to put them in possession, amoving the usurpers in convenient speed, as it shall seem to your discretions good, by your letters missive, or otherwise; all frustratory appellations clearly rejected.

VIII. And further, we do give unto you, and six of you, whereof you the said Mathew Parker, Edmund Grindall, Thomas Smith, Walter Haddon, Thomas Sackford, Richard Goodrick, or Gilbert Gerrard to be one, by virtue hereof full power and authority, not only to hear and determine the same and all other offences, and matters beforementioned and rehearsed, but also all other notorious, and manifest advoutries, fornications, and ecclesiastical crimes and offences, within this our realm, according to your wisdoms, consciences, and discretions; willing and commanding you, or six of you, whereof you the said Mathew Parker, Edmund Grindall, Thomas Smith, Walter Haddon, Thomas Sackford, Richard Goodrick, or Gilbert Gerrard to be one, from time to time, hereafter to use, and devise all such politic ways and means for the trial and searching out of all the premises, as by you or six of you, as aforesaid, shall be thought most expedient and necessary.

IX. And upon due proof had, and the offence, or offences before specified, or any of them, sufficiently proved against any person or persons, as by you or six of you, by confession of the party, or by lawful witnesses, or by any due mean, before you or six of you, whereof the said Mathew Parker, Edmund Grindall, Thomas Smith, Walter Haddon, Thomas Sackford, Richard Goodrick, or Gilbert Gerrard, to be one, that then you, or six of you, as aforesaid, shall have full power and authority to award such punishment to every offender by fine, imprisonment, or otherwise, by all or any of the ways aforesaid, and to take such order for the redress of the same, as to your wisdoms and discretions, or six of you, whereof the said Mathew Parker, Edmund Grindall, Thomas Smith, Walter Haddon, Thomas Sackford, Richard Goodrick, or Gilbert Gerrard to be one, to call before you, or six of you, as aforesaid, from time to time, all and every offender or offenders, and such as by you, or six of you, as aforesaid, shall seem to be suspect persons in any of the premises; and also all such witnesses, as you, or six of you, as aforesaid, shall think to be called before you, or six of you, as aforesaid; and them and every of them to examine upon their corporal oath, for the better trial and opening of the premises, or any part thereof.

X. And if you, or six of you, as aforesaid, shall find any person or persons, obstinate or disobedient, either in their appearance before you, or six of you, as aforesaid, at your calling and commandment, or else not accomplishing, or not obeying your order, decrees, and commandments in any thing touching the premises, or any part thereof; that then you, or six of you, as aforesaid, shall have full power and authority to commit the same person or persons so offending to ward; there to remain until he or they shall be by you, or six of you, as aforesaid, enlarged and delivered.

XI. And further we do give unto you, and six of you, whereof the said Mathew Parker, Edmund Grindall, Thomas Smith, Walter Haddon, Thomas Sackford, Richard Goodrick, or Gilbert Gerrard, to be one, full power and authority by these presents, to take and receive by your discretions of every offender or suspect person, to be convented or brought before you, a recognizance, or recognizances, obligation or obligations to our use, in such sum or sums of money, as to you, or six of you, as aforesaid, shall seem convenient, as well for their personal appearance before you, or six of you, as aforesaid, as also for the performance and accomplishment of your orders and decrees, in case you, or six of you, as aforesaid, shall see it so convenient.

XII. And further, our will and pleasure is, that you shall appoint our trusty and well-beloved John Skinner to be your register of all your acts, decrees and proceedings, by virtue of this commission, and in his default, one other sufficient person, and that you, or six of you, as aforesaid, shall give such allowance to the said register for his pains, and his clerks, to be levied of the fines and other profits, that shall rise by force of this commission and your doings in the premises, as to your discretions shall be thought meet.

XIII. And further, our will and pleasure is, that you, or six of you, as aforesaid, shall name and appoint one other sufficient person to gather up and receive all such sums of money as shall be assessed and taxed by you, or six of you, as aforesaid, for any fine or fines, upon any person or persons, for their offences: and that you, or six of you, as aforesaid, by bill or bills signed with your hands, shall and may assign, and appoint as well to the said person for his pains in recovering the said sums, as also to your messengers and attendants upon you for their travail, pains, and charges to be sustained for, or about the premises, or any part thereof, such sums of money for their rewards, as by you, or six of you, as aforesaid, shall be thought expedient: willing and commanding you, or six of you, as aforesaid, after the time of this our commission expired, to certify into our court of exchequer as well the name of the said receiver, as also a note of such fines as shall be set or taxed before you; to the intent, that upon the determination of account of the said receiver, we be answered of that, that to us shall justly appertain: willing and commanding also our auditors and other officers, upon the sight of the said bills, signed with the hand of you, or six of you, as aforesaid, to make unto the said receiver due allowances according to the said bills upon his accounts.

XIV. Wherefore we will and command you our commissioners, with diligence to execute the premises with effect; any of our laws, statutes, proclamations, or other grants, privileges, or ordinances, which be, or may seem to be, contrary to the premises notwithstanding.

XV. And more we will and command all and singular justices of the peace, mayors, sheriffs, bailiffs, constables, and other our officers, ministers, and faithful subjects, to be aiding, helping, and assisting, and at your commandment in the due execution hereof, as they tender our pleasure, and answer to the contrary at their utmost perils.

XVI. And we will and grant, that this our letters patents shall be a sufficient warrant and discharge for you, and every of you against us, our heirs, and successors, and all and every other person or persons, whatsoever they be, of and for, or concerning the premises, or any parcel thereof, or for the execution of this our commission, or any part thereof. Witness the queen at Westminster, the 19th day of July, in the first year of her reign over England; &c.

A declaration of certain principal articles of religion set out by the order of both archbishops metropolitans, and the rest of the bishops for the uniformity of doctrine, to be taught and holden of all parsons, vicars and curates, as well in testification of their common consent in the said doctrine to the stopping of the mouths of them, that go about to slander the ministers of the church for diversity of judgment, as necessary for the instruction of their people; to be read by the said parsons, vicars, and curates at their possession-taking, or first entry into their cures, and also after that, yearly at two several times, that is to say, the Sunday next following Easter day, and St. Michael the archangel, or on some other Sunday within one month after those feasts, immediately after the gospel.

A declaration] Put forth by archbishop Parker after his election, with the concurrence of other bishops, and intended to be used, until articles of faith could be drawn up and enjoined by convocation. Strype, Ann.

It appears however that this Declaration continued to be used as authoritative after the year 1564 (when the Advertisements were issued), although the convocation had published its thirty-nine articles of religion two years previously; for bp. Cox (of Ely) in some articles printed by R.

tors of the church, being teachers and instructors of others, to be ready to give a reason of their faith, when they shall be thereunto required; I, for my part, now appointed your parson, vicar, or curate, having before my eyes the fear of God, and the testimony of my conscience, do acknowledge for myself, and require you to assent to the same;

First, That there is but one living and true God, of infinite power, wisdom, and goodness, the Maker and Preserver of all things; and that in unity of this God-head there be three Persons, of one substance, of equal power and eternity, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost.

II. I believe also, whatsoever is contained in the holy canonical scriptures, in the which scriptures are contained all things necessary to salvation, by the which also all errors and heresies may sufficiently be reprov'd and convicted, and all doctrine and articles necessary to salvation established. I do also most firmly believe and confess all the articles contained in the three Creeds, the Nicene Creed, Athanasius' Creed, and our common Creed called the Apostles' Creed; for these do briefly contain the principal articles of our faith, which are at large set forth in the holy scriptures.

III. I do acknowledge also that church to be the spouse of Christ, wherein the word of God is truly taught, the sacraments orderly ministered according to Christ's institution, and the authority of the keys duly used; and that every such particular church hath authority to institute, to change, clean to put away ceremonies, and other ecclesiastical rites, as they be superfluous, or be abused, and to constitute other making more to seemliness, to order, or edification.

IV. Moreover I confess, that it is not lawful for any man to take upon him any office or ministry, either ecclesiastical or secular, but such only as are lawfully thereunto called by their high authorities, according to the ordinances of this realm.

V. Furthermore I do acknowledge the queen's majesty's prerogative and superiority of government of all estates, and in all causes, as well ecclesiastical as temporal, within this realm, and other her dominions and countries, to be agreeable to God's word, and of right to appertain to her highness, in such sort, as is in the late act of parliament expressed, and sithence by her majesty's injunctions declared and expounded.

VI. Moreover, touching the bishop of Rome, I do acknowledge and confess, that by the scriptures and word of God he hath no more authority than other bishops have in their provinces and dioceses; and therefore the power, which he now challengeth, that is, to be the supreme head of the universal church of Christ, and to be above all emperors, kings, and princes, is an usurped power, contrary to the scriptures and word of God, and contrary to the example of the primitive church, and therefore is for most just causes taken away and abolished in this realm.

VII. Furthermore I do grant and confess, that the book of common prayer and administration of the holy sacraments, set forth by the authority of parliament, is agreeable to the scriptures, and that it is catholic, apostolic, and most for the advancing of God's glory, and the edifying of God's people, both for that it is in a tongue, that may be understood of the people, and also for the doctrine and form of ministration contained in the same.

VIII. And although in the administration of baptism there is neither exorcism, oil, salt, spittle, or hallowing of the water now used, and for that they were of late years abused and esteemed necessary, where they pertain not to the substance and necessity of the sacrament, that they be reasonably abolished, and yet the sacrament full and perfectly ministered to all intents and purposes, agreeable to the institution of our Saviour Christ.

IX. Moreover, I do not only acknowledge, that private masses were never used amongst the fathers of the primitive church, I mean, public ministration and receiving of the sacrament by the priest alone, without a just number of communicants, according to Christ's saying, "Take ye and eat ye," etc. but also, that the doctrine, that maintaineth the mass to be a propitiatory sacrifice for the quick and dead, and a mean to deliver souls out of purgatory, is neither agreeable to Christ's ordinance, nor grounded upon doctrine apostolic, but contrarywise most ungodly and most injurious to the precious redemption of our Saviour Christ, and his only sufficient sacrifice offered once for ever upon the altar of the cross.

X. I am of that mind also, that the holy communion or sacrament of the body and blood of Christ, for the due obedience to Christ's institution, and to express the virtue of the same, ought to be ministered unto the people under both kinds; and that it is avouched by certain fathers of the church to be a plain sacrilege, to rob them of the mystical cup, for whom Christ hath shed his most precious blood, seeing he himself hath said, "Drink ye all of this:" considering also, that in the time of the ancient doctors of the church, as Cyprian, Hierom, Augustine, Gelasius, and others six hundred years after Christ and more, both the parts of the sacrament were ministered to the people.

Last of all, as I do utterly disallow the extolling of images, relics, and feigned miracles, and also all kind of expressing God invisible in the form of an old man, or the Holy Ghost in the form of a dove, and all other vain worshipping of God, devised by man's fantasies, besides or contrary to the scriptures, as wandering on pilgrimages, setting up of candles, praying upon beads, and such like superstition; which kind of works have no promise of reward in scripture, but contrarywise threatenings and maledictions; so I do exhort all men to the obedience of God's law, and to the works of faith, as charity, mercy, pity, alms, devout and frequent prayer with the affection of the heart, and not with the mouth only, godly abstinence and fasting, charity, obedience to the rulers, and superior powers, with such like works and godliness of life commanded by God in his word, which, as St. Paul saith, "Hath promises both of this life and of the life to come," and are works only acceptable in God's sight.

These things above rehearsed, though they be appointed by common order, yet I do without all compulsion, with freedom of mind, and conscience, from the bottom of my heart, and upon most sure persuasion, acknowledge to be true and agreeable to God's word; and therefore I exhort you all, of whom I have cure, heartily and obediently to embrace and receive the same, that we all joining together in unity of spirit, faith and charity, may also at length be joined together in the kingdom of God, and that through the merits and death of our Saviour Jesus Christ, to whom with the Father, and the Holy Ghost, be all glory and empire now and for ever. Amen.

An address made by some bishops and divines to queen Elizabeth against the use of images. Strype's Ann. Ref. vol. i. fol. 221, 222.

To the queen's most excellent majesty.

WE knowing your gracious clemency, and considering the necessity of the matter, that we have to move,

An address made] This address is supposed by bishop Burnet to have been presented to the queen before she issued her injunctions, and to have contributed to the right sentiments expressed in them respecting 5 images. Strype, however, and others consider it to be of later date. (Parker, vol. i. p. 193. Collier, vol. ii. p. 465.) But she was known still to be favourable to the use of crosses and crucifixes, and they continued to be exhibited not merely in her own chapel, but also in many of the churches. Bishop Cox, in writing to P. Martyr in August 1559, 10 says, "crucis crucifixique imaginem in templis tolerare cogimur, cum magno animorum nostrorum cruciatu." (Hess, Cat. vol. ii. p. 122. Zurich Letters, p. 38.) Sampson to the same in the following January, asks, "si princeps ita injungat omnibus episcopis et pastoribus ut vel admittant in suas ecclesias imaginem cum candelis, vel ministerio verbi 15 cedant, quid hic faciendum sit?" (Hess, Cat. vol. ii. p. 131. Zur. Lett. p. 36. Burnet, H. R. vol. iii. P. ii. p. 397.) And bishop Jewel in February 1560, says to the same, "Nunc ardet lis illa crucularia....Eo enim jam res pervenit ut aut cruces argentæ et stannæ, quas nos ubique confregimus, restituendæ sint, aut episcopatus relinquendi." 20 (Hess, Cat. vol. ii. p. 133. Zur. Lett. p. 39. Burnet, H. R. vol. iii. P. iii. p. 390.) It appears from the same letter that a disputation was to be held on the subject, and that Parker and Cox had undertaken to defend the use of crosses against Grindal and Jewel, who were most earnest in opposing them. That Cox's sentiments had so far undergone a change, 25 is evident from the letter written by him in the month of March to Cassander, and from the answer that Cassander gave, clearly signifying his approbation of the practice. (Hess, Cat. vol. ii. p. 135. Cassandri

the one doth encourage us, the other compel us (as before) to make our humble petition unto your highness, and to renew our former suit, not in any respect of self-will, stoutness, or striving against your majesty, (God we take to witness,) for with David we confess, that we are but as "canes mortui aut pulices" in comparison, but we do it only for that fear and reverence, which we bear to the majesty of Almighty God, in whose hands to fall it is terrible; for it lieth in his power to destroy for ever, and to cast both body and soul into hell fire; and lest in giving such offence to the little ones, in setting a trap of errors for the ignorant, and digging a pit for the blind to fall into, we should not only be guilty of the blood of our brethren, and deserve the wrathful "Væ" and vengeance of God, but also procure to our reclaiming consciences the biting worm that never dieth for our endless confusion. For in what thing soever we may serve your excellent majesty, not offending the divine majesty of God, we shall with all humble obedience be most ready thereunto, if it be even to the loss of our life, for so God commandeth of us, duly requireth of us, and we with all conformity have put in proof; and as God through your gracious government hath delivered unto us innumerable Opera, p. 1110.) The question however was soon afterwards set at rest by the complete removal of crosses: as appears from a letter written by bishop Sandys to P. Martyr on the first of April 1560. The only popish practice which the bishop had then to complain of, was the use of the cope; but it appears that the queen was still prepossessed in favour of the ancient ornaments; for in April 1563 bishop Parkhurst writes to Bullinger in the following manner: "Scripsi ad te crucem cereos candelabra e reginæ capella abducta: sed paullo post sunt reducta magno piorum mærore. Cerei antea quotidie incendebantur, nunc minime." Zurich Letters, p. 77. Hess, Cat. vol. ii. p. 137. Burnet, H. R. vol. iii. P. ii. p. 393. Comp. another letter from Cox to the queen in Strype, Ann. vol. i. P. ii. p. 500. Ann. vol. i. P. i. p. 260. Parker, vol. i. p. 92. Burnet, H. R. vol. ii. p. 794. Hallam, Const. benefits, (which we most humbly acknowledge, and with due reverence daily give him thanks,) so we do not doubt but that of his mercy he will happily finish in your majesty that good work, which of his free favour he hath most graciously begun; that following the examples of 5 the godly princes, which have gone before, you may clearly purge the polluted church, and remove all occasions of evil. And forsomuch as we have heretofore at sundry times made petition to your majesty, concerning the matter of images, but at no time exhibited any rea- 10 sons for the removing of the same; now lest we should seem to say much and prove little, to allege consciences without the warrant of God, and unreasonably require that, for the which we can give no reason, we have at this time put in writing, and do most humbly exhibit to 15 your gracious consideration those authorities of the scriptures, reasons, and pithy persuasions, which as they have moved all such our brethren, as now bear the office of bishops, to think and affirm images not expedient for the church of Christ, so will they not suffer us, without the 20 great offending of God, and grievous wounding of our own consciences (which God deliver us from) to consent to the erecting or retaining of the same in the place of worshipping; and we trust and most earnestly ask it of God, that they may also persuade your majesty, by your regal au- 25 thority, and in the zeal of God, utterly to remove this offensive evil out of the church of England, to God's great glory, and our great comfort.

The substance of their reasons is; that the second commandment forbids the making of any images, as a resemblance of God. And Deut. xxvii. there was a 30 curse pronounced on those, "who made an image, an abomination to the Lord, and put it in a secret place:" which they expounded of some sacraria, in private houses. And Deut. iv. among the cautions Moses gives to the people of Israel to beware of idolatry, this is one: "That 35

they do not make an image:" for the use of these do naturally degenerate into idolatry. The Jews were so sensible of this after the captivity, that they would die rather than suffer an image to be put in their temple. The book of Wisdom calls an image, "A snare for the feet of the ignorant." St. John charged those he writ to, "To beware of idols:" so Tertullian said: "It was not enough to beware of idolatry towards them, but of the very images themselves." And as Moses had charged the people not to lay a stumblingblock in the way of the blind, so it was a much greater sin to leave such a trap for the weak multitude. This was not for edification; since it fed the superstition of the weak and ignorant, who would continue in their former dotage upon them, and would alienate others from the public worship; so that between those, that would separate from them, if they were continued, and the multitude, that would abuse them, the number of those that would use them aright would be very inconsiderable. The outward splendour of them would be apt to draw the minds of the worshippers, if not to direct idolatry, yet to staring, and distraction of thoughts. Both Origen and Arnobius tell us, that the primitive Christians had no images at all. Irenæus accused the Gnostics for carrying about the image of Christ. St. Austin commends Varro for saying, that the old Romans worshipped God more chastely, without the use of any images. Epiphanius tore a veil with an image on it, and Serenus broke images in Gregory the Great's time. Valens and Theodosius made a law against the painting or graving of the image of Christ: and the use of images in the Eastern churches brought those distractions on that empire, that laid it open to the invasions of the Mahometans.

Having thus declared to your highness a few causes of many, which do move our consciences in this matter, we beseech your highness most humbly, not to strain us any further; but to consider, that God's word doth threaten a terrible judgment unto us, if we, being pastors, and ministers in his church, should assent unto the thing, which in our learning and conscience we are persuaded doth tend to the confirmation of errors, superstition, and idolatry, and finally, to the ruins of the souls committed to our charge, for the which we must give an account to the prince of pastors at the last day. We pray your majesty also not to be offended with this our plainness, and liberty, which all good and Christian princes have ever taken in good part at the hands of godly bishops.

St. Ambrose, writing to Theodosius the emperor, useth these words: "Sed neque imperiale est libertatem dicendi negare, neque sacerdotale, quod sentiant, non dicere."

And again: "In causa vero Dei, quem audies, si sacerdotem non audies, cujus majori peccatur periculo, quis tibi verum audebit dicere, si sacerdos non audeat?"

These, and such like speeches of St. Ambrose, Theodosius and Valentinianus the emperors did take in good part; and we doubt not, but your grace will do the like, of whose not only clemency, but also beneficence we have largely tasted.

We beseech your majesty also in these, and such like controversies of religion, to refer the discussment, and deciding of them to a synod of the bishops, and other godly learned men, according to the example of Constantinus Magnus, and other Christian emperors; that the reasons of both parties being examined by them, the judgment may be given uprightly in all doubtful matters.

And to return to this present matter, we most humbly beseech your majesty to consider, that besides weighty causes in policy, which we leave to the wisdom of the honourable councillors, the establishing of images by your authority, shall not only utterly discredit our ministries, as builders of the thing, which we have destroyed; but also blemish the fame of your most godly brother, and such notable fathers, as have given their lives for the testimony of God's truth, who by public law removed all images.

The almighty and everlasting God plentifully endue your majesty with his Spirit, and heavenly wisdom, and long preserve your most gracious reign, and prosperous government over us, to the advancement of his glory, to the overthrow of superstition, and to the benefit and comfort of all your highness's loving subjects. Amen.

A commission from the queen to my lord treasurer, sir Richard Sackvile, sir Walter Mildmay, and Mr. Kelleway, September 13, concerning the exchange of impropriate tithes for bishops' lands.

RIGHT trusty and right well beloved cousin, and trusty and well beloved, we greet you well. And

A commission] "The queen now (chiefly to gratify some of her courtiers) made exchanges with her bishops, by the authority of a late act of parliament; taking to herself their ancient good manors and lordships, and making over to them in exchange tithes and impropriations. A matter those first bishops took very heavily; and scrupled very much whether they could or should comply in a thing so much to the injury of the revenue of their respective sees, which must suffer considerably by these exchanges; and whereby all hope should be cut off of restoring the tithes, so long unjustly detained from the respective churches, for the maintenance of the incumbents." Strype, Grindal, p. 42, where is also an account of the correspondence between Grindal and P. Martyr on the subject. Comp. Parker, vol. i. p. 88. Collier, vol. ii. p. 437.

whereas by one act passed in our late parliament, it was, among other things, granted unto us, that upon the vacation of every archbishopric or bishopric within this our realm of England, it should be lawful for us to take into our hands and possessions as much and so many of any the honours, castles, manors, lands, and tenements, and other hereditaments, being parcel of the possessions of any such archbishopric or bishopric, so being void, as the clear yearly value of all our parsonages impropriate, and yearly tenths within every such archbishopric or bishopric should yearly amount unto: and for the trial of the very value of such honours, castles, manors, lands, tenements, and hereditaments, it should be lawful for us to appoint commissioners to survey the same from time to time; and thereupon to certify the very clear yearly value thereof, over all charges, into our court of exchequer, by such time as shall be to the said commissioners appointed, with such further matter, as in the said act thereof made, more fully is contained: forasmuch as we have sithence, according to the said act, addressed forth sundry our commissions for the survey of the lands, tenements, and other hereditaments of certain archbishoprics and bishoprics presently vacant, the certificates of which commissions be in part already returned unto our said court of exchequer, and the rest looked for daily; we let you wete, that for the proceeding to the end in the said matters, according to the meaning of the said act, knowing your approved wisdoms, diligences, and dexterities in such causes, we have, and by these presents do authorize you four, three, or two of you, to consider diligently as well the certificates of such lands of archbishoprics or bishoprics, as be already returned, as also such other certificates of the like lands, as shall hereafter be returned, and certified unto our said court of exchequer; and further likewise to consider, what parcels of the said lands, tenements, and hereditaments shall be meetest for us to take into our hands and possession, and what impropriations or yearly tenths we shall, in recompense of the said lands, depart withal again, with such further matter in and about the premises, as your wisdoms shall think meet for our knowledge; willing and requiring you, after the deliberation and advised consideration of the premises, to certify unto us your opinion in writing, what you think most meet for us to do in the cases aforesaid, to the intent we may resolve our determinate pleasure, touching the same, as shall be then thought good by us. And hereof fail you not, as we specially trust you: and these our letters shall be your sufficient warrant, and discharge in this behalf. Yeven, etc.

ELIZABETHA, Dei gratia, etc. reverendis in Christo patribus Anthonio, Landaven. episcopo, Will. Barlow, quondam Bath. et Well. episcopo, nunc Cicestrensi electo, Johanni Scory, quondam Cicestrensi episcopo, Breve regium] This is the second of the two warrants issued in this matter, and the one which was actually employed for the consecration of archbishop Parker. "The first took not place, whatever the reason was: whether it were that some of the bishops (named therein), being papists, refused to act in this business; or because of the omission of a clause, viz. 'vos aut ad minus quatuor vestrum,' as it ran in the queen's second letters patent, which were executed and bore date at Westminster, the 6th day of December." Strype, Parker, vol. i. p. 107. Quatenus vos, aut ad minus quatuor vestrum eundem Matthæum Parkerum in archiepiscopum, et pastorem 5 ecclesiæ cathedralis, et metropoliticæ Christi Cant. prædictæ, sicut præfertur, electum, electionemque prædictam confirmare, et eundem magistrum Matthæum Parkerum in archiepiscopum, et pastorem ecclesiæ prædictæ consecrare, cæteraque omnia et singula peragere, quæ vestro 10 in hac parte incumbunt pastoralis officio, juxta formam statutorum in ea parte editorum et provisorum, velitis cum effectu, etc. Dat. sexto Decembris, anno secundo Elizabethæ.

Rituum et ceremoniarum ordo in consecratione reveren- 15 dissimi domini Matthæi Parker, archiepiscopi Cant. in capella infra manerium suum de Lambhith, die dominico, viz. decimo sexto mensis Decembris, anno Domini MDLIX.

PINCIPIO sacellum tapetibus ad orientem adorna- 20
batur; solum vero panno rubro insternebatur; mensa quoque sacris peragendis necessaria, tapeto pulvinarique ornata, ad orientem sita erat.

Quatuor præterea cathedræ quatuor episcopis, quibus munus consecrandi archiepiscopi delegabatur, ad austrum 25 orientalis sacelli partis erant positæ; scamnum præterea tapeto pulvinaribusque instratum, cui episcopi genibus flexis inniterentur, ante cathedras ponebatur.

ejusdem sacelli partis plagam posita erant.

Hiis rebus ita ordine suo instructis, mane circiter quintam, aut sextam, per occidentalem portam ingreditur sacellum archiepiscopus toga talari coccinea, caputioque

indutus, quatuor præcedentibus funalibus, et quatuor comitatus episcopis, qui ejus consecrationi inservirent; videlicet, Willielmo Barlow, olim Bathon. et Wellen. episcopo, nunc vero ad Cicestrensem episcopatum electo, 5 Johanne Scory, olim Cicestrensi episcopo, et nunc ad Herefordensem vocato, Milone Coverdale, olim Exon. episcopo, et Johanne Hodgskinne, Bedfordiæ suffraganeo. Qui omnes postquam sedes sibi paratas ordine singuli suo occupassent, preces continuo matutinæ per Andream 10 Pierson, archiepiscopi capellanum, clara voce recitabantur. Quibus peractis, Johannes Scory, de quo supra diximus, suggestum conscendit, atque inde assumpto sibi in thema: "Seniores ergo, qui in vobis sunt, obsecro, consenior," etc. non ineleganter concionabatur.

Finito tandem evangelio, Hereforden. electus, Bedfordiæ suffraganeus, et Milo Coverdale (de quibus supra) archiepiscopum coram Cicestrensi electo apud mensam in cathedra sedenti, his verbis adduxerunt: "Reverende 35 in Deo pater, hunc virum pium pariter atque doctum tibi offerimus, atque præsentamus, ut archiepiscopus conse-

cretur.” Postquam hæc dixissent, proferebatur illico reginæ diploma, sive mandatum pro consecratione archiepiscopi. Quo per reverendum Thomam Yale, legum doctorem, perlecto, sacramentum de regio primatu, sive suprema ejus auctoritate tuenda, juxta statuta primo anno regni serenissimæ reginæ nostræ Elizabethæ promulgata, ab eodem archiepiscopo exigebatur; quod cum ille sollemniter, tactis corporaliter sacris evangeliiis, conceptis verbis præstitisset, Cicestren. electus quædam præfatus, atque populum ad orationem hortatus, ad letanias decantandas, choro respondente, se accinxit. Quibus finitis, post quæstiones aliquot archiepiscopo per Cicestren. electum propositas, et post orationes et suffragia quædam juxta formam libri auctoritate parlamenti editi, apud Deum habita, Cicestrensis, Herefordensis, suffraganeus Bedfordiensis, et Milo Coverdallus manibus archiepiscopo impositis: “ Accipe, inquiunt, Spiritum Sanctum, et gratiam Dei, quæ jam per impositionem manuum in te est, excitare memento: non enim timoris, sed virtutis, dilectionis, et sobrietatis spiritum dedit nobis Deus.” His ita dictis, Biblia sacra illi in manibus tradiderunt, hujusmodi apud eum verba habentes: “ In legendo, hortando, et docendo, vide diligens sis, atque ea meditare assidue, quæ in hisce libris scripta sunt. Noli in his segnibus esse, quo incrementum inde proveniens omnibus innotescat, et palam fiat. Cura, quæ ad te et ad docendum munus spectant diligenter. Hoc enim modo non teipsum solum, sed et reliquos auditores tuos per Jesum Christum Dominum nostrum salvabis” Postquam hæc dixissent, ad reliqua communionis solennia pergit Cicestren. nullum archiepiscopo tradens pastorale baculum; cum quo communicabant una archiepiscopus, et illi episcopi supra nominati, cum aliis etiam nonnullis.

Finitis tandem peractisque sacris, egreditur per borealem orientalis sacelli partis portam archiepiscopus, quatuor illis comitatus episcopis, qui eum consecraverant, et confestim eisdem ipsis stipatus episcopis, per eandem re-vertitur portam, albo episcopali superpelliceo, chimeraque (ut vocant) ex nigro serico indutus, circa collum vero collare quoddam ex preciosis pellibus sabellinis (vulgo

5 "Sables" vocant) consutum gestabat. Pari quoque modo Cicestrensis, et Herefordensis suis episcopalibus amictibus, superpelliceo sc. et chimera, uterque induebatur;
D. Coverdallus vero, et Bedfordiæ suffraganeus, togis solummodo talaribus utebantur. Pergens deinde occi-0 dentalem partem versus archiepiscopus, Thomæ Doyle, œconomus, Johanni Baker, thesaurario, et Johanni Marche, computo rotulario, singulis singulos albos dedit baculos, hoc scilicet modo eos muneribus, et officiis suis ornans.
His itaque hunc ad modum ordine suo, ut jam ante-15 dictum est, peractis, per occidentalem portam sacellum egreditur archiepiscopus, generosioribus quibuscunque sanguine ex ejus familia eum præcedentibus, reliquis vero eum a tergo sequentibus.

Misericors Deus, Pater Domini nostri Jesu Christi, qui es resurrectio et vita, in quo qui credidit, etiamsi mor-

Epistola. 1 Thess. iv.

Nolo vos ignorare fratres de his, qui obdormierunt, ne doleatis, quemadmodum et cæteri non habentes spem. Nam si credimus, quod Jesus mortuus est et resurrexit, 15 sic et Deus eos, qui obdormierunt, per Jesum, adducet cum illo. Quoniam ipse Dominus cum hortatu et voce archangeli, 20 ac tuba Dei descendet de cœlo, et mortui in Christo resurgent primum; deinde nos, qui vivemus, qui reliqui erimus, simul cum illis rapiemur in nubibus in occursum Domini in aere, et sic semper cum Domino erimus. Evangelium. Johan. vi.

Dixit Jesus discipulis suis et turbis Judæorum: Omne quod dat mihi Pater, ad me veniet; et eum, qui venit ad me, non ejicio foras. Quia descendi de cœlo, ut faciam non quod ego volo, sed quod vult is, qui misit me. Hæc 30 est autem voluntas ejus, qui misit me, Patris; ne quid perdam ex omnibus, quæ dedit mihi, sed resuscitem illa in novissimo die. Hæc est autem voluntas ejus, qui misit me, ut omnis, qui videt filium, et credit in eum, habeat vitam æternam, et ego suscitabo eum novissimo die.

Vel hoc evangelium. Johan. v.

Dixit Jesus discipulis suis et turbis Judæorum : Amen, amen dico vobis, qui sermonem meum audit, et credit ei, qui misit me, habet vitam æternam, et in condemnationem non veniet, sed transivit a morte in vitam. Amen, amen dico vobis, quod veniet hora et nunc est, quando mortui audient vocem Filii Dei, et qui audierint, vivent. Sicut enim Pater habet vitam in semetipso, sic dedit et Filio habere vitam in semetipso ; et potestatem dedit ei judicandi quoque, quia Filius hominis. Nolite mirari hoc ; quia veniet hora, in qua omnes, qui in monumentis sunt, audient vocem ejus, et prodibunt ; qui bona fecerunt, in resurrectionem vitæ ; qui vero mala egerunt, in resurrectionem condemnationis.

Bishop Jewel's challenge.

IF any learned men of our adversaries, or all the learned men, that be alive, be able to bring any one sufficient sentence out of any old catholic doctor, or father, or general council, or holy scripture, or any one example in the primitive church, whereby it may clearly and plainly be proved, during the first six hundred years, I. That there was at that time any private mass in the world. II. Or that there was then any communion ministered to the people under one kind. III. Or that the people had their common prayer in a strange tongue, that the people understood not. IV. Or that the bishop of Rome was then called an universal bishop, or the head of the uni-

Bishop Jewel's challenge] "As bishop Jewel had preached at court this Lent, so he had his day at the Cross, which was the second Sunday before Easter. In both places he preached that famous sermon wherein he openly challenged the papists. And Dr. Cole, late dean of St. Paul's, for saving the credit of popery, took him up. . . . But Dr. Harding of Louvain afterwards undertook the bishop's challenge more briskly, giving his answers as well as he could to the twenty-seven articles distinctly." Strype, Ann. vol. i. P. i. p. 300, 301. Wordsworth's Eccles. Biog. vol. iv. p. 42. Collier, vol. ii. p. 461. It would appear that this challenge was first given at Paul's Cross on the 26th of November 1559, when Jewel was bishop elect of Salisbury, but before his confirmation and consecration; which took place in the following January. Or that the people did then fall down and worship it with godly honour. IX. Or that the sacrament was then, or now ought to be hanged up under a canopy. X. Or that in the sacrament, after the words of consecration, there remain only the accidents and shows, without the substance of bread and wine. XI. Or that then the priest divided the sacrament into three parts, and afterwards received himself all alone. XII. Or that whosoever had said the sacrament is a figure, a pledge, a token, or a remembrance of Christ's body, had therefore been judged for an heretic. XIII. Or that it was lawful then to have thirty, twenty, fifteen, ten, or five masses said in the same church in one day. XIV. Or that images were then set up in the churches, to the intent the people might worship them. XV. Or that the lay people were then forbidden to read the word of God in their own tongue. XVI. Or that it was then lawful for the priest to pronounce the words of consecration closely, or in private to himself. XVII. Or that the priest had then authority to offer up Christ unto his Father. XVIII. Or to communicate and receive the sacrament for another, as they do. XIX. Or to apply the virtue of Christ's death and passion to any man by the means of the mass. XX. Or that it was then thought a sound doctrine to teach the people, that mass "Ex opere operato" (that is, even for that it is said and done) is able to remove any part of our sin. XXI. Or that any Christian man called the sacrament of the Lord, his God. XXII. Or that the people were then taught to believe, that the body of Christ remaineth in the sacrament as long, as the accidents of bread and wine remain there without corruption. XXIII. Or that a mouse, or any other worm, or beast may eat the body of Christ (for so some of our adversaries have said and taught.) XXIV. Or that when Christ said, "Hoc est corpus meum," the word "Hoc" pointed not the bread, but "individuum vagum," as some of them say. XXV. Or that the accidents, or forms, or shows of bread and wine be the sacrament of Christ's body and blood, and not rather the very bread and wine itself. XXVI. Or that the sacrament is a sign or token of the body of Christ, that lieth hidden underneath it. XXVII. Or that ignorance is the mother and cause of true devotion. The conclusion is, that I shall be then content to yield and subscribe.

The queen's proclamation against defacers of monuments in churches.—Fuller's Ch. Hist. lib. ix. pag. 66. (Bodl. I. 2. 18. Med.)

ELIZABETH.

THE queen's majesty understanding, that by the means of sundry people, partly ignorant, partly malicious or covetous, there hath been of late years spoiled and broken certain ancient monuments, some of metal, some of stone, which were erected up as well in churches, as in other public places within this realm, only to shew a memory to the posterity of the persons there buried, or that had been benefactors to the buildings or dotations of the same churches or public places, and not to nourish any kind of superstition; by which means not only the churches and places remain at this present day spoiled, broken, and ruined, to the offence of all noble and gentle hearts, and the extinguishing of the honourable and good memory of sundry virtuous and noble persons deceased; but also the true understanding of divers families in this realm (who have descended of the blood of the same persons deceased) is thereby so darkened, as the true course of⁵ their inheritance may be hereafter interrupted, contrary to justice; besides many other offences, that hereof do ensue, to the slander of such, as either gave, or had charge, in times past, only to deface monuments of idolatry and false feigned images, in churches and abbeys;¹⁰ and therefore, although it be very hard to recover things broken and spoiled, yet both to provide that no such barbarous disorder be hereafter used, and to repair as much of the said monuments, as conveniently may be, her majesty chargeth and commandeth all manner of persons¹⁵ hereafter to forbear the breaking or defacing of any parcel of any monument, or tomb, or grave, or other inscription, and memory of any person deceased, being in any manner of place: or to break any image of kings, princes, or noble estates of this realm, or of any other²⁰ that have been in times past erected and set up for the only memory of them to their posterity, in common churches, and not for any religious honour; or to break down and deface any image in glass windows in any church, without consent of the ordinary, upon pain²⁵ that whosoever shall herein be found to offend, to be committed to the next gaol, and there to remain without bail or main-prize, unto the next coming of the justices for the delivery of the said gaol, and then to be further punished by fine or imprisonment (besides the restitution³⁰ or reedification of the thing broken) as to the said justices shall seem meet; using therein the advice of the ordinary, and if need shall be, the advice also of her majesty's council in her starchamber. And for such as be already spoiled in any church or chapel now standing, her majesty³⁵ chargeth and commandeth all archbishops, bishops, and other ordinaries, or ecclesiastical persons, which have authority to visit the same churches or chapels, to inquire by presentments of the curates, churchwardens, and certain of the parishioners, what manner of spoils have been made, sithence the beginning of her majesty's reign, of such monuments, and by whom; and if the persons be living, how able they be to repair and reedify the same; and thereupon to convent the same persons and to enjoin them, under pain of excommunication, to repair the same by a convenient day, or otherwise (as the cause shall further require) to notify the same to her majesty's council in the starchamber at Westminster; and if any such shall be found and convicted thereof not able to repair the same, that then they be enjoined to do open penance two or three times in the church, as to the quality of the crime and party belongeth, under like pain of excommunication; and if the party that offended be dead, and the executors of the will left, having sufficient in their hands unadministered, and the offence notorious, the ordinary of the place shall also enjoin them to repair or reedify the same, upon like or any other convenient pain, to be devised by the said ordinary. And when the offender cannot be presented, if it be in any cathedral or collegiate church, which hath any revenue belonging to it, that is not particularly allotted to the sustentation of any person certain, or otherwise, but that it may remain in the discretion of the governor thereof, to bestow the same upon any other charitable deed, as mending of highways or such like; her majesty enjoineth and straitly chargeth the governors, and companies of every such church, to employ such parcels of the said sums of money (as any wise may be spared) upon the speedy repair or reedification of any such monuments so defaced, or spoiled, as agreeable to the original, as the same conveniently may be.

such, that as patrons of churches, or owners of the parsonages impropriated, or by some other colour or pretence they do persuade with the parson and parishioners to take or throw down the bells of churches and chapels, and the lead of the same, converting the same to their private gain, and to the spoils of the said places, and make such like alterations, as thereby they seek a slanderous desolation of the places of prayer; her majesty (to whom in the right of the crown, by the ordinance of Almighty God, and by the laws of this realm, the defence and protection of the church of this realm belongeth) doth expressly forbid any manner of person to take away any bells or lead of any church or chapel now used, or that ought to be used with public and divine service, or otherwise deface any such church or chapel, under pain of imprisonment, during her majesty's pleasure, and such further fine for the contempt, as shall be thought meet.

And her majesty chargeth all bishops and ordinaries, to inquire of all such contempts done from the beginning of her majesty's reign, and to enjoin the persons offending to repair the same within a convenient time; and of their doings in this behalf, to certify her majesty's privy council, or the council in the starchamber at Westminster; that order may be taken herein. Given at Windsor the 19th of Sept., the second year of her majesty's reign.

MOSTE reverend father in God, right trusty and right well beloved, right reverend father in God, 10

Queen Elizabeth's letter] The Book of Common Prayer as revised and authorized by act of parliament in the year 1559, contained a list of "certain lessons to be used on every Sunday in the year" (stat. 1 Eliz. cap. 2. §. 3.) in addition to the "proper lessons for divers feasts and days" which had been provided in the second Service Book 15 of king Edward. The selection however was not in all respects complete and satisfactory; and some other matters calling at the same time for correction, the queen addressed the present letter to the archbishop of Canterbury, the bishop of London, Dr. Bill her almoner, and Dr. Haddon, master of requests, together with the other members of 20 her ecclesiastical commission, being desirous that uniformity and good order should be observed. It appears however from the Admonition prefixed to the Second Book of Homilies, first published in the year 1564, that some discretion was still allowed, and even recommended to be used, in the choice of lessons. The words of the Admonition are, 25 "where it may so chance some one or other chapter of the Old Testa-right trustie and wel beloved, trustie and right well beloved, and trustie and wel beloved; we greet you well. Letting you to understande, that where it is provided by acte of parliament, holden in the first yere of our reigne, that whensoever we shall see cause to take further order in any rite or ceremonie, appointed in the book of common prayer, and our pleasure knowne therein, either to our commissioners for causes ecclesiasticall, or to the metropolitane, that then eftsoones consideration should be had therein; we therefore understanding, that there be in the said book certain chapters for lessons, and other things appointed to be read, which might be supplied with other chapters or parcells of scripture, tending to the hearing of the unlearned or laye people more to their edification; and that furthermore in sundry churches and chappells, where divine service, as prayer, preaching, and ministration of the sacraments be used, there is such negligence, and lacke of convenient reverence used towardses the comelye keeping, and order of the said churches, and especially of the upper parte, ment to fall in order to be read upon the Sundays or holy-days which were better to be changed with some other of the New Testament of more edification, it shall be well done to spend your time to consider well of such chapters beforehand." And even at a later period "Dr. G. Abbot (afterwards archbishop of Canterbury) did reckon this liberty, granted in the said Admonition, to be in force even in his time . . . saying, 'It is not only permitted to the minister, but commended to him, if wisely and quietly he do read canonical scripture, where the apocryphal upon good judgment seemeth not so fit; or any chapter of the canonical may be conceived not to have in it so much edification before the simple, as some other parts of the same canonical may be thought to have. For the words will very well carry both these.'" Strype, Ann. vol. i. P. ii. p. 105. P. i. p. 336. Parker, vol. i. p. 168. The Order for lessons adopted in the reign of Elizabeth has since undergone some few alterations; and it will probably be admitted, that whatever might have been the case formerly, there is no reason to suppose that any such liberty of changing one lesson for another has been allowed since the passing of the last act of uniformity.

as nighe as they may; specially, that in all collegiate and cathedral churches, where cost may be more probablie allowed, one manner be used; and in all parish churches also, either the same, or at the least, the like, and one
5 manner throughout our realme: and further, we will that, where we have causid our book of common service to be translated into the Latin tongue, for the use and exercise of such studentes, and other learned in the Latin tongue; we will also that by your wisdome and discre-
10 tions, ye prescribe some good orders to the collegiate churches, to which we have permitted the use of the divine service and prayer in Latin tongue, in such sorte as ye shall consider to be most mete to be used, in respect of their companies, or of resorte of our laye sub-
15 jectes to the said churches, so that our good purpose in the said translation be not frustrated, nor be corruptlie abused, contrarie to the effect of our meaning. And for the publication of that, which you shall order, we will and require you, the archbishop of Cant., to see the same
20 put in execution throwghout your province, and that you, the rest of our commissioners beforementioned, prescribe the same to the archbishop now nominated of York, to be in like manner set forth in that province, and that the alteration of any thing hereby ensuing, be quietly done,
25 without shew of any innovation in the church. And these our letters shall be your sufficient warrant in this behalf. Yeaven under our signet at our palace of Westminster the 22d. day of Januarye, the thirde yere of our reign.

Articles agreed upon at the second session in Lambeth the 12th day of April, A. D. 1561, by the most reverend fathers in God, Matthew, lord archbishop of Cant., Thomas, lord archbishop of York, with the assent of their brethren the bishops to the same.—Ex Reg. Parker.

FIRST, That the articles agreed on at the first session be ratyfyed, confirmed, and put in execution accordingly.

Item, That readers be once agen by every ordinarie reviewed, and there abilitie and manners examined, and by discretion of the ordinaries to remayne in ther office, or to be removed, and ther wages to be ordered; and the abstinence of mechanical sciences to be also enjoyned by the discretion of the said ordinaries as well to ministers, as to readers. 10

Item, That the declaration devised for unitye of doctrine may be enjoyned to be used throughout the realme uniformly.

Articles agreed upon] “The archbishop of Canterbury, with Thomas archbishop of York, the bishops of London and Ely, and some others 15 of the ecclesiastical commission, were now sitting at Lambeth, upon the regulating and ordering of the matters of the church. And on the 12th day of April (being their second session) certain articles were agreed upon.” Strype, Parker, vol. i. p. 194.

25 Item, That besides the catechisme] The Catechism in the Book of Common Prayer did not as yet contain the doctrine of the sacraments (which was introduced in the reign of James I.), and was intended solely for children previously to confirmation. The knowledge obtained from it was then thought sufficient to qualify a person for be-30 coming a communicant, as appears from the following article of the queen’s visitors (anno 1559), “Whether they have admonished their parishioners that they ought not to presume to receive the sacrament of the body and blood of Christ, before they can say perfectly the Lord’s Prayer, the Articles of the faith, and the Ten Commandments 35 in English.” So that the circumstances of the case suggested the composition of another Catechism for the further instruction of communicants, and a third to be written in Latin, and drawn up at greater length, for the use of those who enjoyed the benefit of a liberal education. A Catechism of this last description had been much wanted. In 1547 the Catechism of Erasmus had been ordered to be used in Winchester college and elsewhere, (Wilkins, Conc. p. 9.) In 1553 the Catechism of king Edward, usually ascribed to bishop Poinet, was directed by royal authority to be used in all schools. But other compilations obtained from the continent, such as the smaller and larger Catechisms of Calvin, first published in Latin in the years 1538 and 1545, and afterwards republished in various forms and several languages, (Walchii Bibl. Theol. tom. i. p. 509,) and the more popular Catechisms of the Helvetic reformers, such as Œcolampadius (1545), Leo Judas (1553), and more especially Bullinger (1559, Walchii Bibl. Theol. tom. i. p. 507), had been adopted by many teachers, and occasioned much complaint as to the want of a uniform system of religious instruction. Even in the year 1578, when the deficiency had been corrected by the publication of dean Nowell's Catechisms, and the exclusive use of them had been enjoined in the canons of 1571, the Catechisms of Calvin and Bullinger were still ordered by statute to be used, as well as others, in the university of Oxford. (Wood, Ann. vol. ii. p. 193). . . It is probable that when the bishops drew up this article, dean Nowell was already employed in preparing the kind of Catechism that was required. Strype says that he undertook the task under the advice and at the instigation of secretary Cecil, (Ann. vol. i. P. i. p. 525); but the letter he addressed to Cecil, and on which Strype appears to have relied for his information, affords no sufficient evidence of it, and seems rather to imply that the undertaking arose out of his own conviction that some such compendium, to be approved by public authority, was much wanted. It is not improbable that he first felt this want several years before, when he was head master of Westminster school; but it is certain that he had completed his work in the year 1562, as it was ready for examination on the assembling of the well-known synod, which was summoned to meet on the 11th of November in that year. It was not published however till the year 1570, and it then came forth in two separate forms, the larger Catechism intended to be used in places of liberal education, and the abridgment designed for more general purposes. The latter was

Item, That prestes deprived, and other private chaplens, be commanded by the ordinarys direction in this great necessity, to minister in cures, or else to be according to law excommunicated, and the excommunication

Item, It is agreed, that all such marriages, as have been contracted within the Levitical degrees, be dissolved, and namely those, who have married two sisters, one after another, who are by common consent judged to

Item, It is agreed to give 20s. to every bishop of translated into English and published by John Day, in the year 1572. Strype, Parker, vol. ii. p. 17. Ann. vol. i. P. i. p. 525. Churton's Nowel, p. 165. Jacobson's Preface to the Oxf. edit. 1835. Comp.

Item, It is agreed to give] This appears to have been a composition for certain claims which the dean and chapter of Canterbury had on the several bishops of the province, as, for instance, in the case of their consecration. Wharton says, in his notes on Strype, (see Parker, 20 vol. i. p. 123. vol. ii. p. 1047.) "From 1235 to 1540 I dare confidently aver that no bishop of the province of Canterbury had been consecrated by the archbishops, or by any other by their commission, in any church or place without the metropolitanical church of Canterbury, without license first desired and obtained in writing from the 25 chapter of Canterbury under their seal; if we except only two or three cases between the years 1235 and 1300; which were the occasions of great controversies between the archbishops consecrating and the bishops consecrated on the one part, and the chapter of Canterbury on the other part; which yet always ended to the advantage of 30 the chapter, and the further confirmation of their privilege therein."

The claim of the chapter had been acknowledged on the consecration of bishop Bonner in the year 1540, and the numerous consecrations which had taken place in 1559 and 1560 had probably led to the arrangement expressed in this article; the last clause of which is a 35 stipulation in favour of Peter Alexander, a learned foreigner, who had been deprived of his prebend in the time of queen Mary, but was restored by queen Elizabeth. Le Neve's Fasti, p. 17. Injunctions to be confessed] "Readers were ordained to supply the necessity of the church at this juncture. They were to serve in small livings, where there was no minister, and to supply till they were filled. . . They were taken out of the laity, tradesmen or others; any that was of sober conversation and honest behaviour, and that could read and write . . . They seemed not wholly to forbear their callings, but were not countenanced to follow them, especially if they were mechanical." 20
Strype, Ann. vol. i. P. i. pp. 515. 265. These injunctions were confirmed in the convocation of 1562, but the church was much reproached on account of its readers, and they were gradually discon- 25 tinued. This middle plan had evidently been devised, on the one hand to secure parishes from being entirely destitute of all religious teaching, and on the other to prevent the admission of mechanics and Queen Elizabeth's injunctions for the better government of cathedrals.—John Weever's funeral monuments, p. 184. seq.

THE queen's majesty considering, how the pallaces and houses of cathedrall churches and colledges of this realme have ben both of ancyent and late tyme buylded and inclosed in severall to susteyne and kepe socyeties of learned men, professing study, and prayer for the edification of the church of God, and so consequently to serve the common weale; and understanding of late, that within the houses hereof as well the chiefe gover-

Queen Elizabeth's injunctions] This injunction bears date the 9th of August. On the 12th of the same month secretary Cecil writes thus to the archbishop "Her majesty continueth very ill-affected to the state of matrimony in the clergy. And if I were not therein very stiff, her majesty would utterly and openly condemn and forbid it. In the end, for her satisfaction, this injunction now sent to your grace is devised. The good order thereof shall do no harm. I have devised to send it in this sort to your grace for your province, and to the archbishop of York for his; and to the chancellors of the two universities for their charge; so as it shall not be promulged to be popular." Strype, Parker, vol. i. p. 214. The queen's strong feeling on this subject is shewn in a letter written soon afterwards by the archbishop to the secretary, in the following words: "I was in a horror to hear such words to come from her mild nature, and christianly learned conscience, as she spake concerning God's holy ordinance and institution of matrimony. I marvelled that our states in that behalf cannot please her highness, which we doubt nothing at all to please God's sacred majesty, and trust to stand before God's judgment seat in a good conscience therewith, for all the glorious shine of counterfeited chastity." A proclamation made for the reverend usage of all churches and churchyards.—Strype's Life of Grindal, p. 56. (Bodl. I. 2. 18. Med.)

By the queen.

FOR avoiding of divers outragious and unseemly behaviours used as well within and near the cathedral church of St. Paul in London, as in divers other churches of this realm; and for the better and speedy reducing of the same churches to the godly uses, for which the same were builded; the queen's majesty of her godly and virtuous disposition straightly chargeth and commandeth, that all laws and good ordinances heretofore provided against fighting and quarrelling in churches and churchyards, shall be duly and with all severity executed, according to the tenor and true meaning of the said laws and ordinances. And further her majesty's pleasure is, that if any person shall make any fray, or quarrel, or draw or put out his hand to any weapon for that purpose, or

A proclamation made] "The great and common concourse of people in these days, and before these days, was usually at Paul's, for the sake of walking and talking, and hearing and telling of news, and meeting upon assignation and business, and payment of money and such like: which occasioned great routs and tumults and quarrels oftentimes, to the profaning of that place, set apart for devotion and the service of God." Strype, Grindal, p. 83. The practice continued for many years afterwards; for we have the following passage in Osborne's Life of King James, p. 65. "It was the fashion of those times, and did so continue till these, for the principal gentry, lords, courtiers, and men of all professions not merely mechanick, to meet in Paul's church by 11 and walk in the middle ile till 12, and after dinner from 3 to 6; during which time some discoursed of business, others of news."

shoot any hand gun or dagg within the cathedral church of St. Paul, or churchyard adjoining thereunto, or within the limits of the four chains compassing the same, or within any other church or churchyard, shall receive not only 5 the punishment contained in the statutes provided for the same; but also, being thereof convicted either by the evidence of the fact, testimony of two honest and indifferent persons, or by their own confessions before her highness's council in the starchamber, or the mayor for
10 the time being within the city of London; and in other places out of the same city, before two justices of the peace of the county or place, where any of the said offences shall be committed, shall suffer imprisonment by the space of two months, without bail or mainprize, and
15 further pay such fine and forfeiture towards the reparation of the said church of St. Paul, or of other churches, where the same offence shall be committed, as shall be assessed by the said council, mayor, or justices, before whom such conviction shall be, as is aforesaid.

20 And her majesty further straitly chargeth and commandeth all and singular her subjects, that none of them, during the time of preaching within the said church of St. Paul's, or churchyard of the same, or of any divinity lecture reading, or divine service in the same church, or 25 in any other church or churchyard within the realm, shall walk up and down, or use any kind of disturbance, or spend the time in the same about any bargains or other profane causes; but shall resort unto the common prayer, preaching, or reading, and there quietly and reverently 30 behave themselves, as to the duty of Christian men appertaineth; or else quietly to avoid out of the said church or place, upon pain of imprisonment, and of such further fine, as is aforesaid: the fine always to be converted to the repairing of the church, where the offence shall be 35 committed.

that all persons do forbear to make, from henceforth, any limitation or appointment, by writing or otherwise, for the payment of any sum or sums of money, within the said church of St. Paul, or in any other church or chapel, where divine service is or shall be used, and the word of God preached; or to carry or recarry any burthen, fardel, or other unseemly thing through the said churches, other than for the repairing, or other necessities of the same churches, upon pain of imprisonment, and further punishment by fine, as afore is said.

Provided always, that it shall be lawful as well to any persons, which at this present stand bound by any former covenant or bond to make any payment of any sum or sums of money in any church, or other place aforesaid, to make tender and payment of the same; as also to every such person and persons, to whom the same is or shall be due, to receive the same in such place, where it is limited to be tendered and paid; unless the parties (which is trusted they will, for good order's sake) shall otherwise agree; this proclamation to the contrary notwithstanding.

And for the better execution of this proclamation, her majesty's pleasure and express commandment is, that the mayor, aldermen, sheriffs, and other her officers, and commons of her city of London, and every of them, do not only aid and assist, and help the bishop of the said see and church of St. Paul, for the time being, and other ecclesiastical officers and ministers of the same, from time to time, in the due execution of the premises, as need shall require; but also, that the said mayor of London shall appoint, every Sunday and other holidays in the year, during such time, and at every time that shall be thought by the bishop or dean of the church requisite, some one or two of the aldermen of the said city of London, accompanied with four or six discreet commoners of the said city, and attended upon with a convenient number of the serjeants and officers of the said city, to repair unto the said church of St. Paul, there to see the premises duly executed in all points accordingly.

And if they shall find any person disobedient or 5 offending in any thing touching the premises, to apprehend and commit him forthwith to prison, there to remain without bail or mainprize, until further order be taken with the said offenders, in form aforesaid. And finally, her majesty straitly chargeth and commandeth all
 10 and singular her justices of peace, mayors, sheriffs, bailiffs, constables, headboroughs, churchwardens, and all other her highness's officers, ministers, and subjects, that they, and every of them, from time to time, endeavour themselves, to the best of their powers, to cause and see,
 15 that this her majesty's proclamation and express commandment within the limits of their jurisdiction and parishes be put in due and full execution, according to the form abovementioned; as they tender her majesty's special favour, and will avoid the contrary at their perils.

ELIZABETH R.

MOST reverend father in God, right trusty and right well beloved, we greet you well. Like as almighty

25 Queen Elizabeth's letter] This appears to have been the first general fast enjoined by authority in the reign of queen Elizabeth; and

God hath of his mere grace committed to us, next under him, the chief government of this realm and the people therein; so hath he, of his like goodness, ordered under us sundry principal ministers, to guide and assist us in this burden. And therefore considering the state of this present time, wherein it hath pleased the most highest, for the amendment of us and our people to visit certain places of our realm with more contagious sickness, than lately hath been; for remedy and mitigation thereof, we think it both necessary and our bounden duty, that universal prayer and fasting be more effectually used in this our realm. And understanding that you have thought and considered upon some good orders to be prescribed therein, for the which ye require the application of our authority, for the better observation thereof amongst our people; we do not only commend and allow your good zeal therein, but do also command all manner our ministers ecclesiastical or civil, and all other our subjects to execute, follow, and obey such godly and wholesome orders, as you, being primate of all England, and metropolitan of this province of Canterbury, upon godly advice and consideration, shall uniformly devise, prescribe, and publish for the universal usage of prayer, fasting, and other good deeds during the time of this visitation by sickness and other troubles. Order for a form] The sickness in this instance does not appear to have been of long duration. Bp. Jewel in writing to Bullinger (Zurich Lett. p. 124) calls it the small-pox, and adds, "she had almost lost her life through her impatience of the fever, and the wearisomeness of the 25 disease." But any sickness would at this time have given rise to fears and disturbances. On subsequent occasions, as in the year 1568, forms of prayer and thanksgiving were drawn up, to be used during the continuance of her illness, and after her recovery. Strype, Ann. vol. i. An admonition to all such as shall intend hereafter to enter the state of matrimony, godly and agreeable to laws. (Bodl. Douce. A. 265.)

FIRST, That they contract MARRIAGE is honourable not with such persons, as M among all men, and the

An admonition to all such] This table appears to have been set forth in the first instance in the year 1560, (Strype, Ann. vol. i. P. i. p. 332,) but was now (1563) published by authority, (Strype, Parker, vol. i. 5 p. 556,) and has ever since declared the law as to prohibited degrees; although some of the introductory regulations, such, for instance, as the permission to publish banns on festival days, (a permission repeated in the rubric for the solemnization of matrimony,) are no longer in force. The table is quoted in the Advertisements of the year 1564, and in the 10 canons of 1603, (can. 99,) as being the authorized interpretation of the laws of God upon the subject. The whole doctrine is derived from the 18th chap. of Leviticus, and the several instances of prohibited degrees contained in that chapter are cited in the Statutes 25 Henry VIII. cap. 22. and 28 Henry VIII. cap. 7. It appears however from a letter 15 addressed by archbishop Cranmer to lord Cromwell two years after the passing of the first act, that he suggested at the time the necessity of introducing into the statute many other instances not actually enumerated in Leviticus, but equally prohibited in principle. His words are: "By the law of God many persons be prohibited which be not 20 expressed, but be understood by like prohibition in equal degree. As St. Ambrose saith that the niece is forbid by the law of God, although it be not expressed in Leviticus, that the uncle shall not marry his niece. But where the nephew is forbid there, that he shall not marry his aunt, by the same is understood that the niece shall not be married 25 unto her uncle. Likewise as the daughter is not there plainly expressed, yet where the son is forbid to marry his mother, it is understood that the daughter may not be married to her father; because laws of the realm.

5 they be of like degree. . . . And as touching the act of parliament concerning the degrees prohibited by God's law, they be not so plainly set forth as I would they were. Wherein I somewhat spake my mind at the making of the said law, but it was not then accepted." Strype, Cran. vol. i. p. 66. These views and the frequent applications made to 10 the archbishop for dispensations in cases prohibited in principle, but not forbidden by express words in the statute, led eventually to the formation of the table that was published by archbishop Parker in the year 1563, the principles on which it was drawn out being the following:
1. That the degrees which are laid down as to men, will hold equally as 15 to women in the same proximity. 2. That the husband and wife are but one flesh; so that he who is related to the one by consanguinity, is related to the other by affinity in the same degree. (Gibs. Cod. 412.)
The case of marrying a wife's sister has been more disputed than others, inasmuch as the instance actually expressed in Leviticus merely forbids 20 the having two sisters at the same time; but it is held to be one of the cases prohibited in principle. So bishop Jewel stated the matter in a letter dated cal. Nov. 1561. (Strype, Parker, vol. i. p. 222. vol. iii.
p. 57.) "Albeit I be not forbidden by plain words to marry my wife's sister, yet am I forbidden so to do by other words, which by exposi-25 tion are plain enough. For when God commands me, I shall not marry my brother's wife, it follows directly by the same, that he forbids me to marry my wife's sister. For between one man and two sisters and one woman and two brothers is like analogy or proportion." See Gibs. Cod. 412. Burn. Eccl. Law, vol. ii. p. 447. These canonical 30 disabilities however were understood with the following limitation:
"Such marriages not being void ab initio, but voidable only by sentence of separation, they are esteemed valid to all civil purposes, unless such separation is actually made during the life of the parties. For after the death of either of them, the courts of common law will not 35 suffer the spiritual courts to declare such marriages to have been void; because such declaration cannot now tend to the reformation of the parties. And therefore, when a man had married his first wife's sister, and after her death the bishop's court was proceeding to annul the marriage, and bastardize the issue, the court of king's bench granted 40 a prohibition quoad hoc; but permitted them to proceed to punish the husband for incest." Blackst. Com. vol. i. p. 434. And such was the law of the case until the year 1835, when an act was passed (5 and 6

Secondly, That they make no secret contracts without consent and counsel of their parents or elders, under whose authority they be, contrary to God's laws, and man's ordinances.

Thirdly, That they contract not anew with any other, upon divorce and separation made by the judge for a time; the laws yet standing to the contrary.

To avoid fornication let every man have his wife, and let every woman have her husband: he that cannot contain, let him marry; for better it is to marry, than to burn. 1 Cor. vii. 2, 9.

Unto the married I command, not I, but the Lord, Let not the wife depart from her husband: but if she depart, let her remain unmarried, or be reconciled unto her husband: and let not the husband put away his wife. 1 Cor. vii. 10, 11.

I. It is to be noted, that those persons, which be in the direct line ascendent and descendent, cannot marry together, although they are never so far asunder in degree. 20

II. It is also to be noted, that consanguinity and affinity (letting and dissolving matrimony) is contracted as well in them and by them, which be of kindred by the one side, as in and by them which be of kindred by both sides. 25

III. Item, That by the laws consanguinity and affinity (letting and dissolving matrimony) is contracted as well by unlawful company of man and woman, as by lawful marriage.

IV. Item, In contracting betwixt persons doubtful, which be not expressed in this table, it is most sure first to consult men learned in the law; to understand what is

Will. IV. chap. 54) which after legalizing certain former marriages, enacted that all marriages which should thereafter be celebrated between persons within the prohibited degrees of consanguinity or affinity, 35 should be "absolutely null and void to all intents and purposes whatsoever."

lawful, what honest and expedient, before the finishing of their contracts.

V. That no parson, vicar, or curate shall solemnize matrimony out of his or their cure, or parish church, or chapel, and shall not solemnize the same in private houses, nor lawless exempt churches, under pains of the law forbidding the same. And that the curate have their certificates, where the parties dwell in divers parishes.

VI. Item, The bands of matrimony ought to be openly denounced in the church by the minister three several Sundays or festival days, to the intent, that who will and can alledge any impediment, may be heard, and that stay may be made till further tryal, if any exception be made there against it upon sufficient caution.

VII. Item, who shall maliciously object a frivolous impediment against a lawful matrimony to disturb the same, is subject to the pains of the law.

VIII. Item, who shall presume to contract in the degrees prohibited (though he do it ignorantly) besides that the fruit of such copulation may be judged unlawful, is also punishable at the ordinary's discretion.

IX. Item, If any minister shall conjoin any such; or shall be present at such contracts making; he ought to be suspended from his ministry for three years, and otherwise to be punished according to the laws.

X. Item, It is further ordained, that no parson, vicar, or curate do preach, treat, or expound of his own voluntary invention, any matter of controversy in the scriptures, if he be under the degree of a master of arts, except he be licensed by his ordinary thereunto; but only for instruction of the people read the homilies already set forth, and such other form of doctrine, as shall be hereafter by authority published, and shall not innovate, or alter any thing in the church, or use any old rite or ceremony, which is not set forth by public authority.

THE queenes majestye of her godly zeale calling to remembraunce howe necessary it is to the avaunce-

Advertisements partly] These Advertisements and the proceedings consequent thereon occasioned the first open separation of the nonconformists from the church of England, the professed ground of separation being the necessity of wearing the same apparel that was used by the Romanists, but the real point at issue being, and soon afterwards shewing itself to be, the right principle of church government. In Feb. 1566, Humphrey and Sampson proposed the following questions to Bullinger: "Whether any ecclesiastical constitutions may be tolerated, which though from their nature they are free from any thing impious, do not nevertheless tend to edification? Whether any thing of a ceremonial nature may be prescribed to the church by the sovereign without the assent and free concurrence of churchmen? Whether good pastors of unblemished life and doctrine may rightfully be removed from the ministry on account of their noncompliance with such ceremonies?" These and other questions were answered by Bullinger and Gualter in a way calculated to allay the growing discontent, but without satisfying the two impatient theologians who had proposed them. (Zurich Letters, pp. 154, 354.) The Advertisements were drawn up by the archbishop, and other bishops in commission with him, in ment of God's glory, and the establishmente of Christes pure religion, for all her loving subjects, especially the state ecclesiasticall, to bee knitte together in one perfecte unitye of doctrine, and bee conjoynd in one uniformity of rites and maners in the ministration of God's holy worde, in open prayer and ministration of sacraments, as also to be of one decent behavioure in their outwarde apparell, to be knowne partely by their distinct habits to bee of that vocation (who shoulde be revered the rather in their offices, as ministers of the holye things whereto they bee called) hathe by her letters directed unto the archebyshop of Canterbury and metropolitane, required, enjoyned, and straightly charged, that with assistance and conference had with other byshops, namely suche as be in commission for causes ecclesiasticall, some orders might bee taken, whereby all diversities and varieties amonge them of the cleargy and the people (as breedinge nothinge but contention, offence, and breache obedience to peremptory letters addressed to him by the queen, (Strype, Parker, vol. i. p. 307. vol. iii. p. 65,) who had been informed that great irregularities prevailed without any endeavours on the part of the bishops to repress them, and was determined that stricter methods of discipline and good order should be exercised for the future. It appears, however, that several of her council, as for instance Leicester, Burleigh, Knollys, and Walsingham, were disposed to favour the wishes of the puritans; and whether from this cause or some other, although the queen was the person really responsible for these Advertisements, she did not officially give her sanction to them at the time, but left them to be enforced by the several bishops on the canonical obedience imposed upon the clergy and the powers conveyed to the ordinaries by the act of uniformity. Their title and preface certainly do not claim for them the highest degree of authority; and although Strype infers from certain evidence which he mentions, (Parker, vol. i. p. 319,) that they afterwards received the royal sanction, and recovered their original title of articles and ordinances, it seems more probable that they owed their force to the indefinite nature of episcopal jurisdiction, supported, as in this instance was known to be the case, by the personal approval of the sovereign. The way in which the archbishop of common charity, and be agaynste the lawes, good usage and ordinaunces of the realme) might be reformed and repressed, and brought to one maner of uniformity throughout the whole realme, that the people may there-5 by quietly honour and serve almighty God in truthe, concord, unity, peace, and quietnes, as by her majesties sayde letters more at large dothe appeare. Whereupon by diligent conference and communication in the same, and at laste by assent and consent of the persons before

 10 sayd, these orders and rules ensuing have been thoughte meete and convenient to be used and folowed; nor yet prescribinge these rules as laws equivalent with the eternall worde of God, as of necessity to bynde the consciences of her subjectes in the nature of them considered 15 in themselves, or as they shoulde adde any efficacye or more holynes to the vertue of publique prayer, and to the sacraments; but as temporall orders meere ecclesiasticall, without any vayne superstition, and as rules in some speaks of them in his articles of enquiry, issued in the year 1569, 20 (No. LXXIII.) certainly assigns to them "public authority," but clearly distinct from that of the crown; and in the year 1584, (No. XCIX.) archbishop Whitgift refers to them as having authority, but still calls them simply the book of Advertisements. It is worthy of remark also, that they are quoted as authoritative in the canons of 25 1571, but that those canons never received the confirmation of the crown; and that a similar reference was made to them in the canons of 1575 by the convocation of that period, but was expunged by the queen before she ordered the canons to be published. In practice, however, they were uniformly treated as having authority; and being

 30 quoted as such in the canons of 1603, which were confirmed by king James (see canon 24), they may be considered as having thereby obtained the royal sanction. They have since been recognised as the Advertisements of queen Elizabeth in the canons of 1640, which were ratified by king Charles I. Comp Strype, Parker, vol. i. p. 313. vol.

Queen Elizabeth's letter to the bishop of London for seizing seditious books transported from beyond sea.—Strype's Annals, vol. i. App. p. 74.

By the queene.

RYGHTE reverend father in God, right trustie and wel beloved, we grete you well. Where we be geven to understand, that certain unnatural and seditious subjects of this our realme being fled out of the same, and lyving on the other side of the seas, cease not contynu-⁵ ally to contrive and send over hither sundry seditious and slanderous books, to be sprédde abroad here, partely for there own private gayne, but especially to move the ignorant people to disorder; a thing very requisite to be looked unto, as being merely against all good order and ¹⁰ policy of this our state, and contrary also to the statutes and laws of this our realme; we lett you wete, that considering the most parte of those slaunderous books be brought in by such vessells, as arryve within our porte of London, of which place you are the chief pastor ¹⁵ and bishoppe; and waying withall that you are one of our commissioners for matters ecclesiasticall; we have

RIGHT well beloved brother, after my right hartie commendations in our Saviour Christ. Whereas you do well know what offense is taken, for that diverse and sundry of the state ecclesiastical be so hardlie induced to conformity, in administration of public prayers

The archbishop's letter] The general sentiments of bishop Grindal on the subject of the habits, and his unwillingness to take decided measures against the nonconformists, are well known. (See Strype, Grind. pp. 154. 446. Parker, vol. i. p. 430. Neal's Puritans, vol. i. pp. 136. 224.) But he had now fortified himself with the opinions of Bullinger and Gualter, whose authority was respected in England beyond that of any other divines of their time; and soon afterwards, for the purpose of making the same impression upon others, he published a private letter of theirs in which they had recommended Sampson and Humphrey, two of the most eminent of the nonconformists, to comply. (Burnet, H. R. vol. i. iii. p. 591. P. ii. p. 427. Collier, vol. ii. p. 508.) He himself expressed his sentiments to Bullinger in August 1566. in the following manner: "When they who had been exiles in Germany could not persuade the queen and parliament to remove these habits out of the church, though they had long endeavoured it, by common consent they thought it best not to leave the church for some rites, which were not many nor in themselves wicked; especially since the purity of the Gospel remained safe and free to them. Nor had they to this present time repented themselves of this counsel." (Strype, Grind. p. 156. Collier, vol. ii. App. p. 96. Zurich Letters, p. 169.) This letter of archbishop Parker's was written after the memorable sentence of suspension passed by him upon thirty-seven of the London clergy, and was accompanied with a copy of the "Advertisements" (No. LXV) which the archbishop had recently corrected, and now republished, alleging the act of uniformity (1 Eliz. c. 2. §. 16.) as his justification, but acting under the queen's positive command, in his proceedings against the London clergy. Strype, Parker, vol. i. pp. 427. 430.

and sacraments, and in outward apparell, agreeable, in regard of order, for them to weare, notwithstanding established, and other orders and ordinances prescribed in the same; in which disorder appeareth (as is commonlie interpreted) a manifest violation and contempte of the quenes majesties authoritie, and abusing her princely clemency in so long bearinge with the same, without execution of condigne severitie for there due correction, if the lawes were extendid uppon them: and whereas the whole state of the realme, by acte of Parliament openly published, doth most earnestly in God's name require us all to endeavour ourselves, to the utmost of our knowledge, duely and truly to execute the said lawes, as we will answer before God; by the which acte also, we have full power and authoritie to reform, and punish by censures of the church all and singular persones, which shall offende; and whereas also the quenes most excellent majestie, now a yere past and more, addressed her highness lettres enforcing the same charge, the contents whereof I sent unto your lordship in her name and authoritie, to admonish them to obedience, and so I dowt not but your lordship have distributed the same unto other of our brethren within this province of Canterburye; whereuppon hath ensued in the most part of the realm an humble and obedient conformitie, and yet some few persons, I fear more scrupulous than godly prudent, have not conformed themselves; peradventure some of them for lack of particular description of orders to be followed, which as your lordship doth know, were agreed upon amonge us long agoe; and yet in certeine respects not published now for the spedy reformation of the same, as the quenes highness hath expressly charged both you and me of late. Being therefore cauled to her presence to see her lawes executid, and good orders decreed and observed, I can no less do of my obedience to Almighty God, of my allegiance to her princely estate, and of sincere zeal to the truth and promotion of Christian religion now established, but require and charge you, as you will answer to God, and to her majestie, to see her majesties lawes and injunctions duely observed within your dioc. and also theis our convenient orders described in theis 5 bookes, at theis present sent unto your lordship; and furthermore to transmitt the same bookes with your lettres (according as hath been heretofore used) unto all others of our brethren within this province, to cause the same to be performid in their severall jurisdictions and charges. 10 And where we have of late the 26th day of this present monthe of March, called before us, according to the quenes majesties commandement in this behalf signified, all manner of parsons, vicars, and curates servinge within the city of London, and have commanded divers of them 15 in their obedience, who have considered their duties in this behalf; so have we also from this day fourth, suspendid all ministers expressly refusing conformitie from their public ministracion whatsoever, and have also denounced sequestration of all the frutes of ther levings so long 20 tyme as they shall remayne in this disobedience; signifying further, that if within the space of three moneths, from thence next ensuing this advertisement, either any of them do attempt to offend in the like disobedience, and be therefore convicted by the notorious evidence of 25 the facte, or shall continue without reconciling of themselves, and promising and subscribing their conformitie to the lawes and orders agreeable, to be then deprived "ipso facto" of all ther spiritual promotions; in which case it may be lawful in due order of lawe to all patrons and 30 doners of all and singuler the same spirituall promotions, or any of them, to presente or collate to the same, as though the person or persons so defending were dead; after which like sort all other ordinaries, after notice given unto all persons within their jurisdictions of the 35 lawes, injunctions, and other orders established for the same conformitie, I think will follow in order the same example, whereby we trust all contention and just offence amongst the quenes subjects may at the last be suppressed, peace, and quietness in unities of doctrine, and uniformities of exterine behaviours recovered, the quenes majesties authoritie revered, her lawes obediently regarded, to the promotion of the truth of the gospell, and to the glory of Almighty God, to whom for this tyme I committ you in all grace and vertue as my self. Articles to be enquired of in the metropolitane visitation of the most reverend father in God Matthew, by the providence of God archbishop of Canterbury, primate of all England, and metropolitan, in al and singular cathedral and collegiate churches within his province of Canterbury.

I. FIRST, Whether your dean, archdeacons, and other dignities of your church be resydent or not? whether they be graduates? what other promotions or livings

Articles to be enquired of] This visitation was more especially directed against the diocese of Norwich, which was reported to be in great disorder, owing partly to an old custom of allowing seven years to intervene between the bishop's visitations, and partly to the known forbearance of bishop Parkhurst; of whom as early as in August 1561 secretary Cecil wrote to the archbishop in the following words (Strype, Parker, vol. i. p. 214): "The bishop of Norwich is blamed even of the

every one of them hath? whether every one of them be ministers or not? whether they use semely or priestly garments, according as they are commanded by the quenes majesties injunctions to doe?

II. Item, Whether your prebendaries be resydent, or how many of them? where every one of the rest be? what be their names? what livings they have? what best sort for his remissness in ordering his clergy. He winketh at schismatics and anabaptists, as I am informed." The articles themselves, although intended primarily for the diocese of Norwich, were strictly applicable to the general condition of the church, and afford evidence of the following facts connected with the progress of its history; that puritanism, and not popery, was now the opponent to be dreaded; that the contest with puritanism was now no longer respecting forms and ceremonies, but principles and doctrines; that opinions were inculcated adverse to good morals and destructive of church authority; and lastly, that the disorders existing in the church had seriously affected the duties owing to the state. (Com. Strype, Parker, vol. i. p. 491. Neal's Purit. vol. i. p. 156.) The first occasion, after holding many private meetings, on which the nonconformists assembled together in a distinct apartment, in order to have worship and a communion after the ritual of Geneva, was on the 19th of June 1567. Neal's Purit. vol. i. p. 161. Collier's Hist. vol. ii. p. 511. In June 1568 Bp. Grindal writes to Bullinger respecting them in the following manner; (Zurich Letters, p. 119.) "Nostra controversia vestiaria, de qua scribis, ad tempus deferbuerat; sed hyeme elapsa recrudit, idque opera quorundam qui magis fervidi sunt, quam aut docti aut pia prudentia præditi. Cives Londinenses nonnulli infimi ordinis, adjunctis quatuor aut quinque ministris, qui neque judicio neque eruditione pollebant, apertam defectionem a nobis fecerunt, atque aliquando in domibus privatis, aliquando in agris, nonnunquam etiam et in navibus, suos habuerunt conventus, et sacramenta administrarunt. Sed et ministros seniores et diaconos suo more ordinarunt; quosdam etiam, qui ab eorum ecclesia defecerant, excommunicarunt. D. Queen Elizabeth's and the archbishop of Canterbury's orders for enquiry what strangers were come into the realm for pretence of religion.—Reg. Parker i. fol. 270. b.

Queen Elizabeth's and the] This was the third instance in the present reign of inquiries being made respecting foreigners, and it was rendered necessary by the dangerous opinions, affecting not merely the doctrines of the church, but also the foundations of the civil government, which were entertained by anabaptists and others who fled from²⁰ the persecutions in the Netherlands. There were however many churches of foreigners in London under the superintendance and protection of bishop Grindal. Strype, Parker, vol. i. p. 521. Grindal, p. 198. Ann. vol. i. P. ii. p. 271.

other things we will and require you to use all good diligence and provision, by the meanes of the bysshopes and ordinaries under you, as well in places exempte as otherwise, that no manner of strangers be suffered to remayn within any part of our dominions in your province, but such as shall be knowne or commonly reputed to be of Christian conversation, and meate to lyve under our protection, according to the treatis of entercours betwixt us and other princes our neighbours. Thes shall be therfore in the quenes majesties name to will and require your lordship, that having regard (as I doubt not but you will) to the execution of the quenes majesties said lettres within your own diocess, you do also forthwith signifie 15 the tenor thereof to all and singuler my brethren, the other bishops and other ordinaries within my province, where you shall thinke any confluence of strangers to be; willing and commanding them, and every of them, in the quenes majesties name, without delaye to cause the tenor 20 of her majesties said lettres to be executed through every of ther several diocesses and jurisdictions, as well in places exempt as not exempt, as to them and every of them shall appertayne. The archbishop's letter to the bishop of London about the provision of arms to be made by the clergy.—Reg. Parker, i. fol. 278. a.

The archbishop's letter] The extensive conspiracy created by the duke of Norfolk, followed by the rebellion which broke out in the north under the earls of Northumberland and Westmoreland, and the several attempts that were made for the liberation of the Scottish queen, occasioned great alarm at the court of Elizabeth, and led to every possible measure of prudence and self-defence. "I find," says Strype "in one of the archbishop's MSS. in the Bene't college library, that this following was the way propounded of laying the charge of armour on the clergy.

And thus I byd your lordship most hartely well to fare as my self. From my house at 20 Lambehith the 6th of May, M.D.LXIX.

Whereas the lordes of the quenes majesties most honorable pryve counsaile have geven commaundment for the provision of armour and other furniture by the clergie of this realm, according to such order and rates, 25 as was used in the tyme of the late king Philippe and queen Mary, the several rates and order then used in that behalf are hereafter particularly specified; videlicet

That every one of the clergie having landes, or possessions of estate of enheritage of freholde, shall provide 30 and find, and be chargeble with armour, horses, and other furniture in such sort, and in manner, and forme, as every temporall man is charged, by reason of his landes and possessions, by vertue of the statute made in the fourth and fifth yeres of the reignes of the late king 35 Philippe and queen Mary.

Item, That every one of the said clergie, having benefices, spiritual promotions or pensions, the clere value whereof, either by themselves, or joyned together, do amounte to the clere yerely value of xxx*l.* or upwards, shall be bound and charged to provide, have, and maynteyne armour, and other provision requisite, according to such proportion and rate, as the temporaltie are bound and charged by the said statute, by reason of their moveable goodes.

Item, If any of the clergie of this realm have both temporall landes and possessions, and also spiritual promotions, he shall be charged with armour and other provision according to the greatest rate of one of them, and not with both.

Letter of the council to the archbishop of Canterbury about the recovering the discipline of the church.—Ex originali in Sylloge Epist. annex. Tito Livio Foro-Juliensi edit. Hearn. p. 179. seq.

AFTER our very heartie commendations to your good lordship. The queen's majesty of late in conference

Letter of the council] Strype, Parker, vol. i. p. 557. The earnest admonitions given in this letter on the subject of preaching, were occasioned not merely by the great exertions made equally at this period by papists and puritans, and the danger in which the civil government was then placed, but also by the recent silencing of many of the most active preachers on account of their nonconformity. The severe tone of reprehension adopted towards the bishops, was in accordance with the general spirit of the times, which found matter of accusation against them in various causes, but more especially in the coarse treatment they experienced from the court, in the odium they contracted from the queen's extreme love of discipline, and the unreasonable impatience that was felt at the slow progress of general improvement. This spirit is abundantly shewn in the preamble of the statute 13 Eliz. c. 10, which charges ecclesiastics with the spoliation of church property. It was also shewn in the persecution sustained by archbishop Sandys in his northern province, and in the frequent appeals that were made by the bishops to Cecil and Walsingham for support and protection. And doubtless there were cases in which severe reprehension was fully deserved; for it is on record that bishop Scambler was translated from Peterborough to Norwich on account of the readiness he had shewn to assist in the plunder of the church. (Wharton's Observ. on Strype's Cranm. p. 1055.) But the just and honest view of the subject may be given in the following words of lord Bacon, written near the close of Elizabeth's reign. "It is the double policy of the spiritual enemy either by counterfeit holiness of life to establish and authorize errors, or by corruption of manners to discredit and draw in question truth and things lawful. This concerneth my lords the bishops, unto whom I am witness to myself that I stand affected as I 30 with us upon the state of this her realm, among other things meet to be reformed, is moved to think, that universally in the ecclesiastical government the care and diligence, that properly belongeth to the office of bishops, and other ecclesiastical prelates and pastors of this church of England, is of late years so diminished and decayed, as no small number of her subjects, partly for lack of diligent teaching and information, partly for lack of correction and reformation, are entered either into dangerous errors, or into a manner of life of contempt or libertie, without use or exercise of any rite of the church, openly forbearing to resort to their parish churches, where they ought to use common prayers, and to learn the will of God by hearing of sermons, and consequently receive the holy sacraments. Of the increase of which lamentable disorders her majestie conceiveth great grief and offence, and therefore hath expresly charged us to enquire the truth hereof by all good means possible, and to provide speedily for the reformation and remedie hereof. Whereupon according to her majesties charge, and as we find it very requisite of our own dueties, as well towards Almighty God, as to her majestie and our countrey, we have entered into a further consideration hereof; and though we find a concurrencie of many causes, whereupon such general disorders and contempts have of late years grown and encreased, (the remedie ought. No contradiction hath supplanted in me the reverence that I owe to their calling; neither hath any detraction or calumny imbedded mine opinion of their persons. I know some of them, whose names are most pierced with these accusations, to be men of great virtues; although the indisposition of the times, and the want of correspondence many ways, is enough to frustrate the best endeavours in the edifying of the church. And for the rest, generally, I can condemn none. I am no judge of them that belong to so high a Master: neither have I 'two witnesses.' And I know it is truly said of fame, 'Pariter facta atque infecta canebat.'" Advertisement on Church Controversies, Works, vol. ii. p. 507.

whereof we mean to seek and procure by as many other good meanes as we can,) yet certainly we find no one cause hereof greater, nor more manifest, than an universal oversight and negligence (for less we cannot term it) of the bishops of the realm, who have not only peculiar possessions, to find, provide, and maintain officers, but have also jurisdiction over all inferior ministers, pastors, and curates, by them to enquire or be informed of these manner of contempts and disorders, and by teaching and correction to reform them; or if the offenders should for any respect appear incorrigible, thereof to make due information to her majestie, as the supream governor under God of the whole realme. And surely, though we know, that some of the bishops of the realme are to be more commended than some other, for preaching, teaching, and visiting of their diocese, yea and for good hospitality, and other good examples of life; yet at this time doubting, that a great part of the realm in sundrie places is touched with the infection of these disorders, tho' some more, some less, and (as we fear) no bishoprick fully free: we have therefore necessarily concluded to notifie to every one of the bishops alike this her majestie's carefullness and desire to have her realm herein reformed, and for that purpose at this present, to seek the understanding of every diocese in certain points thereafter following. And therefore we will and require your lordship in her majestie's name, that first ye will earnestly conceive, and thankfully allow, of this her majestie's godly disposition, and next that yow do circumspectly and as quietly as yow may (without any manner of proceeding, likely to breed public offence) enquire or cause to be enquired by such, as are faithful officers, and not dissemblers, what persons they be, and of what qualitie, degree, and name, that have not of late time resorted to their parish churches within your diocese, or have not used the common prayers, according to the lawes of the realm, or have not at usual times received the holy sacrament, and how long they have forborn. And further also we require to be advertised, what ecclesiastical public officers yow have under your lordship in your diocese, who they be, what their names and degrees, ordained to see to the execution of the laws of the church. Likewise what preachers yow have, properly for the more part conversant with yourself in your houshold, and what other preachers residing abroad in your diocese, and what ecclesiastical livings every of them hath, with the values thereof, or what other stipends they have, wherewith they have any maintenance or sustentation to continue in their functions. Likewise we require yow by authority of these our letters to conferr with the dean and chapter of your cathedral church, and with the heads of any other collegiate church in your diocese, or with any other persons having any peculiar jurisdiction within your diocese, and cause them to certifie distinctly by writing, what number of prebendaries, canons, and preachers they have, which do reside within the said churches and jurisdictions, and how many do not reside, and how many of them do, and not use to preach, and what be their names and degrees, and in like sort the names and degrees of them, that have any sustentation in their churches to preach, and yet do not reside, nor do preach. And likewise we desire to be advertised, what churches or places ordained to have common prayer, are by any meanes presently void of curates, and in whose default the same happeneth, and in what sort yow think the same may be best remedied. And whilst yow shall be occupied in the inquisition hereof, wherein we would have yow use all good diligence; we heartily and earnestly require your lordship, as yow would be counted worthy of your calling, to employ all your care and industry in procuring more diligent preaching and teaching within your diocese, as well by your self, as by all others having the gift to preach : and therein to use all charitable means by diligent instruction and faithful teaching and example of life, to stay the good, faithful, and obedient subjects in their duties, and to induce and perswade others to return from their disorders and errors, so as all parties may observe their duties in the public and open service of Almighty God, according to his ordinance, and as by the common order of the realm is for God's honour established. And whatsoever your lordship shall think meet and needful to be granted or devised for your furder assistance, thereof to advertise us, whom yow shall find ready to add and satisfie yow as farr forth, as we shall find in our powers reasonable, either by our selves, or by meanes to her majestie, whom we perceive earnestly disposed to have the glory of God increase, by the due reverence of all her subjects in his service, according to his blessed word and commandment. Damnatio et excommunicatio Elizabethæ reginæ Angliæ, eique adhærentium, cum aliarum pœnarum adjectione, per papam Pium quintum.—Ex Bullario Romano, vol. ii. p. 229. ed. 1638.

Damnatio et excommunicatio] This bull bears date the 27th of April, 1570. It was soon known and read (although very privately) in England; for on the 10th of July in the same year bishop Cox wrote to Bullinger, requesting him to reply to three of the propositions contained in it. (Hess, Catal. vol. ii. p. 215.) On the 7th of August bishop Jewel wrote to Bullinger on the same subject, and sent him a copy of the bull. (Hess, Cat. vol. ii. p. 215. Strype, Ann. vol. i. P. ii. p. 579. Zurich Lett. p. 229.) On the 2nd of March 1571, Felton affixed the bull to the gates of the bishop of London's palace. (Strype, Ann. vol. ii. P. i. p. 23.) On the same day bishop Jewel in writing to Bullinger respecting the bull, says that the attempts of the pope are so completely exposed, "ut nunc a pueris rideantur." (Hess, Cat. vol. ii. p. 218.) On the 27th of July 1571, Hilles in a letter to Bullinger says that the confutation that he had sent to England in MS. was then in the press, together with his letter addressed to the archbishop of York and the bishops of Ely and Salisbury. (Hess, Cat. vol. ii. p. 219. Zur. Lett. p. 243.) In the same year Day the printer informs Bullinger that the work, as printed by himself and corrected by bishop Cox, was ready for circulation, and sends him several copies of it. (Hess, Cat. vol. ii. p. 222.) The bishops at first had great doubts whether they should be acting wisely in publishing the answer to a paper which was not very generally known. That answer was however read by the queen herself, and finally published in English as well as Latin; the queen's approval being conveyed to Bullinger by archbishop Grindal in January 1572, and by bishop Cox in the following month. (Hess, Cat. vol. ii. pp. 222. 224.) Comp. Strype, Ann. vol. i. P. ii. pp. 354. 579. Parker, in cælo et in terra potestas, unam sanctam, catholicam, et apostolicam ecclesiam, extra quam nulla est salus, uni soli in terris, videlicet apostolorum principi Petro, Petrique successori Romano pontifici, in potestatis plenitudine tradidit gubernandam. Hunc unum super omnes gentes⁵ et omnia regna principem constituit, qui evellat, destruat, dissipet, disperdat, plantet, et ædificet, ut fidelem populum, mutuae charitatis nexu constrictum, in unitate Spiritus contineat, salvumque et incolumem suo exhibeat salvatori.

Quo quidem in munere obeundo, nos ad prædictæ ecclesiae gubernacula Dei benignitate vocati, nullum laborem intermittimus, omni opera contententes, ut ipsa unitas et catholica religio (quam illius auctor ad probandam suorum fidem et correctionem nostram, tantis procellis conflictari permisit) integra conservetur. Sed impiorum numerus tantum potentia invaluit, ut nullus jam in orbe locus sit relictus, quem illi pessimis doctrinis corrumpere non tentarint; adnitente inter cæteros flagitiorum serva Elizabetha, prætensa Angliæ regina, ad quam veluti ad²⁰ asylum omnium infestissimi profugium invenerunt. Hæc eadem, regno occupato, supremi ecclesiae capitis locum in omni Anglia, ejusque præcipuam auctoritatem atque jurisdictionem monstruose sibi usurpans, regnum ipsum jam tum ad fidem catholicam et bonam frugem reductum,²⁵ rursus in miserum exitium revocavit.

Nos multiplicantibus aliis atque aliis super alias impietatibus et facinoribus, et præterea fidelium persecutione, religionisque afflictione, impulsu et opera dictæ Elizabethæ quotidie magis ingravescente, quoniam illius animum ita obfirmatum atque induratum intelligimus, ut non modo pias catholicorum principum de sanitate et conversione preces, monitionesque contempserit, sed ne hujus quidem sedis ad ipsam hac de causa nuncios in Angliam trajicere permiserit; ad arma justitiæ contra eam de necessitate conversi, dolorem lenire non possumus, quod adducamur in unam animadvertere, cujus majores de republica christiana tantopere meruere. Illius itaque auctoritate suffulti, qui nos in hoc supremo justitiæ throno, licet tanto oneri impares, voluit collocare, de apostolicæ potestatis plenitudine declaramus prædictam Elizabetham hæreticam et hæreticorum fautricem, eique adhærentes in prædictis, anathematis sententiam incurrisse, esseque a Christi corporis unitate præcisos; quin etiam ipsam prætenso regni prædicti jure, nec non 5 omni et quocunque dominio, dignitate, privilegioque privatam.

Et item proceres, subditos et populos dicti regni, ac cæteros omnes, qui illi quomodocunque juraverunt, a juramento hujusmodi, ac omni prorsus dominii, fidelitatis, 10 et obsequii debito perpetuo absolutos, prout nos illos præsentium auctoritate absolvimus; et privamus eandem Elizabetham prætenso jure regni, aliisque omnibus supradictis; præcipimusque et interdiciamus universis et singulis proceribus, subditis, populis, et aliis prædictis, 15 ne illi, ejusve monitis, mandatis, et legibus audeant obedire. Qui secus egerint, eos simili anathematis sententia innodamus.

Quia vero difficile nimis esset, præsentibus quocunque illis opus erit perferre, volumus, ut earum exempla no- 20 tarii publici manu et prælati ecclesiastici, ejusve curiæ sigillo obsignata, eandem illam prorsus fidem in judicio et extra illud, ubique gentium faciant, quam ipsæ præsentibus facerent, si essent exhibitæ vel ostensæ. Queen Elizabeth's letter to the archbishop for uniformity in church matters.—Strype, Parker, p. 330.

MOST reverend father in God, right trusty and right well beloved, we greet you well. Where we required you, as the metropolitan of our realm, and as the principal person in our commission for causes ecclesiastical, to have good regard, that such uniform order in the divine service and rules of the church might be duly kept, as by the laws in that behalf is provided, and by our injunctions also is declared and explained; and that you should call unto you for your assistance certain 10 Queen Elizabeth's letter] Bishops Cox and Horne had uniformly acted in accordance with archbishop Parker, and their families were closely united with his by intermarriages. At this period bishop Cox was released from attendance on the court of high commission in London, having a more important charge committed to him in receiving the bishop of Rosse, an agent of the Scottish queen, for safe custody in his palace at Ely. It was not easy to find another bishop to supply his place, who was well qualified to act on the commission, and equally possessed the confidence of the queen's government. But bishop Sandys, lately raised to the see of London, was a man of much resolution, and stood high in the estimation of Leicester and Cecil; and bishop Jewel, who was earnest in any cause that he undertook, had lately acted and written with great spirit against the non-conformists, and was a person whose high reputation would be of service in promoting the measures of the court. These were accordingly appointed; but the latter did not act on the commission, as he died on 25 the 22d of September, in about a month from the time of his appointment. Strype, Parker, vol. ii. p. 7. Ann. vol. ii. P. i. p. 37. Parker, vol. i. p. 369. Ann. vol. i. P. ii. p. 133. Wordsworth's Eccl. Biog. vol. iv. p. 52.

of our bishops, to reform the abuses and disorders of sundry persons, seeking to make alteration therein; we understanding that with the help of the reverend fathers in God, the bishops of Winton and Ely, and some other, ye have well entered into some convenient reformation of things 5 disordered, and that now the said bishop of Ely is by our commandment repaired into his diocese, whereby ye shall want his assistance; we minding earnestly to have a perfect reformation of all abuses, attempted to deform the uniformity prescribed by our laws and injunctions, 10 and that none shall be suffered to decline either on the left or on the right hand from the direct line limited by authority of our said laws and injunctions, do earnestly by our authority royal will and charge you, by all means lawful, to proceed herein as you have begun. And for 15 your assistance we will, that you shall, by authority hereof, and in our name, send for the bishops of London and Sarum, and communicate these our letters with them, and straitly charge them to assist you from time to time, between this and the month of October, to do 20 all manner of things requisite to reform such abuses as afore are mentioned, in whomsoever ye shall find the same. And if you shall find in any of the said bishops (which we trust ye shall not) or in any other, whose aid you shall require, any remissness to aid and assist you, 25 if upon your admonition the same shall not be amended, we charge you to advertise us. For we mean not that any persons, having credit by their vocation to aid you, shall for any respect forbear or become remiss in this service, tending to the observation of our laws, injunc- 30 tions, and commandments. Given at our manor of Hatfield the 20th day of August, in the 13th year of our reign.

WHAT for the ministration of the communion bread, they should not deliver it unto the people into their mouths, but into their hands; nor should use at the ministration of the communion, any gestures, rites, or ceremonies, not appointed by the book of common prayer; as crossing, or breathing over the sacramental bread or wine; nor any shewing or lifting up of the same to the people, to be by them worshipped or adored, nor any such like; nor should use any oil, or chrism, tapers, spittle, or any other popish ceremony in the ministration of the sacrament of baptism.

Edm. Grindall archbishop] These are only a part [the chief and most remarkable] of the injunctions issued by archbishop Grindal at his visitation, which began on the 15th of May, 1571. It appears from them, as we also know from other sources, that his province was more addicted to popery than to puritanism. That he was dissatisfied with the state of his province is clear from a letter written by him to Bullinger soon afterwards (Jan. 25, 1572), in which he gives a description of his new office, and adds a strong wish “Eboracenses suos tam bene in vera religione institutos invenisset, quam suos Londinenses et Essexenses successori suo reliquit.” (Hess, Cat. vol. ii. p. 224.) His forbearance on points of non-conformity is shewn by his silence respecting kneeling at the eucharist, and the use of vestments in the church, or priestly apparel out of it; as these were ordinances, against which the puritans were most resolute, and to which he had himself assented, when he joined with the other bishops in issuing the Advertisements, (No. LXV.) Strype, Grind. p. 246. These injunctions may be seen at full length in the edition of abb. Grindal's Works, published by the Parker Society, 1843.

None to be admitted to the communion being above fourteen years old, that could not say by heart the Ten Commandments, and Lord's Prayer; nor none being fourteen years old and upwards, that could not say by heart the Catechism. 5

That they should marry no person, nor ask the banns of matrimony of any, unless they could say the Catechism by heart, or would recite the same to the minister.

That they should not church any unmarried woman, which had been gotten with child out of lawful matrimony; except it were upon some Sunday or holy-day; and except either she, before childbed, had done penance, or at her churching did acknowledge her fault before the congregation.

The commination to be read three times a year, besides Ashwednesday; viz. on one of the two Sundays before Easter, on one of the two Sundays before Pentecost, and on one of the two Sundays before Christmas. 15

The articles of religion to be read twice every year, viz. on some Sunday within a month after Easter and Michaelmas. 20

The queen's injunctions to be read in time of divine service, in churches and chapels, once every quarter; and the archbishop's injunctions once every half year.

No minister (being unmarried) to keep in his house any woman under the age of sixty years; except she be their mother, aunt, sister, or niece. 25

For the laity.

No person, not being a minister, deacon, or at the least tolerated by the ordinary in writing, should attempt to supply the office of a minister, in saying of divine service openly in the church or chapel. 30

The prayers and other service appointed for the ministration of the holy communion to be said and done at the communion table; except the epistle and gospel, 35

which should be read in the said pulpit (i. e. where reading was before appointed) or stall; and also the Ten Commandments, when there was no communion.

All altars to be pulled down to the ground, and the altar stones defaced and bestowed to some common use; and rood lofts altered. The materials to be sold to the use of the church.

At burials, no ringing any handbells; no months minds, or yearly commemoration of the dead; nor any other superstitious ceremonies to be observed or used, which tended either to the maintenance of prayer for the dead^a, or of the popish purgatory.

The minister not to pause or stay between the morning prayer, litany, and communion; but to continue and say the morning prayer, litany, or communion, or the service appointed to be said (when there was no communion) together, without any intermission: to the intent the people might continue together in prayer, and hearing the word of God; and not depart out of the church, during all the time of the whole divine service.

All above fourteen years of age to receive in their own churches the communion three times at the least in the year.

No pedlar or other to set his wares to sell in church-porch or churchyard, nor any where else on holy-days or Sundays, while any part of divine service was in doing, or while any sermon was in preaching.

No innkeeper, victualler, or tipler should admit in his house or backside any to eat, drink, or play at cards, tables, or bowls in time of common prayer, preaching, or reading of homilies, on the Sundays and holy-days; and no shops to be set open on Sundays and holy-days in time of common prayer, &c. and that in fairs and common markets upon the Sundays, there be no shewing of any wares, before all the morning service and the sermon (if there be any) be done.

No persons to wear beads, or pray either in Latin or English upon beads or knots, or any other like superstitious thing; nor to burn any candle in the church superstitiously upon the feast of the Purification; nor superstitiously to make upon themselves the sign of the cross, when they first enter into any church to pray; nor to say the "De profundis" for the dead; nor rest at any cross in carrying any corps to burying; nor to leave any little crosses of wood there.

Perambulation to be used by the people, for viewing the bounds of their parishes, in the days of the Rogation, commonly called Cross week, or Gang days. That the minister use none other ceremonies, than to say the two Psalms beginning, "Benedic anima mea Domino," that is to say, the ciii. and civ. Psalms, and such sentences of scripture, as be appointed by the queen's injunctions, with the litany and suffrages following the same, and reading one homily already devised and set forth for that purpose; without wearing any surplice, carrying of banners or handbells, or staying at crosses, or such like popish ceremonies.

The ministers and churchwardens not to suffer any lords of misrule^b, or summer lords or ladies, or any dis-

^b any lords of misrule] "These lords," says Stow, "began their rule at All-Hallow eve, and continued the same till the morrow after the feast of the Purification; in which space there were fine and subtle disguisings, masks and mummeries." Survey of London, p. 79. The practice forbidden in this article is stated at length by Stubs in his "Anatomie of Abuses," (A. D. 1595,) p. 107, in the following words: "The wilde heades of the parish, flocking together, chuse them a graund captaine of mischiefe, whom they innoble with the title of my Lord of Misrule. . . . in this sorte they go to the church, (though the minister be at prayer or preaching,) dauncing and swinging their handkerchiefs over their heads like devils incarnate, with such a confused noise that no

guised persons or others, at Christmas, or at May games, or any minstrels, morris-dancers, or others, at rush-bearings or at any other times, to come irreverently into any church, or chapel, or churchyard, and there dance, or play 5 any unseemly parts with scoffs, jests, wanton gestures, or ribald talk, namely in the time of divine service, or of any sermon.

The parish clerks were required to be able to read the first lesson, the epistle, and the psalms, with answers to 10 the suffrages, as was used.

Then after this, aboute the church they go againe and againe, and so fourthe into the churche yard, where they have commonly their summer-halls, their bowers, arbours and banquetting houses. . . . and thus they spend the sabbath day." The rush-bearing was the feast which grew

Tenor injunctionum domini Matthæi, archiepiscopi Cantuar. in metropolitana et ordinaria visitatione cathedralis ecclesiæ Christi Cantuar. die septimo Octob. anno MDLXXIII.—Ex Strype's Life of Parker, app. p. 168.

IN Dei nomine, amen. Nos Matthæus, providentia divina Cant. archiepiscopus, totius Angliæ primas et metropolitanus, necnon ecclesiæ Christi Cantuarien. visitator, atque ordinarius rite et legitime constitutus, ad honorem, commodum, et conservationem omnium jurium, libertatum, et privilegiorum dictæ ecclesiæ, injunctiones, ordinationes, monitiones, et interpretationes sequent. hac nostra ordinaria atque metropolitana visitatione, quam vicesimo tertio die mensis Septembris, anno Domini MDLXXIII. inchoavimus, et ulterius ex certis, justis, et rationabilibus causis animum nostrum specialiter moventibus, prorogand. esse duximus, pendente, vobis decano et capitulo ecclesiæ Christi Cant. prædict. necnon prædicatoribus, canonicis minoribus, vicariis, cæterisque ejusdem ecclesiæ officariis, et ministris quibuscunque, quatenus vos omnes et singulos concernunt, damus, ministramus, et promulgamus, easque a vobis omnibus et singulis, quatenus vos concernunt, firmiter observari ac 5 perimpleri, sub pœnis in eisdem sigillatim contentis, virtute obedientiæ vestræ canonicæ, vobis de jure, et statutis vestris debet. mandamus atque præcipimus.

I. Inprimis Volumus, mandamus, injungimus, atque præcipimus, ut statuta et ordinationes ab inclytissimo 10 rege Henrico octavo, hujus ecclesiæ Christi-Cant. fundatore, edita, et singula in eis contenta, a vobis omnibus et singulis, quatenus vos concernunt, fideliter et inviolabiliter conserventur; si modo verbo Dei, aut legibus et statutis hujus regni Angliæ non repugnent; quibus ita 15 repugnantibus, neminem vestrum teneri atque ligari pronunciamus, et interpretamur. Et insuper, ad meliorem dictorum statutorum verbo Dei, legibusque ac statutis hujus regni consonorum observationem, prohibemus, ne decanus pro tempore existens, nec aliquis canonicus, seu 20 quisquam aliquo beneficio, salario, vel stipendio in dicta ecclesia gaudens, per se, vel interpositam personam, deinceps directe vel indirecte, gratias, literas, dispensationes, seu aliquid ad abrogationem, vel derogationem dictorum statutorum, quacunque auctoritate impetret, 25 obtineat aut procuret, vel impetrari, obtineri seu procurari faciat, impetratum, obtentum, seu procuratum accipiat, admittat, ratum vel gratum habeat, aut quocunque modo alleget; sed dispositioni, ordinationi et reformationi dictorum statutorum se submittat, iisque in omni- 30 bus, quæ eum tangunt, pareat et obtemperet, nisi forte hujusmodi gratiæ, literæ, et dispensationes, ex mero regni majestatis motu certa que scientia, non ad alicujus persuasionem atque sollicitationem, libere atque sponte concedantur. In quo casu is, in cujus gratiam et favo- 35 rem hujusmodi aliquid concedatur, juramentum coram

sumptibus prosequendarum, novæ ac sumptuosæ ædificationes, officiariorum majorum seu superiorum dictæ ecclesiæ electiones et admissiones, ac cætera cuncta ecclesiæ negotia, in quibus magis vertitur ecclesiæ præjudicium, non alio tempore, modo, aut forma, nisi in duobus generalibus capitulis per statuta prædicta limitatis, proponantur, tractentur, et concludantur, sub pœna amotionis perpetuæ hiis, qui contrarium attemptant.

IV. Item, Quoniam decanum et capitulum dictæ ecclesiæ maxime convenit, ut bonos et frugi patresfamilias omnia bona mobilia et immobilia dictæ ecclesiæ ad utilitatem, commodum, et honorem ejusdem conservare, nec ab ecclesia ad privatos usus convertere, aut aliter dissipare; idcirco volumus, ne ulla maneria, rectoriæ, terræ, vel possessiones dictæ ecclesiæ, antehac communi vel capitulari decreto ad provisionem decani, canonicorum, vel aulæ communis, aut scholarium mensæ assignatæ vel in posterum assignandæ in præjudicium hujusmodi provisionis, ullo prætextu, neque bosci ac sylvæ dictæ ecclesiæ non dimitti solit. ullo modo dimittantur aut locentur, seu sic dimittatur eorum aliquod, sed ad hospitalitatem decani et canonicorum suorumque successorum, et mensas minorum canonicorum atque scholarium reficiendas, et usus ecclesiæ necessarios, fideliter custodiantur et conserventur: nec decanus, aut canonicorum aliquis hujusmodi damnosis, nec solitis, sed detestandis dimissionibus auctoritatem vel consensum præbeat, sub pœna et sententia suspensionis ab eorum respective officiis, suffragiis, et emolumentis, donec nostro, aut successorum nostrorum judicio, pro damnis ea occasione ecclesiæ illatis, commode satisfecerint; quam in eos, et eorum quemlibet in hac parte delinquentes et culpabiles, extunc prout exnunc, et exnunc prout extunc, ferimus et promulgamus in hiis scriptis.

V. Item, Quoniam magnæ semper contentiones et controversiæ inter decanum atque præbendarios, dum

suum privatum commodum affectantes, maneria, rectorias, terras, et tenementa quamplurima dictæ ecclesiæ inter se ad firmam dimitterent, atque locarent, necnon fines, quos in cista communi reponi æquius fuit, inter se
 10 eadem contentio. judicio ecclesia prædicta magis pinguescat, et quiescat in

VI. Item, Quoniam privatum singulorum commodum ita communes ecclesiæ facultates exhaustit, ut in quo jam statu ejus res sitæ sint, fere sit incognitum; volumus, ut 15 singulis anni quartis, decanus, vel eo absente, vicedecanus, canonicis ad hoc legitime vocatis ac præsentibus, vel alias contumaciter absentibus, in loco ubi computus fieri consuevit, a receptore atque thesaurario rationem exigat singulorum receptorum et expensarum, indeque instrumentum in membrana describi ab auditore faciat; pecuniam-20 que receptam, ac residuam, nec ad præsentem ecclesiæ usum necessariam, receptis rationibus in cista communi recondi faciat, ibique ad magnos, utiles, et extraordinarios ecclesiæ usus custodiri.

VII. Item, Volumus, ut omnia capitularia decreta a fine
 30 ciamus, ac pro cassis, irritis, invalidis, atque nullis pronunciamus atque declaramus, et a quoquam perimpleri aut observari, vel executioni demandari, sub pœna et sententia suspensionis antefatæ districtè prohibemus.

cantorum aliquis a matutinis aut vespertinis precibus, a lectionibus aut communionibus abfuerit, aut tardus, post mediam nempe earum partem peractam, ingrediatur, pro singulis in hujusmodi negligentia vicibus, denario communi mensæ applicando mulctetur; qui ad subcantoris relationem, de delinquentium stipendiis, ad usum prædictum a thesaurario detrahatur, et reservabitur. Absentiam autem pauperiorum, aliorumque ministrorum dictæ ecclesiæ, eorumque tarditatem in divinis officiis, lectionibus, atque communionibus, decanus, aut eo absente, vicedecanus pœna arbitraria, juxta modum et qualitatem absentiæ, ac tarditatis, castigabit.

IX. Item, Volumus et mandamus, ut majores canonici singuli suis vicibus in majoribus diebus festis, quos duplices appellant, in propriis personis divina celebrent, juxta statutorum prædictorum in ea parte exigentiam.

X. Item, Quia de jure eligendi et admittendi canonicos minores, vicarios, cantores, scholares et choristas inter decanum et capitulum adhuc ambigitur, volumus, ad sopiendam ea de re discordiam, ut pendente nostra visitatione hujusmodi electiones et admissiones cessent, donec ea ambiguitas regia auctoritate, vel nostra interpretatione tollatur et declaretur.

XI. Item, Ut scholaribus tam in diæta, quam in literarum incremento deinceps melius prospiciatur, volumus, ut omnes deinceps admittendi scholares, aliquem ex præbendariis tutorem seu curatorem habeant, qui pro eis ecclesiæ caveat et provideat in necessariis; et ut singulis anni quartis per decanum, vel eo absente, vicedecanum assignentur ex præbendariis duo, qui omnes scholares sigillatim examinent, et quomodo in bonis literis moribusque profecerint, explorent, et cultum habitumque corporis aspiciant, et de hiis, quæ in eorum aliquibus, vel eorum aliquo reformanda cognoverint, tutores seu curatores suos admoneant. Et si scholares a tutoribus seu curatoribus suis sæpius moniti non se correxerint,

XII. Item, Volumus, ut singulis anni quartis, eodem tempore, quo de scholaribus inquisitio fit, ab eisdem præbendariis, qui de scholaribus inquirant, de senescallo, opsonatore, pincernis, cocis communis aulae, acriter et diligenter cognoscatur, et inquiratur, eorumque computus, ac rationes fideliter examinentur. Et si de fraude semel convicti fuerint, vel de mala officiorum munerumve suorum administratione bis a prædictis inquisitoribus admoniti non se correxerint, pro tertio delicto sint ipso facto amoti et exclusi.

XIII. Item, Vetamus atque prohibemus, ne senescalli, opsonatores, pincernæ et coci, cæterique in hac ecclesia inferiores ministri officia sua per substitutos exercent, sed ipsi in eis diligentes, seduli, et assidui sint, sub pœna amissionis unius anni salarii, deinde, nisi moniti se correxerint, amotionis perpetuæ; nisi ex gravi et urgente causa ejusmodi substitutio et substituta persona a decano et capitulo approbata fuerit.

XIV. Item, Volumus et mandamus, ut omnes introitus atque exitus in ambitum et præcinctum ecclesiae, et ex eisdem solummodo per communes et antiquas duas portas pateant, nec ulli per aliam viam exire vel introire liceat; et ut privatae aliarum ædium fores atque januæ, fenestræ, viaque et perspectus per communes parietes in ambitum et præcinctum ecclesiae intromissi, ante festum Omnium Sanctorum prox. ocludantur et obstruantur; nec deinceps hujusmodi januæ, fores, et fenestræ fieri permittantur: volumusque de executione hujus nostri mandati per literas certificadorias decani et capituli auctenticas in mansione nostra Lamethana fieri octavo die post prædictum festum Omnium Sanctorum, sub pœna et sententia suspensionis antedictæ.

XV. Item, Ut non modo ecclesia, sed singula ejus membra in eleemosynis dandis larga, et in pauperes

benefica sint, volumus et monemus, ut decano, canonicis, prædicatoribus, vicariis, cantoribusque convocatis, consilium de conferenda et distribuenda eleemosyna ante festum Omnium Sanctorum prædict. hoc modo ineatur, ut decanus iiil. vis. viiid. singuli præbendar. xls. prædicatores singuli vis. viiid. vicarii singuli iiis. ivd. cantores singuli xvid. cum decem libris ex communi ærario ecclesiæ, inter pauperes in civitate et suburbiis Cantuar. singulis anni quartis per æquales portiones distribuend. conferant. De qua collatione atque distributione incept. per auctenticas literas dicti decani et capituli pridie calend. Febr. prox. certiores fieri volumus sub pœna nobis arbitraria.

XVI. Item, Volumus et mandamus, ut deinceps quotannis vir aliquis in theologia doctus, qui a decano et capitulo ad hoc aptus reputabitur, sacras scripturas suggestu in loco capitulari, singulis diebus Mercurii et Veneris inter horas septimam et octavam matutinas, publice interpretetur et legat. Cui quidem interpretationi atque lectioni decanum, canonicos, prædicatores, vicarios, cantores, singulosque ejusdem ecclesiæ ministros, præter scholares, eorumque institutores, atque choristas cum hiis, qui illorum sunt, familiis, interesse diligenter volumus, nec cuiquam abesse permittimus, nisi legitima causa per decanum et capitulum approbanda impediatur. Lectori autem et interpreti stipendium viginti librarum annuarum a decano et capitulo assignari ex prædictæ ecclesiæ facultatibus præcipimus. Quem suæ lectioni diligenter intendere jubemus; nec eum nisi in mensibus Augusti et Septembris, et in septimanis festorum Nativitatis et Circumcisionis Domini, Paschæ, ac Pentecostes, temporeque quadragesimali intermittere, sub pœna subtractionis alicujus portionis stipendii, arbitrio decani pro modo negligentia dicti lectoris committenda.

By the queen.

THE queen's majesty being right sorry to understand that the order of common prayer, set forth by the

A proclamation [The controversy that grew out of the publication of the "Admonition to the Parliament" was now (1573) at its greatest height, and had brought out and given permanent existence to all the vital questions which had hitherto been latent in the disputes between the church and the non-conformists. Whitgift had published his answer to the Admonition, and Cartwright had replied to Whitgift in such common consent of the realm and by authority of the parliament in the first year of her reign, wherein is nothing contained but the scripture of God, and that which is consonant unto it, is now of late of some men despised, and spoken against, both by open preachings, and writings, and of some bold and vain curious men, new and other rites found out and frequented; whereupon contentions, sects, and disquietness doth arise among her people, and for one godly and uniform order, diversity of rites and ceremonies, disputations and contentions, schisms and divisions already risen, and more like to ensue: the cause of which disorders, her majesty doth plainly understand to be the negligence of the bishops and other magistrates, who should cause the good laws and acts of parliament made in this behalf to be better executed, and not so dissembled and winked at, as hitherto (it may appear) that they have been:

a manner, that in June 1573 the queen issued a proclamation condemning the Admonition and the Defence of it, and commanding that all copies of them should be brought in for the purpose of being destroyed. Bishop Pilkington writing to Gualter and Bullinger on the 20th of July, says, “Contentio illa de re vestiaria se ipsam nunc totam palam explicuit quæ prius dissimulando delituit, ut jam non solum vestis sed quicquid habemus politiæ ecclesiasticæ disciplinæ patrimonii episcopalis rituum aut precum publicarum liturgiæ vocationis ministrorum aut sacramentorum ministerii, id omne jam publicis libellis convellatur, et non ferendum in Christi ecclesia acerrime contendatur. Solam doctrinam nobis integram relinquunt. . . Tota culpa in episcopos transfertur, quasi illi soli, si vellent, omnia hæc mala eradicare queant. Multa, fateor, toleramus inviti gemendo, quæ tollere si maxime velimus, nequimus orando. Sub imperio vivimus, et nihil sine principe innovare, aut abrogare sine legum auctoritate possumus.” Zurich Letters, p. 168.

Abp. Grindal writing in the same month notices the Proclamation and hopes that it would check the designs of the evil-minded. He adds, “juvenes sunt qui ista spargunt, et habent suos suffragatores, præsertim ex his qui bonis ecclesiasticis inhiant, sed tamen gaudeo Humfredum et Sampsonum ac ceteros nonnullos, qui antea de ritibus quæstiones movebant, ab hac factione prorsus esse alienos.” Zurich Lett. p. 170.

For speedy remedy whereof her majesty straitly chargeth and commandeth all archbishops and bishops, and all justices of assizes, and "Oyer and Terminer," and all mayors, head officers of cities and towns corporate, and all other who have any authority, to put in execution the act for the uniformity of common prayer, and the administration of the sacraments, made in the first year of her gracious reign, with all diligence and severity, neither favouring nor dissembling with one person nor other, who doth neglect, despise, or seek to alter the godly orders and rites set forth in the said book: but if any person shall by public preaching, writing, or printing contemn, despise, or dispraise the orders contained in the said book, they shall immediately apprehend him, and cause him to be imprisoned, until he have answered to

Of the odium which the bishops had contracted, not merely with the nonconformists, but also with the court, this proclamation of October, and the following letter from the council, are sufficient evidence. But they had to contend with still greater difficulties: for though urged to proceed to extremities with the non-conformists, and accused in public documents of negligence in the discharge of their spiritual duties, they found that the non-conformists were favoured and protected by some of the most powerful among the queen's ministers. The archbishop writing to Burghley in the preceding July, says, "How secure soever the nobility were of these puritans, and countenanced them against the bishops, they themselves might rue it at last. And that all that these men tended towards, was to the overthrow of all of honourable quality, and the setting afoot a commonwealth, or as he called it, a popularity." (Strype, Parker, vol. ii. p. 323.) The immediate occasion of the urgent measures adopted by the crown and the council in October and November 1573, was the attempt made in the public street to murder Mr. Hawkins, mistaken for Mr. Hatton, who was one of the queen's privy council, and afterwards lord chancellor. It was made on the 14th of October by one Birchett of the Middle Temple, who was moved, as he said, by the Spirit of God to kill Mr. Hatton, because he was an enemy of God's word, and a maintainer of papistry. Strype, Parker, vol. ii. p. 327. Ann. vol. ii. P. i. p. 426. Neal's Purit. vol. i. p. 202. Wood's Ann. vol. ii. p. 173. Hallam, Const. Hist. vol. i. p. 200.

the law, upon pain that the chief officers, being present at any such preaching, and the whole parish do answer for their contempt and negligence. Likewise, if any shall forbear to come to the common prayer, and receive the sacraments of the church, according to the order in the said book allowed, upon no just and lawful cause; all such persons they shall inquire of, present, and see punished, and ordered according as is prescribed in the said act, with more care and diligence than heretofore hath been done: the which negligence hath been cause why such disorders have of late now so much and in so many places increased and grown.

And if any persons shall either in private houses, or in public places make assemblies, and therein use other rites of common prayer and administration of the sacraments, than is prescribed in the said book, or shall maintain in their houses any persons being notoriously charged by books or preachings to attempt the alteration of the said orders, they shall see such persons punished with all severity, according to the laws of this realm, by pains appointed in the said act.

And because these matters do principally appertain to the cure of persons ecclesiastical, and to the ecclesiastical government, her majesty giveth a most special and earnest charge to all archbishops, bishops, archdeacons, and deans, and all such as have ordinary jurisdiction, in such cases to have a vigilant eye and care to the observation of the orders and rites in the said book prescribed, throughout their cures and diocese, and to proceed from time to time by ordinary and ecclesiastical jurisdiction, as is granted them in the said act, with all celerity and severity against all persons, who shall offend against any of the orders in the said book prescribed, upon pain of her majesty's high displeasure for their negligence, and deprivation from their dignities and benefices, or other censures to follow, according to their demerits. Given at Greenwich the 20th day of October, MDLXXIII. in the fifteenth year of the queen's majesty's reign.

A letter from the council about uniformity and a parochial visitation.—Ex MS. Coll. Corp. Ch. Cantabr. Miscell. Y.

AFTER our hearty commendations to your lordship. By her majesty's proclamation dated the 20th of October last, it may appear, how careful her highness is, that the orders set forth in the book of common prayer, allowed by parliament in the first year of her majesty's reign, should be severely and uniformly kept throughout all this realm. And that the fault why such diversities have been of late taken up in many churches, and thereupon contentions and uncomely disputations and dissensions risen (in her highness' opinion) is most in you, to whom the special care of ecclesiastical matters doth appertain; and who have your visitations episcopal and archidiaconal, and your synods and other such meetings of the clergy first and chiefly ordained for that purpose, to keep all churches in your diocese in one uniform and godly order, which now, as is commonly said, (the more is the pity,) be only used of you and your officers to get money, or for some other purposes. We at her majesty's commandment straitly made unto us, are therefore to require you to take a more vigilant eye to this uniformity, and to the keeping of the orders allowed by the said parliament, and by her majesty's injunctions throughout your diocese; and either by yourself, which were most fit, or by your archdeacons, or other able and wise men personally to visit, and see, that in no one church of your diocese there be any difformity or difference used for those prescribed orders. But if any shall refuse them, or accept any other diverse or repugnant to them, to call those persons before you, and by censures of the church and the ecclesiastical law to see them punished. So that what is required may be done in the churches of your diocese without extraordinary and temporal (as it is termed) jurisdiction and judgment, as it may we think verily, if diligent care and heed were taken by you their pastor and bishop. For nothing is required, but that godly and seemly orders allowed by the queen's majesty and the whole realm be kept. The which except ye did wink at and dissemble, there needed not these new proclamations and strait callings upon. Wherefore if now ye would take for your part care and heed, and so the rest of your fellow bishops, the quiet of the realm might soon be purchased in our mind touching any such matters; which should be great pleasure to her majesty, and comfort to us. The neglecting thereof how grievous it will be to her highness, and what danger may be to you, her highness hath expressed in the said proclamation. Thus praying you to consider these things, and with all speed to put order in them, and from time to time to certify us what you have done, and what by your orders is done herein to the fulfilling of her majesty's desire, we bid you most heartily farewell. From Greenwich the seventh of November, MDLXXIII.

The direction of the] “ Exercises among the ministers and curates of 5 churches (called prophecyings from the Apostle's word 1 Cor. xiv.) were now used in most dioceses. The main end whereof was for the inciting those that were in orders to apply themselves to the study and understanding of the holy scripture; and to enable them to make profitable sermons, and to preach in their several cures and parochial 0 charges. In order to these exercises, the clergy were sorted into divers competent companies or societies, by subscription of their names; and particular churches and days appointed, and the persons named to exercise and perform in their order: and the rest, after the exercise was over, were to judge of what had been spoken; and a 5 moderator to be present, to determine and conclude all.” Strype, Ann. vol. ii. P. i. p. 472. Comp. Grindal, p. 260.

The exercises in the diocese of Chester were approved by bishop Chaderton, and in the year 1585 a paper was issued by him, on the recommendation of the privy council, enlarging the ecclesiastical exercise, and bringing it into more frequent use, and in a great number of places. This paper may be seen in Strype, Ann. vol. ii. P. ii. p. 546. Comp. vol. iii. P. i. p. 477. But in the year 1581 he received the following admonition from archbishop Sandys: “ My lord, yow are noted to yelde to much to general fastings, all the day preachinge and 5 prayinge. Verilie a good exercise in time and upon just occasion, when yt cometh from good auctoritye. But when there is none occasion, nether the thing commanded by the prince or a synod, the wisest and best learned can not like of yt, nether will her majestie permitt it. There lurketh matter under that pretended pietie. The devill is craftie; and the young ministers of these oure times growe madd.” Peck's Desid. Cur. vol. i. b. 3. p. 29.

The regulations adopted in Hertfordshire and approved by bishop Cooper in 1574 may be seen in Strype, Ann. vol. ii. P. i. p. 473. The regulations adopted at Northampton with the consent of bishop Scamdiscretions shall think meet; so that they take in every several place of the exercise divers parts of scripture.

The writers shall be appointed to gather several observations upon every verse of that part of scripture, which shall be assigned unto them. And so proceed with the whole verse by verse.

The speakers shall be appointed every of them in order to treat upon so many verses of the same, as by an equal distribution of the whole text amongst them all shall be assigned to every one.

The manner of proceeding in the exercise.

First, Prayer shall be aptly conceived for the present occasion; for the blessed estate of her majesty, of the church and commonwealth, by one of the moderators, who in order shall every of them accomplish the same at every several exercise.

Then the first moderator shall propose and read the first verse of the text, which is to be handled.

Upon which verse the writer shall in order read the observations, which they have gathered.

After whom the speaker, assigned to that part of the text, shall in some larger manner discourse upon the same.

After him the rest of the speakers shall have liberty to give any brief notes upon that verse.

In all which actions of the writers and speakers the moderator's (office) that proposed the verse, shall be to make special observation of any errors, negligence, or ignorance in any of them, and the same to correct and reform with as brief speech as may be.

bler in 1571 may be seen in Ann. vol. ii. P. i. p. 133. A letter from bishop Parkhurst in 1572 approving of the exercises adopted at Bury St. Edmonds may be seen in Ann. vol. ii. P. ii. p. 494. The practice had been adopted in the first instance in Scotland, and rules had been provided for it by the Convention of 1560. Spotswood, Hist. p. 170.

After which he shall further add such observations as he shall gather upon the said verse. And after him the rest of the moderators and preachers in due order shall do the like, till as much be said upon that verse, as shall be thought convenient.

All which time both the speakers and writers shall take notes in writing of those observations, which shall be given by any the speakers, preachers, or moderators. And so in due order shall all the moderators proceed with the whole text verse by verse.

Then shall the moderators call before them those, whom by any information they are to admonish of any misdemeanour or enormities of life. And if after such admonition they shall again fall into the like offence, then the moderators shall certify the bishop thereof, and crave suspension of them.

After the moderators shall proceed against the absents in this sort: viz. They shall at the next exercise, after every such absence, call before them the said parties; who, if they cannot be able to prove a sufficient cause of their absence, and the same well approved by the moderators, then the moderators shall exact the mulct imposed by the order set down by the right reverend the lord bishop, without abating any part thereof in any respect; lest any thereby learn to presume of favour in such case to be shewed. Which mulct if any shall refuse to satisfy, and not duly conform themselves in that behalf, or not come in place to give account of their actions, then the moderators shall without delay proceed to suspension, according to the said orders. Which suspension they shall forthwith certify unto the said bishop, according to the said orders; and further, with all instance prosecute the said suspension with full effect.

In fine, the whole action is to be concluded with prayer, as it was begun.

Q. Elizabeth's special] The writ of execution which follows upon this warrant bears date July 15, 1575; and we find from Stow and Holinshed that on the 22nd of the same month "two Dutchmen Anabaptists were brent in Smithfield, who died in great horror, with roaring²⁰ and crying." "The privy council would not spare them, notwithstanding the earnest intercession of the Dutch congregation, for divers weighty reasons laid before them. But the chief causes of their executions were, because they would not own them for Christian magistrates, and had been banished a year before." Strype, Ann. vol. ii. P. i. ²⁵p. 564. It appears that nine other foreigners who were apprehended at the same time, and refused to abjure, were also condemned by the same commission to be burnt, but were eventually banished. The form of recantation prescribed to certain Anabaptists.
Heylin's Hist. Presbyt. p. 242.

WHEREAS I N. N. being seduced by the spirit of error, and by false teachers his ministers, have fallen into many damnable and detestable heresies; videlicet, First, That Christ took not flesh of the substance of the blessed Virgin Mary. Second, That infants born of faithful parents ought to be rebaptized. Third, That no Christian man ought to be a magistrate, or bear the sword or office of authority. Fourth, And that it is not lawful for a Christian man to take an oath. Now by the grace of God, and through conference with good and learned ministers of Christ his church, I do understand and acknowledge the same to be most damnable and detestable heresies, and do ask God here before his church mercy for my said former errors, and do forsake them, recant, and renounce them, and abjure them from the very bottom of my heart; and further I confess, that the whole doctrine and religion established in this realm of England, as also that which is received and practised in the Dutch church here in this city, is sound, true, and according to the word of God, whereunto in all things I submit myself, and will most gladly be a member of the said Dutch church, from henceforth utterly abandoning and forsaking all and every anabaptistical error.

Orders for reformation of abuses about the learned exercises and conferences among the ministers of the church.
Strype's Life of Grindall, p. 220.

I. IN PRIMIS, The said exercises are to be used only in such churches, and at such times, as the bishop of the diocese shall under his hand and seal appoint.

Orders for reformation] These exercises were in many cases beneficial, in many others mischievous; and in those days of rebuke and turbulence a single instance of disorder would make more impression upon the court than all the benefits that might eventually ensue from increased knowledge and rational inquiry. It is clear from these "orders" that among the positive and visible evils were the following; that laymen were allowed to take part in the debates; that nonconforming ministers were allowed also; that occasion had been taken to attack the character of individuals, both public and private; that speeches had been made against the established government and services of the church; that some speakers had shewn themselves ill-affected towards the state. (Strype, Grind. p. 326. Neal's Purit. vol. i. p. 231.) "The archbishop believed this mismanagement accidental to the meetings: he thought the design was serviceable for the improvement of the people and clergy, and therefore endeavoured to make it answer upon experiment and to bring the practice up to the plan." Collier, vol. ii. p. 553. Hallam, Const. Hist. vol. i. p. 211.

The number and nature of the questions, which may have been raised at some of these meetings, may be seen from the following passage in bishop Cooper's Admonition to the people of England (p. 160), published in the year 1589. "At the beginning some learned and godly preachers, for private respects in themselves, made strange to wear the surplice, cap or tippet: but yet so that they declared themselves to think the thing indifferent, and not to judge evil of such as did use them. Shortly after rose up other, defending that they were not things indifferent, but distained with antichristian idolatry, and therefore not to be suffered in the church. Not long after came another sort, affirming that those matters touching apparel were but trifles, and not

II. Item, That in all such assemblies for the said conferences or exercises, either the archdeacon, if he be a divine, or else some one other grave learned graduate, at the least, to be appointed and allowed by the bishop, as before, be present and moderate the said exercises.

III. Item, That a catalogue of names be made and allowed of those that are judged meet to be speakers in course in the said exercises; which are known to be able to speak aptly, and to the profit and edifying of the hearers. And such parts of the scripture entreated of, as the bishop shall appoint.

IV. Item, That the rest of the ministers, not able to speak publicly with commendation, be assigned by the moderators some tasks, for the increase of their learning, to be comprised in writing, or otherwise, concerning the exposition of some part of scripture; and those tasks to be read privately before the ministers only, and not before the laity.

V. Item, Ante omnia, That no lay person be suffered to speak publicly in those assemblies.

VI. Item, That no man speaking in the said exercises, shall be suffered to glance openly, or covertly against any state, or any person public or private. If he worthy contention in the church, but that there were greater things far of more weight and importance, and indeed touching faith and religion, and therefore meet to be altered in a church rightly reformed: as the book of common prayer, the administration of the sacraments, the government of the church, the election of ministers, and a number of other like. Fourthly, now break out another sort, earnestly affirming and teaching, that we have no church, no bishops, no ministers, no sacraments; and therefore that all that love Jesus Christ ought with all speed to separate themselves from our congregations, because our assemblies are profane, wicked, and antichristian. Thus have you heard of four degrees for the overthrow of the state of the church of England. Now lastly of all come in these men that make their whole direction against the living of bishops and other ecclesiastical ministers; that they should have no temporal lands or jurisdiction."

do, the moderators shall immediately interrupt him, and put him to silence; and notice to be made of the cause of interruption to the bishop; and the party interrupted not to be again admitted, without the bishop's approbation, and the knowledge of his offence. 5

VII. That no man be suffered in the said exercises to make any invectives against the laws, rites, policies, and discipline of the church of England, established by public authority. If any attempt the contrary, he is immediately to be commanded to silence. And the 10 moderator or moderators are therein to satisfy the auditory. And the speaker shall not be admitted to speak any more, till he, after public satisfaction made, shall obtain a new admission and approbation of the bishop.

VIII. Item, Forasmuch as divers ministers deprived 15 from their livings, and inhibited to preach, for not obeying the public orders and discipline of the church of England, have intruded themselves in sundry places, to be speakers in the said exercises, and being excluded from pulpits, have in the said exercises usually made 20 their invectives against the orders, rites, and discipline of the church, which hath been the cause to move divers to a mislike of the said exercises, (being of themselves, if they be well used, very profitable for many respects,) every bishop is to take strict order in his diocese, that 25 hereafter none be suffered to be speakers in the said exercises, which remain deprived or inhibited for the causes aforesaid, except they shall have before conformed themselves to order; neither any other, which shall not, both by subscription and daily practice, conform him- 30 self to public orders and discipline of this church by law established.

The council's letter to the archbishop of Canterbury about the observation of Ember days and Lent.—Reg. Grindall in Strype's Life of Grindall, p. 226.

AFTER our hearty commendations to your good lordship. The queen's majesty of late entering into consideration, how that, notwithstanding sundry good

The council's letter] Strype, Grind. p. 336. The reason here given for fasting was also urged in the Homily for Fasting (second part, p. 241.) set forth in this reign: "What good English heart would not wish that the old ancient glory should return to the realm, wherein it hath with great commendations excelled before our days, in the furniture of the navy of the same? What will more daunt the hearts of the adversaries than to see us well fenced and armed on the sea, as we be reported to be on the land?" Similar motives "of worldly and civil policy" appear in the proclamation issued by king Edward VI. in the year 1548, and in a proclamation of queen Elizabeth of the year 1572. So again in the year 1579 and in other years afterwards, proclamations were issued enjoining abstinence on the ground that encouragement was thereby given to the navy and the fisheries. Proclamations for the observance of Lent were continued during the reigns of James and Charles down to the period of the civil war, and were renewed after the Restoration.

Bp. Cooper in his "Admonition to the people of England" (1589) says, "How God hath placed this land there is no reasonable man but seeth. The sea are our walls, and if on these walls we have not some reasonable furniture of ships, we shall tempt God, in leaving open our country to the enemy, and not using those instruments which God hath appointed. There is no state of men, that doth so much furnish this realm with sufficient numbers of mariners for our navy, as fishers do. And how shall fishers be maintained, if they have not sufficient utterance for those things for which they travail? And how can they have utterance, if every dainty-mouthed man, without infirmity and sickness, shall eat flesh at his pleasure? They can not pretend religion, statutes and laws made heretofore by common consent in parliament to the contrary, the observation of the Embering and fifty days is not so duly looked unto, as it ought to be, and as is requisite in policy for the maintenance of mariners, fishermen, and the navy of the realm; hath thought convenient for that cause, first in her highness's own household to give strait charge unto the officers, for the observation of them: and it is ordered, that they shall be more carefully looked unto and continued, than heretofore they have been. The like we have signified by her majesty's special appointment, to the lord mayor of the city of London, and other her majesty's officers and loving subjects abroad; to the intent that by an unfeigned observation in all places throughout the realm of the said law already provided and meet to be put in execution in this respect, the state might take such benefit thereby, as was at the time of the making intended; which we can assure your lordship is the only cause, why at this time the observation of them is so much urged. Howbeit for that it may be, that this her majesty's good meaning may either be misconstrued by some and depraved by others, as though any superstition (wherewith her majesty, God be thanked, is or restraint of Christian liberty, seeing open protestation is made by the law, that it is not for conscience sake, but for the defence and safety of the realm. Therefore this crying out against this law, is not only needless, but also indiscreet and factious." (p. 99.)

Penalties were attached to the offence of eating flesh on forbidden days by the statute 2 and 3 Edw. VI. c. 19, and to other motives was added the encouragement that was thereby afforded to the trade of fishing. That motive is alleged as the only reason for the next statute on the subject, the 5 of Eliz. c. 5. The severity of this law was mitigated by the statute 27 of Eliz. c. 11, which diminished the number of forbidden days, and lastly by the statute 35 of Eliz. c. 7. §. 22. which reduced the amount of the penalty. Strype, Mem. vol. ii. P. ii. p. 345. Ann. vol. ii. P. i. p. 307. Collier, vol. ii. p. 557. Hallam, vol. i. p. 430.

not to be touched or suspected) were thereby intended ; for the meeting with and answering such slanderous conceits as may be spied and mistaken among her highness's subjects, we have thought good to require your lordship to give order within your province, that the ministers and preachers, which are or shall be admitted to that function, be commanded, in their sermons and exhortations to the people to instruct and teach them to be willing and obedient to conform themselves and their families to the observation of the said laws, as in duty they are bound ; and further declare unto them, that the same is not required for any liking of popish ceremonies heretofore used, (which utterly are detested,) but only to maintain the mariners and navy in this land, by setting men a fishing. Which thing is so necessary for the realm, especially in these dangerous times, as no means are to be omitted, whereby it may be thought the same may be according to the laws brought to pass and perfected accordingly.

And for that the exhortations and doctrines of good and dutiful ministers may do much good in this matter, both to remove scrupulousness and misconceits of some few, and also to induce the greater and common number to obey and observe the said laws ; we have thought good to signify so much unto your lordship, that by the good assistance of you, and others under you, the matter might be furthered, and take such good success for the benefit of this realm, as we desire. Queen Elizabeth's letter to the bishops throughout England against conventicles, and for the suppressing the exercise called prophesying.—Ex MS. Cotton. Cleopat. F. 2. fol. 287.

RIGHT reverend father in God, we grete you well. We here to our greate greefe, that in sundry parts

Queen Elizabeth's letter] Queen Elizabeth having signified her pleasure to the archbishop that the exercise of prophesying should be suppressed, that preachers should be reduced to a smaller number, and that homilies should be read instead of sermons, the archbishop addressed a letter to her on the 20th of December 1576, in which he stated at length his reasons for approving and encouraging the exercise, and declared his inability to comply with her majesty's commands. "For my own part," he said, "because I am very well assured both by reasons and arguments taken out of the holy scriptures, and by experience, the most certain seal of sure knowledge, that the said exercises, for the interpretation and exposition of the scriptures, and for exhortation and comfort drawn out of the same, are both profitable to increase knowledge among the ministers, and tendeth to the edifying of the hearers, I am forced, with all humility, and yet plainly, to profess, that I cannot with safe conscience and without the offence of the Majesty of God, give my assent to the suppressing of the said exercises; much less can I send out any injunction for the utter and universal subversion of the same." (Strype, Grind. p. 569.) Endeavours were still made to bring the archbishop to compliance; but as they were entirely fruitless, the queen issued her prohibitory letter of the 7th of May, 1577, to the several bishops; and early in the following month the court of Star-chamber confined the archbishop to his house, and sequestered him from his jurisdiction for six months.

The exercise was approved by the bishops generally and by several of the queen's ministers; and lord Bacon at a subsequent period in a letter to king James, where he considered whether it was desirable to renew an exercise which had been practised in the church for some years and had been suppressed in opposition to the advice and opinion of our realme there are no small numbers of persons, presuminge to be teachers and preachers of the church, though nether lefulie thereunto called, nor yet [fit] for the same, which, contrary to our lawes established for the publike divine service of Almighty God, and the administration of his holie sacraments within this church of England, doe daylie devise, imagine, propound, and putt in execution sundrie new rites and formes in the church, as well by their preachinge, readinge, and ministringe the sacraments, as well by procuringe unlawfull assemblies of a greate number of our people out of their ordinarie parishes, and from place far distant, and that also of some of good callinge, (though therein not well advised) to be hearers of their disputations, and new devised opinions uppon pointes of divinity, farre and unmeete of unlearned people, which manner of invasions they in some places call prophesinge, and in some other of "the greatest and gravest prelate of the land," added, that "in his opinion it was the best way to frame and train up preachers, to handle the word of God as it ought to be handled, that had been practised." And again in his tract on Church Controversies, "I know prophesying was subject to great abuse, and would be more abused now, because heat of contentions is increased: but I say the only reason of the abuse was, because there was admitted to it a popular auditory, and it was not contained within a private conference of ministers." Works, vol. ii. pp. 516. 543.

It appears that the exercise instead of being suppressed, was encouraged, in the province of York; for archbishop Sandys in his visitation of the province in the following year gave directions for additional preaching, and enjoined the archdeacons to hold quarterly synods of the clergy for the discussion of religious questions. And this is in accordance with what we know from other quarters of the prevalence of popery, rather than puritanism, in the northern province. "There are not," says Sadler, writing from thence, "ten gentlemen in this country who do favour and allow of her majesty's proceedings in the cause of religion." See Nos. LXXVI. and LXXXI. sufficient able persons for learning in any cures to preach, or instructe their cures, as were requisite, there shall you limitte the curats to read the publike homilies, accordinge to the injunctions heretofore by us geven for like causes.

5 And furthermore considringe, for the great abuses that have byn in sundrie places of our realme, by reason of our forsaid assemblies, called exercises, and for that the same are not, nor have not ben appointed nor warranted by us, or by our lawes; we will and straightlie charge

bothe by the quene's majesty herself, and also by divers of your honourable lordships in her name, to suppress all those exercises within my province, that are commonly called prophesies. But I doe proteste before Godd, the judge of all hartes, that I did not of any stubbornness or wilfulness refuse to accomlishe the same, but only upon conscience; for that I found suche kinde of exercise set downe in the holie scriptures, and the use of the same to have continued in the primitive church. And was perswaded that (the abuse being reformed, which I alwaies offered myselfe reddie to labour in) the said exercise might yet serve to the greet profitte of the church; and feared that the utter suppressing of them wolde bread offence. And therefore was a most humble sutor unto her majestie, that I might not be made the chief instrumente in suppressinge the same. Yet not prejudicing or condemninge any, that in respecte of pollicie or otherwise, sholde be of contrary judgement, or beinge of authoritie sholde suppress them. For I knowe right well, that there be some things of that nature, wherein diverse men may be of diverse opinions. and abownde in their owne sense (being not repugnant to the analogie of faithe) without any prejudice to their salvation, or any prejudice of other to other. Notwithstanding, howsoever

The archbishop thought not fit to comply so far as was advised, but still esteeming himself not to have done amiss, he would not ask pardon, which supposed a fault. Nor did he appear in person before the lords in the Star-chamber, but sent an humble writing to them the next day, viz. November the 30th . . . He was not restored to his liberty, nor the exercise of his jurisdiction, as yet. Queen Elizabeth's letter to John Whitgift, bishop of Worcester, to forbid prophecies.—Strype's Life of Whitgift, p. 81.

RIGHT reverend father in God, etc. Considering that our chief care and study is, to see the good laws, which are set forth for the quiet government of this our realm, and among other things as the chiefest, that the orders established in the church for the advancement of God's glory, may be duly observed, and an uniform unity maintained among the clergy, and other our good subjects; which will be the better done and continued, by the diligence of the ordinary, and by the instruction and travel about the diocese by personal visitation, as is meet, that he may rather see than hear, what is meet to be by him reformed; and understanding, that of late years there hath been used in divers dioceses of this realm a certain public exercise, or, as they call it, prophecying, by certain persons pretending a more purity, by the manner of the doing whereof, evil effect hath ensued in some places, to our grief, among the unlearned sort, easy to be carried with novelties; therefore, for certain good causes moving us, we do will and command you, forthwith, upon the receipt hereof, to make express order throughout all your diocese, that all such prophecies be forborne, and none other exercise be suffered to be publicly used, than preaching by persons learned, discreet, conformable,

And further that you signify unto us, or to some of our privy council attending about our person, the names of all persons, of what degree soever the same be, that are the setters forth and maintainers of such exercises, and in what places, as also of such as shall impugn this order; and what you shall have done herein from time to time; hereof not to fail, as ye tender our pleasure, and will avoid the contrary at your peril.

Reg. Grindall, in Strype's Life of Grindall, Append. p. 92. seqq.

AFTER our right hearty commendations to your good lordship; you shall understand, how of late hath been imprinted within the city of London a certain

A letter from the lords] The book which gave occasion to this order of council was written by a puritan of the name of Stubbs, of Lincoln's Inn, and was entitled, "The discovery of a gaping gulph, whereinto England is like to be swallowed by another French marriage, &c." The queen was greatly displeas'd by the boldness of this book, in predicting serious dangers to the religion and government of the nation, from a connection with the royal family of France; but she appears to have been still more indignant at the libels it contained upon the person and character of the duke himself, for whom she entertained a strong affection. Her majesty in her proclamation issued September 27, libel, entitled, "The gaping gulph," wherein the author, under the pretence of misliking of some dealings treated of between her majesty, and the duke of Anjou, the French king's brother, in very deed seemeth to go about to draw her majesty's subjects into some mistrust and⁵ doubt of her highness's said actions, as though thereby some alteration were like to ensue, especially in religion, which her highness hath heretofore established and maintained, and is fully determined with the assistance of God's goodness and grace to uphold and maintain during¹⁰ her life, yea and even with the hazard of her own person; whose constancy in that behalf cannot in reason be called in question, if with thankfulness it be thought on, how her majesty hitherto, for the maintenance of the same, hath willingly sustained the malice of the great and¹⁵ mighty princes her neighbours, as one that wholly dependeth on God's providence, with assurance that so long as she shall continue a nurse to the church, she shall never lack for merciful assistance.

speaks of it thus, "His fardell of false reportes, suggestions and mani-²⁰fest lies, forged against a prince of a royal blood as Monsieur the French king's brother is, and such as is well knownen to her majestie. . . . to have of long time entirely loved and honoured her; and as never could be challenged to have had any evill meaning to her majestie's godly and peaceable government. . . . yea such a prince as against²⁵ whose courteous nature and liberall heart no man hath afore this envious wretch had once the face to avouch a gainesay." (Bodl. I. 2. 18. Med.) Stubbs was convicted as a libeller and condemned to lose his right hand. The queen's affection for the duke, which has been much disputed, is well described in a sonnet of lamentation said to have been³⁰ written by her on his departure from England soon afterwards. It may be seen in Ashmole's MSS. vol. dclclxxxi. p. 142. Comp. Strype, Grind. p. 360. Aylm. p. 40. Ann. vol. ii. P. ii. p. 318. Neal's Purit. vol. i. p. 241. Collier, vol. ii. p. 573. Hallam, Const. Hist. vol. i. pp. 135. 250. Harington, Nugæ Antiquæ, vol. i. pp. 143—161. Lin-³⁵gard, vol. v. p. 356.

Notwithstanding, forasmuch as we know, that divers of the said books have been seditiously cast abroad and dispersed in sundry places of this realm, and have good occasion to think the same hath been done within your lordship's diocese; by the reading whereof her majesty's good subjects, specially those of the clergy, may perhaps by oversight credit, upon vain suspicions and presumptions be induced to think and speak otherwise of her majesty's doings, than either they have cause to do, or it
10 becometh dutiful and obedient subjects; her majesty for the removing of all such doubts, as may be conceived in that behalf, and the better confirming of her faithful servants in such a good opinion of her highness, as both her doings and government over them (the like whereof 15 never happened within this realm) have deserved, and appertaineth before God and men unto their duties; hath at this present caused a proclamation to be made, printed, and published, which we send your lordship herewith. Upon the receipt whereof her majesty's pleasure is, that
20 with as much speed as you conveniently may, you should assemble the special noted preachers and other ecclesiastical persons of good calling within your diocese, and upon the reading of the said proclamation, to signify unto them her highness's constant and firm determination to
25 maintain the state of religion without any alteration or change in such sort as hitherto she hath done; and that as heretofore she could not by any persuasion or practice of sundry adversaries be brought to alter or change the same, so now much less her meaning is at this present, by any
30 treaty with the said duke to do the like; who hath heretofore shewn himself a friend to those of the religion even with the hazard of his estate and life (a thing notoriously known, though by another of the libels it be otherwise untruly given out) and doth deserve in respect

manner, without respect of the peril he did expose himself to in the said voyage, both by the sea and by the land, to be honoured, and esteemed of all those that truly love her highness.

Ye shall also admonish them, that in their sermons⁵ and preachings, they do not intermeddle with any such matter of estate, being in very deed not incident, nor appertaining to their profession; but commanding them to contain themselves within the limits and bounds of their callings; which is to preach the gospel of Christ in¹⁰ all purity and singleness, without entangling and confounding themselves in secular matters, wherewith they ought to have nothing to do at all; but rather teach the people to be thankful towards Almighty God for the great benefits both of liberty of conscience, peace, and¹⁵ wealth, which they have hitherto enjoyed by her majesty's good means; and to beseech him to continue and increase his blessings over us, to the intent that in all humbleness and obedience under her gracious government, we may lead a quiet and Christian life, rather than²⁰ by intermeddling in such matters impertinent to their calling, go about to give occasion of distrust or disquietness among the subjects of this realm. By which their unorderly dealings there cannot but grow great prejudice to the cause of religion, which may be perhaps pretended,²⁵ but in very deed is like by such means rather to be hindered than furthered.

And to such of the said preachers as dwell in remote places and cannot be present at the said assembly, you shall signify so much by your letters. And in case any³⁰ of them shall understand, that any persons whatsoever by the said books, or otherwise, shall have been seduced, and carried into any such doubt or mistrust of religion, or prejudice like to ensue in this realm, you shall charge them by all godly and Christian persuasions, to do their³⁵ best endeavour to remove all such undutiful and unnecessary conceits; being far contrary to her majesty's most gracious meaning. And in case they shall not be able so to prevail as were convenient, but shall understand, that either some other persons shall otherwise deal in this 5 matter, or that the people rest not therewith satisfied, and so shall think that some further order is necessary to be taken in that behalf, you shall charge them forthwith to give notice thereof unto you, the ordinary. And thereupon you, by your authority, shall call such persons be-10 fore you, as in whom you shall find any cause to be reformed; and by your information or otherwise, correct them in their error, so as no further inconvenience follow by such disordered behaviour.

And so requiring your lordship, that here and there
 15 may be no want of your diligence, as you tender her majesty's service, and will answer to the contrary at your peril, we bid you right heartily farewell. From Greenwich the 5. Octob. M.D.LXXIX.

The council's letter to the archbishop of Canterbury concerning some preachers, that refused to celebrate the communion.—Reg. Grindall in Strype's Life of Grindall, p. 244.

AFTER our hearty commendations. Whereas her majesty is credibly informed, that divers and sundry preachers in this realm do only apply themselves to the office of preaching, and upon some light conceit to the dishonour of God, the breach of her majesty's laws, the offence of good subjects, and the great contempt of the sacraments, which groweth thereby, do separate themselves from the executing of the one part of the office of a priest, which is as well to minister the said sacraments, as to preach the gospel; and that by this occasion some are counted and termed, "reading," and "ministering," ministers, and some preachers and no-sacrament ministers; therefore we are in her majesty's name to require your lordship to take a view of all such within your diocese, as do so disjoin the one part of the function from the other, and do not at certain times in the year as well minister the holy sacraments in their own person, in what place soever they receive any portion for preaching; and yourself by your ecclesiastical censures to compel them to execute both. And such as you shall find intractable, to send them up to us, and to certify us immediately upon your said view, how many you find of those recusants within your diocese, that we may thereupon satisfy her majesty in that behalf. And so we commit your grace to God. From London the 17th day of January.

The archbishop still continued under sequestration. The queen was resolved to exercise her power over a prelate, who had not only refused to comply with her demand on one important occasion, 25 but had also, in his memorable letter to her, entreated that in all matters of faith and religion she would take the advice and counsel of her bishops and divines, and would never pronounce her sentence as if it rested upon human authority. Strype, Grind. p. 570.

Non mirandum igitur, si majores tui, dignitate et prudentia præcellentes reges, parum gratos habuerunt Anselmos, Becketos, Langtones, et id genus alios, quos sibi tanquam compedes injectos videbant, ut non quæ ipsi pro regia dignitate, pro legibus, pro moribus vellent facere, sed quæ liberet pontificibus administrare cogerentur. Immanem hanc et plane non ferendam superbiam evangelii doctrina paucis annis, sit Deo gratia, et ex hoc regno, et ex aliis plerisque rebuspublicis, prout merita est, profligavit. Nam et nos, qui sub tuæ majestatis patrocínio vivimus, et reliqui omnes quicumque sunt in aliis locis verbi præcones, divinæ scripturæ normam insequentes, eandem pro eo atque decet et pro viribus oppugnamus, ut impiam, sceleratam, et sacrilegam. Vere igitur si homines æstimare voluerint, facile constituent, post propagatam hisce proximis annis evangelii lucem, sublimem illam regum et principum auctoritatem, multis antea seculis enervatam, revixisse quodammodo, et in pristinam dignitatem restitutam. Injustam igitur et (quod cum bona tuæ majestatis venia dicamus) a christiana charitate alienam calumniandi materiam arripiunt, qui hisce temporibus, ut nostram existimationem convellant, episcopos accusant, tanquam immoderatæ dominationis cupiditate ob-

multo magis si deliquerit præclarus aliquis Christi minister, et summus regni tui præsul. In hac causa fortassis parum ille se morigerum præbuit, et regio mandato tuo minus obsequentem. In cæteris profecto rebus omnibus illum audemus confirmare et tuæ majestatis observantissimum civem, et regni hujus tui, si quis alius, fidissimum subditum, et ecclesiæ Christi dignissimum præsulem, quod et florentem evangelii veritatem suis virtutibus egregie promovit, et eandem afflictam, et ex hoc regno profligatam nunquam deseruit, sed cum omnium rerum suarum, tum etiam vitæ periculo, ut fidus Christi alumnus, exulantem illam, et in quasvis terras ab hominibus ingratis projectam prosecutus est. In quo quidem afflictissimo suo tempore nihil arbitramur illi tantum intulisse molestiæ et acerbitalis, quantum in hoc peperit, quod cum aliquo ecclesiæ dedecore, et cum omnium bonorum dolore, in tuam sanctissimæ principis et evangelii protectricis offensam et indignationem inciderit. Cogitat ille sæpe, et id quidem certe cum gemitu et lachrymis, in quantum ea res timorem conjecerit cæteras omnes evangelicas ecclesias, quæ ex hujus offensionis auditione gravissimos dolores conceperunt, multa nostris ecclesiis et maxima pericula metuentes. Perspicit etiam proculdubio, quos spiritus hujus rei nuncium addiderit, et quantas spes concitarit hostibus evangelii, qui et tuæ sacratissimæ majestatis, et regni hujus tui florentissimi, et sanctissimæ Christi ecclesiæ ruinam et interitum avide et non dissimulanter expectant. Parce igitur illius viri doloribus, cujus vitam ipsi scimus acerbam esse, quod cum tuæ celsitudinis offensione et evangelicæ professionis non levi contumelia conjuncta sit. Parce gemitibus ecclesiæ pastorem suum, et a tua benignitate constitutum moderatorem desiderantis. Tollatur per tuam pietatem et animum celsitudinem insolentissimis et tuis et ecclesiæ et servatoris Christi hostibus tam indigna gloriandi et insultandi materia. Erige piissimorum civium animos in metu

10 sissimis temporibus sub tua majestate gubernationem ecclesiasticam sustinemus, adversarios et sibi repugnantes, et utrinque nos infestis animis petentes, occultos scilicet papisticæ corruptionis fautores ab uno latere, et curiosos quosdam rerum novatores ab altero. Utrisque pro eo
25 mum orthodoxæ fidei propugnatorem, tanquam hominem præfractum et contumacem, cum incredibili christianæ religionis detrimento, et dignitate privarit, et in exilium projecerit. Sed prospiciet, ut speramus, benignus Deus ecclesiæ, nec patietur ille, qui corda regum habet in

fortassis etiam expectant. Sed nos, quos ecclesiæ gubernationi præfecisti, cum a tua majestaté discesserimus, nihil habemus humanum, quod speremus vel ad unum diem posse imminentem cervicibus et capitibus nostris calamitatem avertere. Dementes igitur essemus et vehementer stupidi, addimus etiam impii et scelerati, si non omni cura, diligentia, studio, pietate salutem tuam et incolumitatem complecteremur. Errare poterimus, et labi, et labimur frequenter omnes (homines enim sumus) sed ejusmodi animos geramus erga tuam majestatem et regni tui tranquillitatem, ille solus novit, qui preces nostras et gemitus audit quotidie ipsius misericordiam implorantium, ut te nobis diu conservet piam, propitiam, et benignam principem. Sed æquo longius videmus nos provectos et celsitudini tuæ nimium molestos. Quod reliquum est, hoc unum enixe precamur, ut quæ semper vel in graviter delinquentes mitissimæ principis laudem consecuta sis, ne velis nunc commotior aut iratior videri in præconem illius Christi, qui et initio tuam innocentiam contra hostium tuorum conatus protexit, et in amplissimi regni solio positam cum immortalis tui nominis gloria ecclesiæ suæ nutricem et patronam constituit, et constitutam mirabiliter tuetur et servat, potentissimisque adversariis etiam virginem formidabilem reddit. Singularis hujus beneficii memoriam si grato animo ut hactenus et pietatis officiis complecteris, non dubium quin idem Deus tuam majestatem et tuis et huic reipublicæ et suæ gloriæ diu incolumem conservabit: quod nos etiam votis ardentissimis precamur.

The form of abjuration tendered to those of the family of love.—Fuller's Eccles. Hist. l. IX. pag. 113.

WHOSOEVER teacheth, that the dead, which are fallen asleep in the Lord, rise up in this day of his judgment, and appear unto us in godly glory, which shall

The form of abjuration] This form of abjuration will be better understood on a comparison with the following passage from Hooker, Eccl. Pol. Pref. p. 184. "When they of 'the family of love' have it once in their heads that Christ doth not signify any one person, but a quality whereof many are partakers; that to be 'raised' is nothing else but to be regenerated, or endued with the said quality; and that when separation of them which have it, from them which have it not, is here made, this is 'judgment;' how plainly do they imagine that the scripture every where speaketh in the favour of that sect?" Comp. Keble's note. See No. XCIV. Strype, Ann. vol. ii. P. i. p. 556. Whitg. vol. i. p. 421. Collier, vol. ii. p. 569.

"The false prophet H. N. [Henry Nicholas] the most illuminated father of 'the family of love,' counterfeiting the imitation of the prophet of God in this place (Isa. lxii. 1.) doth take upon him to tell the world of a far greater captivity, not of 70 years, but of more than a thousand and five hundred years; that is, ever since the apostles' times. Wherein (saith he) 'darkness of error hath overshadowed the earth; the light of life hath been made unknown; and the truth hath been hid, as 'under the mask of popery, until this day of love.' He turneth the whole doctrine of our salvation into a vain mystery, and an allegorical conceit of his own; leaving the church no mediator at all, besides himself. He hath framed a platform or new kingdom and gospel of his own invention, bearing this title; Evangelium regni Dei. Into this kingdom, as Vice-gerents, he hath brought, for our ministers, his 'Seniores sanctæ intelligentiæ, Patres familiæ Christi;' and for our archbishops and bishops, his 'Primates,' his 'Seniores parentes,' and I know not how many illuminated and deified governors." Bancroft's Survey, &c. p. 2.

henceforth live in us everlastingly with Christ, and reign upon the earth, is a detestable heretic. Whosoever teacheth, that to be born of the Virgin Mary out of the seed of David, after the flesh, is to be expounded of the pure doctrine out of the seed of love, is a detestable heretic. Whosoever teacheth, that Jesús Christ is come again unto us according to his promise, to the end that they all which love God and his righteousness, and Christ and perfect being, might presently enter into the true rest, which God has prepared from the beginning for his elect, and inherit the everlasting life, is a detestable heretic.

The council's letter to the archbishop about those that fell off from the church of England.—Strype's Life of Grindall, p. 254.

AFTER our hearty commendations. Whereas the queen hath been informed that divers persons within the province of Canterbury, both of the common and better sort, who of late time have been conformable to the laws of this realm concerning religion, are now fallen away, and have withdrawn themselves from coming to church, to the evil example of other her majesty's good subjects, and to the great offence of her highness, who doth not a little marvel by what means this relapse should happen; having delivered sufficient authority unto your lordship, and others joined unto you by virtue of her commission ecclesiastical, warranted by the laws of this realm, whereby you might at all times have repressed the insolency, and corrected the disobediency of such, as therein should have presumed to offend, if such care and vigilance had been used within your charge, as appertaineth. Her highness's pleasure therefore is, that for the present reforming and punishing those that have, and do herein disobey the laws, you give order to have them forthwith convented before such, as do attend the execution of her majesty's high commission, and proceeded withal according to the direction of the said high commission. And first, that consideration being had of such as have been heretofore convented before the high commissioners, in what terms they stand for their conformity; how many of them are at liberty, and in what sort; and how many do remain committed, and where; and such of them as shall be found at liberty, and do continue obstinate, to be returned to prison, and such further order to be taken with them and the rest, as is prescribed in the said commission. And for as much as a great deal of the corruption in religion, grown throughout the realm, proceedeth of lewd schoolmasters, that teach and instruct children, as well publicly as privately in men's houses, infecting eachwhere the youth, without regard had thereunto (a matter of no small moment, and chiefly to be looked into by every bishop within his diocese) it is thought meet for redress thereof, that you cause all such schoolmasters, as have charge of children, and do instruct them either in public schools or in private houses, to be by the bishop of the diocese, or such as he shall appoint, examined touching their religion. And if any shall be found corrupt and unworthy, to be displaced, and proceeded withall, as other recusants, and fit and sound persons placed in their rooms.

And to the end her majesty may understand, what shall be from time to time done in the execution of the said commission, to give order, that certificate be made of the proceedings in the said commission unto us of her majesty's privy council; wherein not doubting but you will answer her majesty's good expectation, according to the trust reposed in you, we bid your lordship heartily farewell. From the court at Nonsuch 18 June, M.D.LXXX. 5

In obedience to which, the archbishop issued out his mandate to his officers June the 21. to make diligent inquisition throughout his diocese of the contents of the council's letters. And for the more effectual doing whereof he sent withal articles of inquiry enclosed, which 10 were as follow.

Inprimis, Diligently to inquire, what persons within your parish or charge, of what degree or calling soever they be, do absent themselves from their parish church 15 upon pretence of conscience or religion; and how long they have so done.

II. Item, What persons have of late absented themselves from their parish church upon contempt or pretence aforesaid, that heretofore resorted thereunto. 20

III. Item, What persons do you know within your parish, that have been heretofore convented before the queen's majesty's high commissioners for causes ecclesiastical, for religion, and especially for not coming to church, that are at liberty, and yet have not conformed 25 themselves?

IV. Item, What schoolmasters are within your parish, and what their names are, that teach publicly or privately within any man's house within your parish, of what state, calling, or condition soever he or they be, in whose house 30 or houses any such schoolmaster or teacher is?

V. Item, Whether any such schoolmaster, or schoolmasters, is reported, known or suspected to be backward in the religion now established by the laws of this realm, that are thought any way to be secret hinderers thereof? 35

(Bodl. I. 2. 18. Med.)

By the queen.

WHEREAS by report of sundry of the bishops of this realm, and others, having cure of souls, the queen's majesty is informed, that in sundry places of her said realm, in their several dioceses, there are certain 5 persons who do secretly in corners make privy assemblies of divers simple unlearned people, and after they have

A proclamation] See N^o. XCII. The sect which called itself "the family of love" had attracted notice in the year 1575, but not in such a manner as to call for direct coercion. An Apology was published for 10 them, from which it might be inferred that they then possessed no distinct opinions, but merely bound themselves to a more exalted interpretation of Christian duties, on the principle of imitating the great love of God manifested in their creation and redemption. This principle, unrestrained by any confession of faith or system of discipline, naturally
15 attracted to it the enthusiastic and irregular spirits at that time so prevalent; and the sect itself became the receptacle for every variety of opinion and disorder, exposing itself to more particular notice, from its contempt for outward observances, and its opposition to the civil government. The "Evangelium Regni" of Henry Nicholas, who was
20 acknowledged as the founder of the sect, is written in such a manner as to embrace all religious persuasions, and permits all parties to hold whatever sentiments they please, if they merely declare themselves to belong to the family of love. "Omnes vos o amatores veritatis, qui amabilem vitam charitatis diligitis, vocamini et invitamini." (cap. 41.)
25 "Omnes peribunt, qui extra Christum, seu extra communionem charitatis manent." (Ibid.) A "Confutation" of this sect was written in the year 1579, the privy council called upon the convocation of the year 1580 to notice it, and the queen issued her proclamation against it; but it was so congenial with many of the qualities of human nature, craftily and hypocritically allured them to esteem them to be more holy and perfect men than others are, they do then teach them damnable heresies, directly contrary to divers of the principal articles of our belief and Christian faith, and in some parts so absurd and fanatical, as by feigning to themselves a monstrous new kind of speech never found in the scriptures. nor in ancient father or writer of Christ's church, by which they do move ignorant and simple people at the first rather to marvel at them, than to understand them; but yet to colour their sect withal, they name themselves to be of the Family of Love, and then as many as shall be allowed by them to be of that family, to be elect and saved, and all others, of what church soever they be, to be rejected and damned. And for that upon conventing of some of them before the bishops and ordinaries, it is found that the ground of their sect is maintained by certain lewd, heretical, and

and so closely connected with the general temper of those times, that we find it still described in publications of the year 1641, and continuing under the same name, with its preachers and congregations, in the year 1645.

Bp. Cooper said of the sect in 1589 (Admonition &c. p. 146): "That peevish faction of 'the families of love' which have been breeding in this realm the space of these 30 years, and now upon confidence of the disgracing of the state of bishops and other ecclesiastical governors, have put their heads out of the shell, and of late years have shewed themselves even in the prince's court." Fuller (Ch. Hist. Cent. 17. b. 10. p. 33), says that in his time they had obtained the name of Ranters; and Leslie (Works, vol. ii. p. 609) considers the sect identical with that of the Quakers, and gives the following evidence: "I have now before me the works (or part of them) of Henry Nicholas, the father of 'the family of love;' they were given to a friend of mine by a Quaker, with this encomium, that he believed he would not find one word amiss, or one superfluous, in the whole book, and commended it as an excellent piece. . . . Though he directs it 'To the family of love,' yet an ignorant Quaker might take that for his own family, and apply it to the Quakers." Strype, Ann. vol. ii. P. i. p. 556. vol. ii. P. ii. p. 282. Grind. 383. Neal's Purit. vol. i. p. 222. Collier, vol. ii. p. 687. Description of the Sect &c. (Bodl. C. 13, 14. Linc.)

seditions books, first made in the Dutch tongue, and lately translated into English, and printed beyond the seas, and secretly brought over into the realm, the author whereof they name H. N. without yielding to him upon 5 their examination any other name, in whose name they have certainly books set forth, called, “Evangelium regni, or a joyful message of the kingdom; Documental sentences; The prophecy of the spirit of love; A publishing of peace upon the earth,” and such like. And considering also it is found, that these sectaries hold opinion, that 10 they may before any magistrate ecclesiastical or temporal, or any other person not being professed to be of their sect, (which they term the “Family of Love”) by oath or otherwise deny any thing for their advantage, so as
15 though many of them are well known to be teachers and spreaders abroad of these dangerous and damnable sects, yet by their own confession they cannot be condemned, whereby they are more dangerous in any Christian realm; therefore her majesty being very sorry to see so great an
20 evil, by the malice of the devil first begun and practised in other countries, to be now brought into this her realm, and that by her bishops and ordinaries she understandeth it very requisite, not only to have these dangerous heretics and sectaries to be severely punished, but that also all
25 other means be used by her majesty’s royal authority, which is given her of God to defend Christ’s church, to root them out from further infecting of her realm; she hath thought meet and convenient, and so by this her proclamation she willeth and commandeth, that all her
30 officers and ministers temporal, shall in all their several vocations, assist the archbishops and bishops of her realm, and all other persons ecclesiastical, having cure of souls, to search out all persons duly suspected to be either teachers or professors of the foresaid damnable sects, and

siastical or temporal; and that also search may be made in all places suspected for the books and writings maintaining the said heresies and sects, and them to destroy and burn. And wheresoever such books shall be found after the publication hereof, in custody of any person,⁵ other than such as the ordinaries shall permit, to the intent to peruse the same for confutation thereof, the same persons to be attached and committed to close prison, there to remain, or otherwise by law to be condemned, until the same shall be purged and cleared of the¹⁰ same heresies, or shall recant the same. and be thought meet by the ordinary of the place to be delivered. And that whosoever in this realm shall either print, or bring, or cause to be brought into this realm any of the said¹⁵ books, the same persons to be attached and committed¹⁵ to prison, and to receive such bodily punishment and other mulct as fautors of damnable hereises. And to the execution hereof her majesty chargeth all her officers, and ministers, both ecclesiastical and temporal, to have special regard, as they will answer not only afore God,²⁰ whose glory and truth is by these damnable sects greatly sought to be defaced; but also will avoid her majesty's indignation, which in such cases as these are, they ought not to escape, if they shall be found negligent and careless in the execution of their authorities. Given at our²⁵ manor of Richmond the third of October, in the two and twentieth year of our reign.

God save the queen.

AFTER our right hearty commendations unto your lordship. Whereas in the last sessions of parliament there was upon good and advised deliberation by

The council's letter] The statute 23 Eliz. c. 1, (an. 1584) (entitled
5 an act to retain the queen's majesty's subjects in their due obedience), which gave occasion to this order of council, was itself occasioned by the great exertions now made by the Romanists, by the encouragement they gave to insurgents, and by the hostile proceedings of foreign courts. In the year 1579 the well-known Jesuits Campion and Parsons arrived in England at the head of a mission, which was appointed
10 to publish books and send forth emissaries throughout the kingdom, but with the more specific object of inducing the Romanists to carry the bull of pope Pius V. into effect. That their endeavours were attended with great success is evident from lord Burghley's tract 15 entitled, "Execution of Justice in England for treason and not for religion," and from the confession of one Hart which is contained in it, and which probably formed one of the principal reasons for the severe statute, above noticed, of the ensuing parliament. Campion and several others were executed Dec. 1, 1581, and Parsons soon after-
20 wards escaped to the continent. A letter addressed by him to cardinal Allen, in which he gave some account of his mission and of the state of affairs in England, may be seen in Strype, Ann. vol. iii. P. ii. p. 418. Comp. Strype, Ann. vol. ii. P. ii. p. 352. Parker, vol. ii. p. 165. Whitg. vol. i. p. 180. Wood, Ath. Oxon. vol. i. p. 474. vol. ii. p. 63. Collier, vol. ii. p. 569, &c. Hallam, Const. Hist. vol. i. pp. 154. 157. Lingard, vol. v. p. 380.

her majesty, with the common consent of the whole realm, a certain act made for the retaining of such her majesty's subjects in their due obedience, as abusing her highness's former goodness and lenity refused to conform themselves in matters of religion, especially for coming to the church, according to the law; forasmuch as the execution of the said statute was thought most needful for the assurance and safety of her majesty's person, and this realm. and the preventing of such mischiefs and inconveniencies as otherwise might happen, if every one might be suffered to do what him listed; her majesty being very desirous to see all her subjects truly united in one consent and uniformity of religion, according to the laws of the realm, for the better service of Almighty God, and quietness of this realm, hath willed us to require your lordship, forthwith upon the receipt hereof, to make, or cause to be made diligent search and inquiry, as well according to your former certificates of recusants, as by other the best means, that you can, what persons there be within your diocese, which do at this present refuse to come to the church, and to conform themselves according to the said statute. And finding any such, you shall do well by conference with some learned and other godly disposed persons to admonish them and by instruction to persuade them to come to the church, and to behave themselves, as by the said law is required.

And in case any shall refuse so to do, then to take, or cause to be taken, witness in writing both of the warning so given, and their refusal, under the hands of the parson or curate, or other honest persons, which we pray you in every shire within your diocese to prefer unto the "Custos rotulorum," and to the justices of the peace at the next sessions; so as the said persons may be indicted and ordered, as by the same law is appointed.

And generally we pray you, to have a good regard to the execution of the rest of the branches of the said act

 masters, and other like matters appertaining to your pastoral duty and charge. So as there may be no re-missness or negligence found in you, as you will answer 5 the same before Almighty God and her highness, who expecteth a good account at your hands and your brethren's in these things. And so heartily praying you, that hereof there be no default, and from time to time advertise us of your proceedings, we bid your lordship 10 heartily farewell. From Whitehall the 28th of May,

In obedience to these orders, the archbishop dispatched his letters to his officers of the diocese with the copy of the council's letter, and several articles 20 whereupon they should proceed.

The articles were these :

I. First, You shall make inquiry, as well according to the former certificate heretofore made of recusants, as by other the best means you can, what persons above the 25 age of sixteen years at this present do refuse to come to the church, and to conform themselves according to the statute made in the last session of parliament. When any such recusants are by inquisition known and found, you shall use conference with them, and every of them.
 30 And joining to you therein some learned, and other godly disposed persons, you shall admonish, instruct, and persuade them, to repair to the church, and there to behave themselves, as by the said statute is required.

II. Item, If any such person, after warning given, shall refuse so to do, then you shall take two witnesses thereof at the least, and cause the warning and refusal to be written; and the same being written to be subscribed by the said witnesses, and by the parson, vicar,⁵ and curates of that parish, where such recusant at the time of the refusal and warning shall happen to dwell.

III. Item, You shall send, or cause to be sent, the same writing, in good and plain form, to the "Custos¹⁰ rotulorum," and justices of peace of that shire, where the persons recusants have their dwelling at the time of the warning and refusal, at the next sessions; that the said obstinate persons may be there indicted and ordered, as by the said statute is appointed. ¹⁵

IV. Item, You shall also inquire, whether since the end of the last parliament, any person or persons within my diocese have gone about or practised to move, withdraw, or persuade any her majesty's subjects within your diocese or charge from their natural obedience to her²⁰ majesty, or from the religion now by her highness's authority established within her majesty's dominions, to obey or to be reconciled to the usurped authority of the bishop of Rome, or to the Romish religion, or to profess any obedience to any pretended authority of the see of²⁵ Rome, or of any other prince, state, or potentate.

V. The archbishop's letter with articles for good order in churches.—Reg. I. Whitgift, fol. 90. b.

The archbishop's letter] Whitgift was confirmed as archbishop of Canterbury on the 23rd of September 1583, and immediately adopted
10 vigorous measures against the puritans, being induced to do so as much by the energy of his own character, as by the disorders which had grown up during the disgrace of his predecessor. It is worthy of remark that in this letter the archbishop's precautions seem to have been taken principally against the puritans; and this is perfectly in accord-
15 ance with the views he must have formed from the nature of his great controversy with Cartwright, with the general bearing of his character on the subject of church government, and with the important place that he occupied in the confidence of the queen. It is probable that lord Bacon was referring to the change which had gradually been pro-
20 duced in the sentiments of the archbishop by the progress of controversy, when a few years afterwards he made the following remarks: "The other part which maintaineth the present government of the church hath not kept one tenor neither. First, those ceremonies which were pretended to be corrupt, they maintained to be things indifferent, 25 and opposed the examples of the good times of the church to that challenge which was made unto them, because they were used in the later superstitious times. Then were they also content mildly to acknowledge many imperfections in the church, as tares come up amongst the corn, which yet, according to the wisdom taught by our Saviour, were my province, I have set down certayne articles for good orders to be observed in the church of England, the true copy thereof I have sent herewith unto your lordship; wherunto it hath pleased her majestie of her princely clemency to yeald her most gracious consent and allowance, to the intent the said articles may take the better effect throughout my province; I have thought good to pray and require your lordship, that with such convenient speed as you may, you transmitt a true copy of the said articles, together with the tenor of thes my letters, to every one of my brethren, the bishopes of my province; willing and requiring them, and every of them, with such care and diligence, as appertayneth, to cause the same articles effectually to be put in execution in every of their severall diocesses and jurisdictions. And because I am desirous to know the state of the clergy of my province, that I may be the better furnished to governe the same, I have thought good to pray your lordship, to send unto me a catalogue of the names of all the ecclesiasticall persons within your diocess, with signification of their benefices, promotions, degrees of schole, and of the conformitie of every of them to the lawes and orders, anie way established by her majestie, and to require my brethren to do the like in their severall diocesses, and to certifie your lordship as well thereof, as also how these articles are put in due execution, that I thereupon may receive certificate of all from your lordship. And so I commend your lordship to the grace of God. From my house at Lambeth this 19th of October, MDLXXXIII.

Item, That the ministers and churchwardens of all parishes do diligently from tyme to tyme observe, what they are that come not to the church accordingly, but forbear the same by the space of a month, contrary to a statute made in the last session of the parliament.

Item, That the said ministers and churchwardens doe, under their handes and seales, present to the ordinarie, or to some such as he shall assigne, what they are that do otherwise, and this to be done every quarter, videlicet, fourteen days before each session and assises, that the ordinary upon such certificat may offer the same to the justices at the said assises and sessions, that the parties may be there indyted according to the statute.

Item, If the ordinarie shall perceave that either by slackness of the justices, or waywardnes of juries, they cannott be endyted according to the statute, that then the ordinary shall convent the said persons offending, and if they shall refuse to conform themselves, to denounce them excommunicated, and if they stand in the excommunication by the space of forty dayes, to procure the writt "De excommunicato capiendo" against them.

Archbishop's letter to the bishop of London about the same.

AFTER my very hartie commendations to your good lordship. I have herein sent to your good lordship inclosed the copy of such articles as the lords, and others of the quenes majesties most honorable privy counsayle have lately recommended to me, wherewith I have already made your lordship, and some others of my brethren acquainted, that were conveniently to be hadd, and to be conferred withall, and have thoght good to pray

Archbishop's letter] The preceding letter (N^o. XCVI.) shews the objects to which the vigilance of the archbishop and his brother prelates was directed; this letter points out the fears and jealousies of the council; the former considering the puritans as the most dangerous assailants of the church; the latter treating the Romanists as more formidable enemies, and the church itself as deserving of much censure. It appears that the vigorous measures of the archbishop had occasioned several petitions to be presented to the council, and that he had received letters from them urging him to put a more charitable construction on the scruples of the nonconformists. The complaints connected with pluralities and the incompetency of ministers had been brought before the house of commons by Mr. Strickland in the year 1571, and had been subsequently repeated in that house in defiance of the strict prohibition of the queen: the grievances connected with penance and excommunication had been brought before the notice of convocation by archbishop Grindal in the year 1580, with a view to an application being made to parliament for a law upon the subject: and the council doubtless foresaw the hostile attempts which would be made upon the church in the parliament of 1584, and were desirous of removing some of the most palpable grounds of complaint.  require them, in my name, by your severall letters missive, to make diligent inquisition of every such of the said
 5 articles, whose nature doth so require, and to certifie me speedily the truth, and what they shall find in every of them, and see the two last articles for commutation of penance, and setting up of the table for the fees, being rather executive then inquirable, to be carefully put in recusants be brought up, and how many within their several diocesses, as well recusants as others, have their children beyond the seas.

Fourthlie, What lyvings there are within their said

Sixthly, That such as are found to be insufficient, and of scandalouse life, to be removed, and care hereafter to be usid, that none of the like insufficiency be made. 5

Seventhly, That such pluralistes as are preachers, and have lyvinges in the infected countreys, may be ordered to reside upon the same for a season.

That his lordship, upon conference with some lernd in the civil law, set down, and put in practise some way to 10 redress the abuses of excommunication for light causes, according as was moved in the last parliament.

That his lordship likewise take order for reformation of abuses in the commutations of penance.

Last of all, That the excessive charges in visitations, 15 both of bishops and archdeacons, may be abated, and such fees only, as by law and reason are due, to be set downe in a table to be hanged up in every church, wherein the severall archdeacon and judicial courts are in every diocese, to the end that men may know, what they 20 ought to paye, and no greater fees to be either enacted, or payed by anie.

Reg. I. Whitgift, fol. 97. a.

I. THAT the laws late made against the recusants be put in more due execution, considering the Articles touching preachers] The publication of these memorable articles forms an important epoch in the history of the church. Strong and rigorous in themselves, they appeared to be still more so, on account of the contrast they presented to the relaxed state of discipline during the suspension of archbishop Grindal; and they met with a degree of opposition which a prelate of less commanding ability than Whitgift could not have overcome. But they were not by any means new; and had the government of the church gone on uniformly during the time of archbishop Grindal, they would probably have created little surprise and dissatisfaction, when they were issued by his successor. The regulations respecting admission into orders had been generally approved before, as, for instance, in the articles adopted by the convocation of the year 1575 (Wilkins, Conc. vol. iv. p. 284); and even the three articles which all officiating ministers were required to subscribe, and which formed the principal ground of offence, were some of them already enjoined by law to be subscribed in given cases, and had all of them been employed by the queen's commissioners as tests of conformity. (Strype, Whitg. vol. i. p. 116. Parker, vol. ii. p. 350. Neal, Purit. vol. i. p. 207.) But in the present instance they were used by the archbishop on his own authority, and as a constant formula; and though on the interposition of secretary Walsingham the subscription appears soon afterwards to have been required from those only who came for orders or institution, and not from the great body of the officiating clergy, the questions still remained, and were discussed with much vehemence, whether the archbishop had not exceeded his powers in requiring such a subscription without the direct warrant of the crown, and whether the church was not endangered by the great accession that was made to the numbers, the energy, and the con-benefitt that hath grown unto the church therby, where they have been so executed, and the encouragement which they and others do receive by remisse executing therof.

5 sistency of the nonconformists. On the former question he had the indefinite nature of his jurisdiction, the known approbation of the queen, the strong precedent of the Advertisements, and above all the force of his own reputation to support him; on the other he rested securely on that undefined sense of danger which prevailed in the 10 kingdom generally, and which in every department both of church and state called for the exercise of a vigorous and watchful government. There was still another point on which the puritans complained of the subscription thus required from them. The statute 13 Eliz. c. 12.
 15 which ratified the thirty-nine articles, enacted (as the puritans maintained) that those articles, but those only, should be subscribed, which concern the confession of the true Christian faith and the doctrine of the sacraments; and it is evident from the parliamentary history of the year 1575 (see D'Ewes Journal) that it was intended to exclude the articles connected with the authority and discipline of the church. It
 20 had however gradually become the practice to require an unreserved subscription, and the practice was now established by the orders of the archbishop; for no such distinction respecting the articles had been allowed in the canons of 1571, and it was the queen's determination in this as in all other questions affecting the church, to rest on her own
 25 supremacy instead of the authority of parliament. But it is also worthy of remark, that lord Coke, who was living and a lawyer at the time, speaks of the statute 13 Eliz. c. 12. with reference to subscription, and yet takes no notice of the alleged limitation in it; and that he mentions the two subscriptions, the one required by the statute and the 30 one required by the canons, as if they were coordinate and coextensive. (Instit. Part iv. p. 323.) The great difference which had gradually arisen in the external condition of the church within the last twenty years, may be clearly seen on comparing the articles enjoined for subscription by archbishop Whitgift with the corresponding sub-
 35 scription required in the Advertisements of the year 1564. (N^o. LXV.) The three articles, as is well known, were afterwards confirmed by king James, and introduced into the canons of the year 1603. Strype, Whitg. vol. i. p. 248. Ann. vol. iii. P. i. p. 319. Collier, vol. ii. p. 584. Neal, Purit. vol. i. p. 260. Comp. Wood's Ann. anno 1589.

II. That all preaching, reading, catechisme, and other such like exercises in private places and families, whereunto others do resorte, being not of the same family, be utterly inhibited, seeing the same was never permitted as lawful, under any Christian magistrate, but is a manifest sign of schisme, and a cause of contention in the church.

III. That none be permitted to preach, read, or catechise in the church or elsewhere, unless he do, four times in the year at the least, say service, and minister the sacraments, according to the book of common prayer.

IV. That all preachers, and others in ecclesiastical orders, do at all times wear, and use such kynde of apparel, as is prescribed unto them by the book of advertisements, and her majesty's injunctions "anno primo." 15

V. That none be permitted to preach, or interpret the scriptures, unless he be a priest, or deacon at the least, admitted therunto according to the laws of this realme.

VI. That none be permitted to preach, reade, catechise, minister the sacraments, or to execute any other ecclesiasticall function, by what authority soever he be admitted therunto, unless he consent and subscribe to these articles following, before the ordinary of the diocese, wherein he preacheth, readeth, catechiseth, or ministreth the sacraments, videlicet: 25

[I.] That her majestie, under God, hath and ought to have the soveraigntie and rule over all manner of persons born within her realmes, dominions, and countries, of what estate, either ecclesiastical, or temporal soever they be; and that no foreign power, prelate, state, or potentate hath or ought to have any jurisdiction, power superioritie, preeminence, or authoritie ecclesiastical or spiritual, within her majesties said realmes, dominions, and countries. 30

[II.] That the book of common prayer, and of ordering bushops, prestes, and deacons, conteyneth nothing in it contrary to the word of God, and that the same may lawfully be used, and that he himself will use the forme of the said book prescribed in public prayer, and administration of the sacraments, and none other.

[III.] That he alloweth the book of articles of religion, agreed upon by the archbushops and bushops of both provinces, and the whole clergy in the convocation holden at London in the yere of our Lord God M.D.LXII. and set 10 forth by her majesties authority, and that he believeth all the articles therein conteyned to be agreable to the word of God.

VII. That from henceforth, none be admitted to any orders ecclesiastical, unless he do then presentlie shew to 15 the bishop a trew presentation of himself to a benefice then void within the diocese or jurisdiction of the said bishop, or unless he shew unto the same bushop a trew certificate, where presently he may be placed to serve some cure within the same diocese, or jurisdiction, or 20 unless he be placed in some cathedral or collegiate church, or colledge in Cambridge or Oxford, or unless the said bushop shall then forthwith place him in some vacant benefice or cure.

VIII. And that no busshop henceforth do admitt any 25 into orders, but such as shal be of his own diocese, unless he be of one of the universities, or bring his lettres dimissories from the busshop of the diocesse, and be of age full twenty-four years, and a graduate of the university, or at the least able in the Latin tongue to yealde an accompte
30 of his faith, according to the articles of religion agreed upon in convocation, and that in such sorte, as that he can note the sentences of scripture, wherupon the truth of the said articles is grounded, and bring a sufficient testimonial with him of his honest life and conversation, 35 either under the seal of some colledge in the universities, where he hath remayned, or from some justice of the peace, with other honest men of that parish, where he hath made his abode for three yeares before; and that the bushop, which shall admitt any into orders, being not in this manner qualified, be by the archbishop, with the assistance of some one other bishop, suspended from admit-⁵ting any into orders for the space of two yeares.

IX. And that no bushop institute any into a benefice, but such as be of the habilitie before prescribed; and if the arches by double quarrell or otherwise proceade against the said busshop, for refusal of such as be not of¹⁰ that habilitie, that the archbusshop of Cant. either by his own authoritie, or by meanes procured from her majestie, may stay such proces, that the endeavor of the byshop may take place.

X. That one kinde of translation of the Bible be only¹⁵ used in public service, as well in churches as chappells, and that to be the same which is now authorized by the consent of the bushops.

XI. That from henceforth ther be no commutation of penance, but in rare respectes, and upon great consi-²⁰deration, and when it shall appear to the busshop himself, that that shall be the best way for wynning and reforming of the offender, and that the penalty be employed either to the relief of the poor of that parish, or to other godly⁵ uses, and the same well witnessed and made manifest to²⁵ the congregation; and yet if the fault be notorious, that the offender make some satisfaction either in his own person with declarations of his repentance openlie in the church, or else that the minister of the church openlie in the pulpitt signifie to his people his submission and decla-³⁰ration of his repentance done before the ordinarie, and also in token of his repentance what portion of mony he hath given to be employed to the uses above named.

As persons of honest, worshipfull, and honorable calling may necessarilie and reasonable have occasions some-³⁵times to solemnize marriage by licence for the banns asking or for once or twice without any great harm; so for avoiding generallie of inconveniences noted in this behalf, yt is thought expediente, that no dispensations be graunted for marriage without bannes, but under 5 sufficient and large bondes, with these conditions following:

First, That there shall not afterwards appear any lawfull let or impediment by reason of any precontract, consanguinitie, affinitie, or any other lawfull meanes whatsoever.

Secondly, That ther be not at that present tyme of grauntinge such dispensation any suite, pleinte, querele, or demand moved or depending before any judge ecclesiastical or temporal for and concerning any such lawful 15 impediment betwene such the parties. And Thirdly, They proceed not to the solemnization of the marriage without the consent of parents or governors.

Lastly, That the marriage be openly solemnized in the church. The copy of which bond is to be set down and
